The translation of texts, letters, communiqués, etc. so that comrades in other countries around the world can read about the desires ideas and projectuality of imprisoned comrades in Greece, is one more weapon at our disposal. That is why, as individuals, with our actions and solidarity, we will continue with all means possible as anarchist revolutionary insurrectionalists, to express our thoughts and desires, whether it's through the letters-texts of our fighting comrades who are hostages in the hell-holes of Greek democracy and all over the world, or through the actions of the comrades everywhere outside in the streets day and night with all means until social liberation for Anarchy

Act for freedom now! is a website and its ensuing publications. It is an instrument developed by a few individual anarchists to make known the ideas and struggle of imprisoned anarchists in Greece and elsewhere, as well as to seek out and spread glimpses of the multiform attack on power and its servants. It is a point of reference, a beach-comber gleaning messages washed up by the ebb and flow of revolt. An individual project within the wider projectuality of the struggle against dominion in all its forms fired by the need to have done with this oppressive world.

It is not a political group, nor is it an attempt to ‘manage’ or homogenise individuals or groups on the basis of categories, ‘prisoners’, ‘fighters’, ‘squatters’, ‘trans’, etc, but seeks to recognise signals and explore methods, encounter the spirit of freedom in its many manifestations while creating a terrain where others can widen their vision, explore ideas, ponder contradictions, kindle their desires.

While aware that digital technology is fused with power and is a major player in this death society we are using an infinitesimal part of it, conscious that it is a double-edged sword whose frequentation must be critical and transient.

clear, nefarious logic. Before sober rhetoric, and the serene obstinacy of sabotage, I prefer the uncalculated and unthinking human violence of one who fires without taking into consideration the legal ramifications.”

We consider as enemies all those who contribute to the systematic process of domestication and alienation: the scientists, the engineers, the investigators, the physicists, the executives, the humanists, and (why not?), affirming the principle of indiscriminate attack, society itself and all that it entails. Why society? Because it tends toward progress, technological and industrial. It contributes to the consolidation and advance of civilization. We can think of all who form part of society as being mere sheep who do what they are told and that’s it, but for us it’s not that simple. People obey because they want to. If they had a choice and, if it were up to them, they would love to live like those accursed millionaires, but they rot in their poverty as the perennially faithful servants of the system that enslaves us as domestic animals.

“... we invite them to look under their seat to see if there’s anything under it once they sit down in whatever vehicle they are traveling in. Whenever there are wounded or dead civilians in attacks against civilization carried out by radical individuals or groups, or even if this occurs in the context of a natural disaster, it will be beautiful in our eyes.

For some time now we have refused to be bound by the pedestrian morality of revolutionary action. We will give no quarter to anyone or anything, our acts will not be accompanied by warnings nor do we delegate responsibility. We assume the consequences of our actions, ALL OF THEM.

We are against the decency and Christian scruples of some who don’t want any collateral damage. To them we say, “before any bystander (ANY), a thousand times us.” The masses deserve no consideration. He who insists on looking out for his own well-being should be vigilant of the fact that a bombing could happen at any time. Nothing, absolutely nothing guarantees that bystanders will not get hurt. In fact, our attacks are designed to cause the greatest amount of harm possible. And if more lives are taken in these attacks than we anticipated beforehand, so much the better. We can say this without hesitation or guilt because we are totally convinced of what we think and the life we have chosen, and we have shown this with concrete actions. Before any obstacle we know how to act. All possible “collateral damage” is not a “calculation error” and it is not “the price of the struggle”. It is a choice: a conscious and desired CHOICE.

“For the Indiscriminate Terrorist, moral and ethical fault does not exist. All of that is contained in the rational calculation of the act, one which says “no” in threatening a victim or mutilating him, but perhaps without intending to harm the person who suffered the attack with an explosive device.”

N.
We have already said in our first communiqué that we are Wild Nature. We learn from her since her reactions are violent. Nature doesn’t halt before urban or rural buildings. She does not stop for bystanders or scientific specialists. She doesn’t let up, she destroys everything in her path without consideration of Christian morality, rolling over the tantrums and discomfort of the usual suspects...
The discomfort of SOME at the expansion of eco-extremism is tangible, as is the discomfort at the spreading of our words and acts from north to south. Let them talk, come what may, they will get angry first and then they will start praying. We will continue EVER FORWARD!
“You may think these acts are ineffective; you may think them the obsessions of crazy sociopaths, or what have you. We’re not trying to change the world, we would rather see it all go up in flames. And if you don’t see that the destruction of the Earth, of the rivers and mountains, of the forests and oceans, is the real insanity, then we cannot help you, nor would we care to. Just duck when you see us coming.”

C.
With the devastating force of wild nature on our side:
Let the war continue!
Before the silence, our bombs!
Against all that is artificial and for all that we have been losing!
For the increase of politically incorrect terrorist criminality!
Down with revolutionary morality, death to equality, death to humanism!
In extreme defense of wild nature!

Brazil: Arson attack against a Santander bank branch in Porto Alegre

12.03.16

On the night of March 9, we placed an incendiary device at the Santander bank branch on Ramiro Barcelos street. Our incentive to conspire and then carry out the attack was solidarity and complicity with anarchists behind bars who endure days and days of incarceration but still hold their heads high, proud of their ideas and convictions.

In response to the call for solidarity with the compas Monica Caballero and Francisco Solar we organized ourselves so that our desire to express solidarity became a fire to reach the companeros who are facing a trial in which they face 44 years in prison, accused of terrorism and particularly an attack on the Basilica of the Pillar in Barcelona.

There are many reasons and motives to attack Santander Bank. For example, besides being representatives of the Spanish state (who have kidnapped our companeros), in this territory they were the administrators of Augustus Pinochet’s money following the military dictatorship in Chile. In the end, these facts are only details that enhance our anger...Any banking institution that tries to hide their genocidal intentions with ‘cultural projects’ or other pseudo-humanist terms are representatives of a system that only inspires our disgust.

Branches of Santander Bank have been attacked twice in recent days in Santiago, Chile and in Buenos Aires. The two attacks were carried out in solidarity with Monica and Francisco. This silent, instinctive coordination of solidarity not only causes a great inconvenience to normal life at different points in the world, but also strengthens our ties, making it clear there are no borders and that we do not need leaders or vertical structures to attack several bars in the same cage.

With this solidarity action for Monica and Francisco, we also send greetings to the Conspiracy of Cells of Fire compas and their families who are also facing another trial against them. Their strength inspires us every day to walk looking for the fire to illuminate the darkness.
Down with the prison walls.
Incendiary solidarity with Monica and Francisco
For the proliferation of the groups of attacks. The beauty of solidarity is the complicity.
Long live anarchy!

Cambridge, Enbridge valve and pipeline sabotaged

9.01.2016

What better way to start a new year than by shutting down some fucking oil pipelines?

Sometime in the night of January 3rd, 2016 individuals stole into the dark near so-called Cambridge and used a manual pipeline valve to restrict the flow of Enbridge’s Line 7. We then applied our own locking devices to delay response time.

Line 7 is another recently-expanded tarsands pipeline operated by Enbridge, running parallel to Line 9 & flowing 180,000 bpd of tarsands crude. This action was undertaken to show our ever lasting love and support to the brave folks who’ve taken similar actions in the traditional territories of the Huron-Wendat, Mohawk, and Anishinaabek people. Further, we take action to counter the new narrative of the state; to swing back at the grossly inflated charges those in Sarnia received, and show that we will not be cowed.

We fight for the land and water; and we fight for our lives.
We will always fight back, whether it’s with the sun warming our faces, or the moonlight to guide us.

Join us.

No tarsands, no pipelines.

Attack on yuppie clothing boutique in St-Henri – Montreal

9.01.2016

In the early morning of Tuesday, December 22, we used chunks of porcelain to break a window of the yuppie clothing boutique at the corner of Notre-Dame and Delinelle in the Montreal neighborhood of St-Henri. We then used a re-purposed fire extinguisher to spray the interior of the store with vomit-colored paint, wrecking the merchandise inside. Businesses like this one make the neighborhood more appealing to rich people, driving up rents and the cost of living, forcing people out of their homes, and drawing heightened social control to the places we live.

This action was in response to the call for a Black December. We chose this target because of all the obvious ways in which gentrifiers fuck with poor and rebellious people, and also in refusal of local politicians’ Leftist discourse of mixité. We won’t live peacefully alongside the individuals and businesses that are putting cops and security cameras on every corner and intensifying the power of bosses and landlords over our lives. We invite others to step up attacks against the concrete forms that capital and social control take in their surroundings.

Leipzig, Germany - Customs Cars destroyed

[In total, at least eight customs vehicles were torched. The cost of the sabotage would amount to about 200,000 euros]

On the night of St. Silvestre, we burned some cars belonging to the Customs in solidarity with all the comrades that are being struck by repression, who cannot be with us and are in perpetual war with States, from which the repressive blows emanate.

We chose the Customs as an institution under the command of the German Minister of Finance – Who would pay him even one single tear? We take into consideration that we cannot bring down the State and capital with such actions alone, but nevertheless we want to put a spoke in the wheels at every opportunity available to us. We will not fail to confront our enemies because of the constraints of circumstances.

We heard that comrades in some countries have followed the call to a Black December continued on back page

I’m ten thousand miles in the mouth of a graveyard, but I’m still swinging with all that I’ve got. I gave the state an ultimatum: reinstate my communications or I’ll refuse blood pressure meds – which will lead to heart attack, stroke, or aneurysm. The state hasn’t budged and neither have I. I’m now out of meds and facing a spike in blood pressure. If I die I hope everyone reading this holds the same people responsible for my death as I do.

Odds aren’t so good that I’m going to live through this no matter how it stacks up. My website is in a state of transition, my access to the radio show is essentially cut off, and it feels like I’ve been obliterated beyond prison fences.

I dropped the federal civil rights action. Fuck the hierarch courts. I’m now relying entirely on the potential of rebels, insurrectionists, and hacktivists to develop methods of direct action to drive this common enemy to its knees.

State terrorists now have home addresses posted at blastblog.noblog.org. These are State agents and collaborators who have employed a program of torture and ideological targeting. So, just to be clear – this isn’t about me. I’m aware I’m not that important. In fact, by the time this is circulated, I may have already sputtered out. This is about a common enemy, those who serve the forces of non-freedom, and a real opportunity for those of us who envision a future that’s not under their control to send clear a message : Those who maintain the program and dig the mass grave will pay for what they’ve done.

And again, in my own situation, this does not begin and end with prison officials. In legal documents, prison officials made clear that they were taking their marching orders from the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The FBI. I don’t know what field office or what agents, but whoever they are, I think it’s important that they find out the rude way that they can be found too.

Just for the purpose of setting out what I think to be a healthy orientation, if the FBI can come after us, we can go after them. And we should. They have home addresses. They have personal vehicles.

Imagine what this can evolve into... disrupting their personal communications like cellphones... hacking into their personal systems...stealing their identities and destroying their credit... probing their government databases and melting them down... all while their cars burn...and their homes...and they tremble in fear in the Kroger parking lot when a stranger a stranger asks them for a light, because a coworker was knee-capped with a baseball bat when stopping for a dozen eggs and a loaf of bread on the way home from work...

We might make minor promises in exchange for meeting demands, but our ultimate demand is for a future without these fuckweasels running it.

And we attack, wherever we are, whatever our situation, until we get the world we deserve. We’re not going to vote them out or petition them out or protest them out or sue them out.

We know that if the means you employ do not require you to wear a ski mask or its electronic equivalent, your just not serious.

We’re serious.

If I’m already dead by the time this gets out, I want to express my deep gratitude to everyone who has extended my life in struggle, and to everyone who continues that struggle.

Gasoline is cheap. Matches are free. We own the future. And it’s time to make them know it. Stay dangerous, Freedom, Sean

11.01.16

Instinto Salvaje began as a project for a nihilist,antiauthoritarian space of anarchist counter-information; we bet on anarchy here and now. We bet on the attack on domination in all its forms, and on the various forms of the attack, in this case spreading information that concern actions, awareness and the process of self-education we undertake as antagonists to all sorts of social construction that aims to develop a new State of domination.

We bet on the collective deconstruction and construction of awareness with comrades in affinity and with people distant from our positions. The spectrum of anarchist positions and visions is pretty wide, so we think it necessary to let discussion develop so as not to turn into robots or mere reproducers of discourses and actions based on the affinity of fetishist antiauthoritarianism or gunpowder.

Our stance as a counter-information project is clear, it’s a space open to all anarchist, nihilist and antiauthoritarian comrades. We won’t hesitate in expressing solidarity with all political prisoners who identify with the ideas and practices aiming at the destruction of all forms of authority.

Now that we have clarified our stance as INSTINTO SALVAJE, we call for solidarity with this project so that we can carry on with it: if you’ve got material to spread, be it news, communiqués, historical pieces or anything that you think useful to the building of this project, do not hesitate to send it to us, so that together we can create a space of ideas against all forms of domination.

We need to understand that brutal violence and coercion are intrinsic to the police’s very existence. We refuse the narrative that the media and the state feed us – that the problem is individual police and not the entire structure of policing and the world they defend. That’s why when many of us meet in the streets, it’s against all police, and we bring rocks and fireworks to lob at them from behind barricades. “Fungi, algae, and ferns produce spores that can travel many miles until they find a viable environment in which to reproduce themselves. W. I Since 2011, what is now called eco-extremism has passed through various phases. Most of these have been on Mexican soil, and in these phases its followers have confronted many problems, threats, investigations, criticisms, defamations, discussions, disputes, and splits. These have affected our ideological foundations as well as our initial praxis.

In that year ITS was born. Our first attack was against a nanotechnologist of the Polytechnic University of the Valley of Mexico. At first we thought of spontaneously claiming responsibility for the act in a manner indistinguishable from the rest of the anti-civilization groups in Mexico. However, we decided to continue to distinguish ourselves.

For three years we branched out with our attacks into seven states in the central and north-central regions of the country. We learned, we consolidated ourselves, we self-criticized, we deepened our understanding, and we prepared. After an extraordinary effort we gave ourselves the task of uniting related groups that had acted with similar principles in years past. In a non-sectarian manner, we brought forth the project known as “Wild Reaction” (Reacción Salvaje – RS). When the right moment came, it was decided to dissolve this project so that individualists who formed part of the factions of RS could continue to wage war on their own. Nevertheless, these groups continued to have the same vision against civilization and the technological system. From the dissolution of RS came the “Pagan Sect of the Mountain,” “the Eco-Extremist Circle of Terrorism and Sabotage,” “The Indiscriminate Faction,” “Ouroboros Nihilista,” and the other groups that do not claim responsibility for their attacks but remain active. Those groups have been doing their own thing since the dissolution of RS, which fills us with great pride and is evidence that eco-extremism is expanding on Mexican soil.

II
It seems like these spores have traveled many distant miles, and we have encountered enthusiastic complicity in South America. Having found fertile soil, brave individualities have sprouted forth; with these we share the desire for attack, and fraternally join with them in word and act. Individualists commit themselves to strike firmly against the technological megamachine. We will use any means necessary and at hand to attack structures and our human targets. We shall carry out these acts with arson, bombs, threats, and firearms. We have birthed this international project of attack in the shadows. We are committed to coordinating and perfecting our complicity against the techno-industrial system. With pride we report that fellow individualists in the south have branched out with the terrorist initials of ITS. They have also adopted their own names and initials to identify their attacks, since we are savage individualists.

III
We have thus declared a new phase of the war against all that represents and sustains the advance of civilization and progress. This war was begun thousands of years ago by our ancestors who savagely defended their austere lives. They pointed their ancient arrows against Christian flesh, opposing civilization and waging war to the death. With pagan pride we recover this spirit in the present, as well as all of the wisdom, tenacity, and commitment of those primitive and anonymous lives. We revive them in the present attack against civilization.

IV
Our actions are our own. We do not want nor will we permit them to be portrayed as “normal criminal acts”, nor that they be presented as some sort of “conspiracy”. Here is where the importance of claiming responsibility for our acts comes in. It is in this manner that they will encourage more eco-extremist groups to grow in other parts of the world that will also strike heavy blows against civilization. V

Berlin, Germany: BKA counter-terrorism building attacked with petrol bombs & paint

8.03.16

It is evening in the city... While in the last few weeks hundreds of cops besieged Rigaer Strasse, harassed people and broke into homes and collective spaces, the responsible bureaucrats met in Berlin together with representatives of the arms industry, delegates of various torturers from different countries and political actors from the entire European area to discuss how these and other repressions could generate more profit. As a small gesture of solidarity for those affected by this machinery and to express our burning hatred for those responsible, on the night of 26.02.16. we attacked the counter-terrorism center of Federal Criminal Police Office (BKA) with fire and paint. In their usual lying manner, the cops said there were 5 petrol bombs and only one ignited and of course the salivating press happily accepted this version of events. We threw 7 petrol and diesel filled bottles, all of them met their goal and provided a bonfire on the walls and a door of the building. We also presented some art with a bit of color on the building and some crows feet for the pursuing pigs. Too bad that concrete does not burn...but this fire was a small light in an otherwise pitch-black night.

Montreal - For a month against police: SPVM cruiser attacked outside of metro Charlevoix –

Earlier today, at 6 pm, a few friends attacked an SPVM cruiser parked outside of Charlevoix metro in the Montreal neighborhood of Pointe-Saint-Charles by slashing the tires and breaking the windows. We want to use this attack as a call for actions against police in Montreal between now and the end of March. As the annual demonstration against “police brutality” approaches, we’d like to move away from only being combative with police during an annual demonstration, for which they can prepare extensively and after which social peace is easily restored. We want to show that the police are vulnerable to sabotage, and that this is possible every day of the year. We want fear to change camps. We want to encourage the anarchist space in Montreal to experiment with a diffuse offensive against the daily operations of police, not just on march 15th, but in the entire coming month. We scattered copies of this flyer at the site of the smashed cruiser:

Why we attack the police
If you’re reading this, you’re probably wondering why a few masked individuals just smashed the police car in front of you. It was pretty easy to ruin these cops’ day; we wore scarves, hats, and gloves to conceal our identities, and dedicated twenty seconds to our direct action while one of us was well positioned to watch for police trying to return to their vehicle. We ran a block, changed our outer layer to appear different while keeping our scarves on, and calmly blended back into the crowd as we walked away. Allow us to introduce ourselves; we are those who never felt content to follow the program of metro-boulot-dodo that schools prepare us for; we are those who see a cop and recognize the legacy of domination they represent and enforce; we are those who want to struggle to destroy the state, the economy, the apparatuses which force us to conform to the predetermined roles of ‘woman’ and ‘man’, and all the innumerable daily violences this society imposes on us. We want to destroy what destroys us, while simultaneously beginning to create a world less miserable than this one. We’re not fooled by the reforms the state offers us to placate these sentiments, because we also recognize that we can’t just adjust the dials on this death-machine of a society, but must set fire to its electrical board. We want a revolutionary rupture with the daily life that forces us into work and acceptable social relations. Outside of large-scale riots and rebellions, we live this desire for something new by sabotaging the systems of domination in whichever ways we can. Many of us call ourselves anarchists, though what’s important isn’t what we call ourselves, but rather the rich and inspiring struggle against authority that our actions and projects contribute to. For us, a police cruiser that can no longer patrol the neighborhood hints at the bigger goal of making the system of policing, prisons, and courts non-functional, because this system of repression and control has never and will never be anything but an obstacle to our freedom. It protects and serves the powerful – institutions and people who have more of a say in how we live our lives than we do. We hope that the sound of those shattering police car windows resonates with you, and that you’re also disgusted by any obedient citizens who understands this as an attack on their own safety. Time and time again, we see that police only worsen our lives. When there’s a rapist in our neighborhood, we’d far rather see a self-organized group of people respond with baseball bats to the rapists kneecaps, rather than see someone who survived rape be dragged through the courts and made to feel shamed at every turn. We’d far rather the people in our neighborhood who are kept in poverty by bosses and landlords organize to loot the IGA or hold up a yuppie business, rather than steal from and call the police on each other. Every year on March 15, there is a protest against “police brutality”. If we want a

I did that in the context of Black December in solidarity with Michael Kimble and all the other prisoners who’ve been taking part in the recent uprisings in Alabama, along with Emma Sheppard in Britain, the invincible Nikos Romanos, Sean Swain, Nicole Kish, MARIUS Mason and the Hammond brothers. But it was primarily as an act of revenge for a female deer that, roughly a year ago somewhere in the Eastern Townships, was found dead in a ditch on the side of the road, while she was still pregnant. (picture of her attached) It will take hundreds of burned cars to sooth my anger about this poor defenseless creature. So I’ll keep doing this no matter what. This is a call to action against the system which seeks to erase our very existence. The survival of trans and other sex and gender minority people is not a quaint conversation about awareness, but a struggle for us to live in a world so determined to marginalize, dehumanise, and criminalise us – especially trans women, and especially Black, brown, and indigenous trans people.

We are discriminated against in every area of society including housing, healthcare, employment. Our survival is often precarious and many of us survive by work which is also criminalised – making us even more of a target for police harassment and the crime of “Walking While Trans”.

Once incarcerated, trans people face humiliation, physical and sexual abuse, denial of medical needs, and legal reprisals. Many transgender people are placed in solitary confinement for months or years, simply for being trans. Trans women are usually placed in men’s prisons, where there is a massive increased risk of experiencing sexual violence.

Just as our lives are violently repressed on the outside, trans people experience extreme suffering and death within the walls of jails, prisons, youth facilities, and immigrant detention centers.

Trans Prisoner Day of Action on January 22nd is a day to acknowledge the experiences of trans and other sex and gender-minority prisoners. It’s about collaboration. It is about forging new relationships and dismantling the isolation of prison. It’s about resistance to state violence. It’s about solidarity between those who experience the violence of the system first hand and those for whom the state hasn’t come yet.

Many prisoner support and prison abolition groups around the world do so much excellent work writing letters to prisoners, educating the public with letters to editors and articles for the media, holding protests and marches, organising queer communities to phone in and demand that trans prisoners be treated with respect and dignity, calling for an end to incarceration. Trans Prisoner Day of Action aims to make this work accessible to all who are in support – we encourage you to hold vigils for those in our communities who have been taken by State violence, to hold an event, host speakers, screen films, invite presentations, and hold workshops to spread the word on the experience of trans prisoners, share knowledge, and build strategies of resistance. Have dance parties and raise funds for people and groups already doing amazing work. Take action. Let’s join together and show our conviction in supporting each other and ending prisons once and for all.

This project was first imagined by Marius Mason, a trans prisoner in Texas, USA. Since then, through his friends and supporters, an international collective of people both inside and outside of prison walls have come together to make Trans Prisoner Day of Action a reality. We are trans and non-trans folks and friends and supporters. We join a long tradition of trans and queer people resisting state violence.

Join with us in the struggle for freedom.

On January 22nd events will happen all around the world. They will include letter writing gatherings, film screenings, public forums, workshops, vigils, fundraisers, shows and actions. See the list below for an event in your local area. Or host your own event. We can help you with resources, promotion and other support. Please contact us on transprisonersolidarity@riseup.net

Incendiary attack against a

by Insurrection News

“That’s why; against the tyranny of the reality you have imposed on people I choose forever the magic realism of anarchy and revolution that’s never ending...” – Christos Tsakalos in his political declaration to the court for the third Conspiracy of Cells of Fire trial in Greece, 04.11.2015

Fighting for freedom includes combating the impunity of those who repress and monitor our lives.

We opened fire on 2016 during the night of Sunday, January the 3rd with a delayed activation incendiary device attack against the headquarters of ISP SERVICE S.A., a private security company founded by a former intelligence agent of the Chilean dictatorship who, like many other agents of dictatorial repression developed their own security business in the private sector once democracy arrived. Our fire managed to successfully damage part of the building’s facade on Lord Cochrane street in the center of Santiago.

We are aware that the companies of guards, cameras and surveillance are a profitable business based on the ideology of security that is promoted by the State / Capital and supported by the social majority who without questioning the discourses of power reproduce and defend the concept of Total Security satisfied that on each corner in every neighborhood more cameras, guards and police officers keep appearing.

and surroundings – France

Lucioles [Fireflies] is an irregular newsletter containing texts of analysis and agitation in Paris and the surrounding area and analysis of everyday life from an anarchist perspective. We discuss different manifestations of insubordination and attacks in which we can recognize ourselves and uncover potential rupture against the State, capitalism and domination in all its forms by attempting to connect them each to everyday life. We do not desire to represent anyone or defend any particular piece of territory which is a scale model of this shit world.

The State at war against fraudsters
Lucioles [Fireflies]

Discourage the slightest form of mutual aid between the exploited. Increase growing atomization of individuals in this society. Repress the poor even more.

There’s nothing better than a population in the grip of fear in for increasing the level of obedience. And it’s precisely the silent willingness to carry on this way that makes each of us a possible target of war. There’s no need to be more evil than others, it is sufficient to be just as inert. That’s exactly how one arrives at catastrophe. Through inertia. Spaces are being restricted, uniforms are springing up everywhere and the fascists are organizing themselves. How can we break the spiral? By showing all the Ministries of Fear that we don’t intend to join the ranks of their war for their dirty interests and their rotten civilization. By proudly refusing to comply with the arrest of our hearts and minds, by becoming deserters of their moral hypocrisy, their racist appeals, their national unity.

Now the Parliament, with the excuse of legislation on safety in public transport, is seeking to punish with imprisonment those reported by the presence of controllers throughout the social networks ... We see very well what they mean by the word “security”: the struggle against fraud, 366 million euros lost profit in one year for the RATP, SNCF and other companies, in Île-de-France alone.

What they are doing now, as always, is declaring war on the poor. Frankly and clearly.

But warning people of the presence of controllers can be done in a thousand more or less subtle ways, just saying it in the corridors, writing little notes with a marker on some of the thousands of idiotic ads, with the time and the place where we saw them ... On waiting to seize the opportunity to pay back in turn those we carry around from one cage to another like cattle.

Greece: Punitive

restrictions and tight surveillance at the women’s prison in Korydallos

8.03.16

On account of what happened last Sunday on the 21st of February the women’s prison now is under tight surveillance and investigation.

Despite the thorough search conducted a few days ago inside prison wards and common areas and the fact that nothing reprehensible was found, we continue to witness an increase of prison guards on every post. Male prison employees are now watching our every move when we spend time outside in the yard. Going outside has also been banned for certain hours during the day in order to conduct repetitive searches in spite of them already been conducted. Every night prison guards strike the railings of every ward.

One of the payphones has been banned from being used and it was disconnected because it is placed right outside of the railings of our ward. From the remaining six payphones only three function properly. Yesterday we also came across a novelty: women prisoners were ordered to go through a metal detector in order to get to the yard. The order came from the prison-guards’ supervisor. After complaints they did not attempt to do that again today. The rest remain the same, the helicopter has not stopped flying all over our heads.

Responsibility Claim On the night of Wednesday March 2nd we attacked the French Institute in Athens with Molotov – Greece

7.03.16

On the night of Wednesday March 2nd we attacked the French Institute in Athens with Molotov

With this a act we send a message of class solidarity to the persecuted militants who fight against the terrorism of the French state. The French Institute expresses the hypocrisy of the French Democracy, which hides the viciousness of the capitalist dominance behind the unfulfilled revolutionary slogan Freedom-Equality-Brotherhood. In Calais, next to the sea border of Britain and France, immigrants who get there with the hope of going into Britain or evicted because of the evacuation of other refugee camps, have set up a self-organized shantytown. The history of the Jungle, as is the name of the favela of the persecuted, begins in 2002. Having been kicked out because of poverty or because of wars in their lands, the persecution of immigrants continues inside the European borders. Chased by border patrols, cops and fascists, and many having already been through prisons and concentration camps, the new residents of Calais take a part of their life back into their hands. Despite the many attempts of the state in the years that have passed to destroy it, this large community of immigrants resists and self-organizes life with persistence in the some of the most adverse conditions of absolute poverty and continuous oppression. In the Jungle there are self-organized restaurants schools, playgrounds, arts such as a theatre, mosques and churches, all operated by the residents themselves together with solidarians.

The Jungle on one side reflects the viciousness of the regime which traps the oppressed in urban ghettos and concentration camps, condemning them to live indefinitely on the borderline. The imposing of complete control is the answer of the dominants against those who counter-attack those and attempt to self-organize. Whatever does not align based on capitalist “development” is baptized as an offense and is oppressed. The Gendarmerie and the police often make raids striking with chemical weapons and torturing, destroying houses and common structures, displacing and imprisoning immigrants. On the other, the Jungle states the struggle of the oppressed for survival against the plans of state dominance. Its existence and vigorous resistance to the evacuation operations are a characteristic example of struggle against persecution and incarceration.

Last month the French state announced a plan of evacuating the south part of the Jungle where about 3000 immigrants, with the pretext of a hygienic danger for the area. The state, in order to break the resistance of the migrant residents, attempted initially to dress the evacuation with humanitarian motives, saying that the people will be transferred in shipping containers with heat, while those who do not fit will be transferred to concentration camps and other spots in France, not with violence but with “persuasion”. In the end the new attempt to evacuate began this week and has the known face of state violence and terrorism. Those who will be imprisoned in concentration camps will be separated from the people with which they have built a community, will be filed (photos, prints etc) and will descend into a totalitarian regime of control, dependence and exploitation by the state.

The evacuation of the Jungle is clearly an attack on the self-determination of the immigrants. It is thus an attempt to strike a project of self-organization of the oppressed. The strategy of the French state is a part of the common European “management of the refugee crisis”, which either comes with an extreme-right wing resonance or with a humanitarian pretext, aims at the control of the oppressed and the creation of new reservoirs of miserable exploited human work force for capital. The resistance to the attempted leveling of the Jungle is a struggle against the worst conditions of class enslavement. In the clashes in Calais the colonial tradition of France as well as its imperialistic interventions, just like today in North Africa, the inherent fascism of urban democracy and its hypocritical humanism is revealed, we again remember Remi Fraisse who was

Lecce, Italy – Action against Poste Italiane

From the local media we learn that two windows and the ATM of a post office were damaged, probably with a sledgehammer, during the night between 21st and 22nd February. Graffiti against the CIEs [Centres of Identification and Deportation] were left on the walls of the building. This might refer to the fact that Mistral Air, which is Poste Italiane’s airline company, collaborates with the Ministry of the Interior in the deportation of migrants locked up in CIEs.

With our incendiary insurgent fire under the noses of those who are monitoring we have demonstrated once again the vulnerability of the network of domination; enhancing our decisions, relations and daily praxis in the direct attack against the buildings, representatives, administrators and defenders of social control.

We have said it before and we will say it once more: the power is never invulnerable, the anarchist attack is always possible.

From the anti-authoritarian informality we organize ourselves without specialists, without leaders or hierarchies, to carry out the praxis of anarchist conspiracy against power, giving continuity through fire to the project of the Informal Anarchist Federation / International Revolutionary Front, because the FAI / IRF comes to live whenever any individual, cell or group creates with it’s own AUTONOMY the DIRECT ATTACK, without giving rise to doubts about their intentions, with actions that are accurate and not indiscriminate, with the SOLIDARITY and the anarchic INTERNATIONALISM being the essential elements of a liberating sedition without centers or periphery that breaks the oppressive normality and creates the perspective of Total Freedom in the here and now.

Actions such as this one motivate the planning of more and better explosions and fire against the misery of the established order, always remembering to combine the knowledge of how to make incendiary / explosive devices with the necessary knowledge on how to detonate safely in the city and the right time to carry out conspiratorial clandestine action.

Let’s combine the diverse forms of struggle to demolish this and any other system of life based on power and exploitation!

We salute all those who responded with propaganda and action initiatives to the proposal for a Black December by the imprisoned comrades Nikos Romanos and Panagiotis Argirou in Greece. The impetus for action and debate does not stop, it continues and is planned and realized in strategies of struggle and more acts of insurrection that hinder and jeopardize the plans of power.

We salute each prisoner in struggle who remains dignified and consistent in the prisons of the civilized world.

We salute the struggle of the Mapuche warrior Matías Catrileo who was assassinated eight years ago (January 3rd, 2008) by the bullets of democracy fired on this occasion by the police officer Walter Ramírez Espinoza during an action to reclaim ancestral land.

We salute every animal and human struggling for their freedom through action against the world of authority.

And our comrades of the FAI / IRF, we will meet against in the flight of the Phoenix.

Koridallos prison court: Trial statement by Giorgos Petrakakos – Greece

14.01.16

On September 24th 2015, Giorgos Petrakakos – wanted for bank robberies – was arrested in the city of Volos together with his life companion Maria Theofilou (who is also the sister of imprisoned anarchist Tasos Theofilou). Both are currently held in Koridallos prisons, Athens.

On October 16th 2015, the second trial against Revolutionary Struggle began with regard to the attack with a car bomb containing 75kg of explosives against the Bank of Greece’s Supervision Directorate in central Athens on April 10th 2014; the shootout in Monastiraki on July 16th 2014, when comrade Nikos Maziotis was injured and recaptured by police; and expropriations of bank branches. The co-accused in this trial, all facing terrorism charges, are two Revolutionary Struggle members: Nikos Maziotis (imprisoned in Koridallos) and fugitive Pola Roupá; Antonis Stamboulos (remanded since October 1st 2014), who denies all charges; and Giorgos Petrakakos.

During court proceedings, Revolutionary Struggle member Nikos Maziotis assumed responsibility for two bank expropriations that took place while still underground (one at the National Bank branch in Methana, and another at Piraeus Bank branch in Kleitoria, Achaea), as well as his participation in the bombing attack against the Bank of Greece (10/4/2014), and shooting of cops in Monastiraki (16/7/2014).

The second trial against Revolutionary Struggle is already close to its end, because the presiding judge has imposed fast-track proceedings – to prevent comrade Antonis Stamboulos from being released from prison before conclusion of the trial (as the pretrial detention upper limit in Greece is 18 months).

Below is the trial statement by Giorgos Petrakakos, whom the media/police have imaginatively portrayed as an “accomplice of Nikos Maziotis.”

I find myself accused because I have participated in some bank robberies. No matter how many years of imprisonment you’ll impose upon me, I don’t understand and won’t be able to figure out why this is considered as an accusation rather than a title of honour, since banks are responsible for wiping out an entire population.

I am accused by this court for three robberies as an alleged member of Revolutionary Struggle. I am also accused, in other accusatory dossiers, for the robbery in Distomo and for aggravated possession of weapons as a member of an unknown terrorist organisation... An unknown terrorist organisation I was allegedly about to set up, or what the authorities would fantasise about... When I was caught, the anti-terrorist police accused me of and tried with various tricks to attribute my involvement in four armed organisations as well as Revolutionary Struggle. Apart from these four organisations, they’ve also allowed me an extra gift: Revolutionary Struggle.

I would not be surprised if in the coming months I’ll be accused not only for the robberies in which I did participate, but for any unsolved robbery that has occurred in Greece over the last hundred years.

I do not care at all about the sentence, and I know that the police are asking your court to convict me severely. For me, there’s no difference whether I’ll be sentenced for one robbery or three. So I’d like to explain a couple of things, not because I want to achieve a lesser sentence, but to officially testify to the truth.

I started robbing banks in 2002, but not because I liked an easy life. Besides, this kind of life is far from easy. I instinctively positioned myself against this inhumane machine that feeds itself on humans. I find this system unjust, a system that supports banks and is supported by them. I consider it violent and thieving. Robbers and terrorists are the banks. Criminals are those who support them. My decision to rob banks was my own lonely way of fighting them.

I have never organised myself in a political manner, and my contact with the anarchist milieu was and is personal and friendly relations I developed with some anarchist fighters whom I met in prison, especially from 2003 to 2006. I respect and appreciate their struggle, their selflessness and ethos. I think that they have justness on their side; however, I've never had any connection with any legal or illegal, unarmed or armed group or organisation. I believe also that my prosecution for participation in Revolutionary Struggle is done for communication purposes, to serve the theory for the anti-terrorist police of an allegedly operational link between "penal-code offenders and terrorists". I was ideal for this experiment of theirs as, on the one hand, I am a bank robber – a delinquent activity, which nevertheless has social acceptance – as opposed to being, let's say, a drug trafficker; on the other hand, it's known that I have personal relations with some anarchists. But personal relationships and likings are entirely a different thing compared to participation in a revolutionary organisation. To serve their own propaganda purposes, the anti-terrorist police wish to charge me with involvement in more than two revolutionary organisations, if possible. It's no coincidence that my name and photograph began to feature breaking news and front pages immediately after the arrest of Nikos Maziotis, portraying me as his right-hand man and other such grotesque stories, when nothing in fact connects me to him, and there's not even a shred of evidence which can confirm such a scenario.

It doesn't suit my nature to make declarations of law-abidingness. I proudly declare that I am a bank robber. If I was involved in Revolutionary Struggle I would declare it so and defend my choice. But I've consciously chosen another path in my life.

My life itself is revolutionary as I've chosen it to be, as I've created it myself, through my choices in staying out of the automated lifestyle.

Furthermore, I have not participated in all the robberies I'm charged with. Even if I wanted to, it would be practically impossible to have done as many robberies as – according to accusatory documents – they try to charge me with, given the fact the ones I was involved in required several months of planning, in order to achieve the best possible result in the smoothest way, putting always the safety of citizens first, even at the expense of my own safety. In each of the robberies in which I've taken part not a single nostril bled, nor did I ever need to fire a single shot in the air to intimidate anyone. Those robberies were always planned in detail, and we always took all necessary measures to avoid putting anyone in danger.

The accusatory dossier before your eyes is a rough mishmash of police media releases and nothing more. Of the facts I am accused in this trial, I admit my participation in the Eurobank branch robbery in Akrata [Achaia], even though the evidence you hold is in fact inadequate if not non-existent. I will not give further information and won't answer your questions.

Brescia, Italy – Claim of the attack on the police training centre and communiqué of Cellula Anarchica acca

'During the night between 17th and 18th December we placed a device (8 kg of gunpowder) at the police 'training centre' in Brescia. A symbolic action intended to cause material damage.

We chose that time so as not to harm people indiscriminately.

With this action we began our projectuality of Anarchist attack as Cellula Anarchica acca (C.A.A) in affinity with the black international, and add ourselves to the call for action for a BLACK DECEMBER.

We are joining this trajectory because: We like the idea of an international coordination of anarchists for direct action.

Our idea of ‘complicity’ goes beyond groups and factions.

We are using the means we consider appropriate, seeking growth in the minimal details of the action. In that sense this action is nothing in terms of material damage, but it is important in arming our self-organization, especially at a time when we sense great resignation among anarchists in Italy.

We attacked one of the armed wings of the state. Cops from all over Italy and other states are trained at this ‘school’. This is also a little signal against war. We are in solidarity with all those who struggle against all states and capital. Our thoughts go to the many comrades who are repressed, locked up, tortured or killed at the present time and in the past. In solidarity with all prisoners in struggle. This is a signal of complicity to those who are locked up: To Alfredo for shooting Adinolfi; to Chiara (NO TAV anarchist) for the attack on the construction site; to Nicola Gai, who with Alfredo kneecapped the Ansaldo managing director, which is the least he deserved; to Nico (NO TAVanarchist).

Greece - Statement of Nikos Maziotis about the decision in the 2nd trial of the Revolutionary Struggle case

4.03.16

Whether outside or inside prison the struggle for us is a matter of honour and dignity and will continue.

The revolutionary struggle continues.

NIKOS MAZIOTIS

Order has been restored. The lenders, the EU, the ECB, the IMF, the USA, the transnational economic elite, the ranks of the “institutions” can now rest easy that their puppets, the greek judges, using me as an example sentenced me to life because I blew up the building of the Bank of Greece -a branch of the European Central Bank- where the office of the representative of the IMF is also. The leftist government of Syriza, which is so sensitive in matters of “terrorism” can also rest easy because it made guarantees to the lenders that the memorandum programs can continue to be seamlessly enforced when the internal enemy is being oppressed with the “necessary strictness”.

As an anarchist, when I made the choice of armed revolutionary action, I knew the price of this choice could be a heavy conviction or even death in a clash with the police just like when it almost happened at Monastiraki in July 2014 or like when it did happen in Dafni on March 10th 2010 when the member of the Revolutionary Struggle, comrade Lambros Foundas, was killed. But the price of the struggle and my choices never scared me, not even now with the decision of the judges of the 2nd trial of the R.S. who sentenced me to life plus 129 years. It was something that I expected as a possibility from judges that showed their intentions from the start. When the enemy shows such fury, it honors me especially because it proves how correct my choices are, the correctness of fighting opting to use weapons against a criminal regime that robs and has left hecatombs of dead people.

The life sentence for the bombing against the supervision directorate of the Bank of Greece, an act with a warning call, with no injuries but only with material damages, proves the fury of the servants of the state and the puppets of the transnational elite because we did not surrender, we did not go back to prison after our arrests in 2010 and our release because of the end of the 18 month detention period, because we chose clandestinity in order to continue the armed struggle, because we continued the action of the Revolutionary Struggle.

This decision does not intend to terrorize me –because they know they will never break me– but those who will want to choose the armed struggle, the comrades of the anarchist-antiauthoritarian milieu and the militant social groups. This decision proves the imbalance with the 1st trial of the Revolutionary Struggle where for 16 actions of the organization me and Pola Roupá were sentenced to 50 years while in the 2nd trial for one bomb attack with a warning call and no injuries, I was sentenced to life and for the cases of the two expropriation of banks and the armed clash with police in Monastiraki the sentence is a total of 129 years. The fury of the judges of the 2nd trial becomes more obvious considering it convicted me arbitrarily with the charge of “managing”, something that was rejected in the first trial. This decision will not scare me in any way. I am a lifelong militant of the struggle for Revolution, the subversion of Capital and the State. I willingly give my life for this struggle.

Comrades do not fear them and counter-attack.
The struggle continues until the last breath.

Italy – When war bounces back: a poster from romperelerighe [break the ranks]

8.03.16

WHEN WAR REBOUNDS

Reality will find us sleeping. The Paris massacre brought to Europe horror which is an everyday occurrence in Kabul, Baghdad, Damascus, Gaza, etc. Western troops – including the Italian ones – have been exporting their splendid civilization of dialogue and peace to ever more areas in the world since 1991, by bombing cities, homes and hospitals. The bombs of democracy have caused hundreds of thousands of dead and millions of refugees. And they have filled countless hearts with hatred. That indiscriminate violence has turned around and presented the bill at the hour of dinner, the football match, the concert, cocktails.

While over a billion people live in amidst explosions in shacks, corrugated iron and cardboard; while we call reality all the cables, buttons, prosthesis with which we delude ourselves that we're alive, reality has arrived. If no government is at all interested in removing the causes that reproduced the events in Paris, all the States are mobilizing to exploit their effects.

Accelerating war on the external front in order to share out energy resources and areas of influence among themselves. Increasing measures of control and repression on the internal front. Certainly their goal is not the hyped up 'security', but rather the submission to social and economic engineering brandished as 'anti-crisis' measures yesterday and 'antiterrorism' measures today.

Sainte-Colombe-en-Bruilhois (Lot-et-Garonne): Difficult to advance for Vinci

Sud-Ouest / February 12, 2016
Technopolis Agen-Garonne : works stopped by the zadistes again. They are still there this Friday morning at Sainte-Colombe-en-Bruilhois. The site is already a week behind. On the construction site of the remediation of the future Technopole Agen-Garonne, on the D 296 and begun there a little over three weeks ago, the days follow one after the other in the same way.
Thursday at noon, about a dozen zadistes came to peacefully occupy the area in order to stop the construction machinery. Successful operation, as the workers cut off the current to the machines before leaving the site. Same scenario this Friday morning: entrepreneurs were forced to leave as soon as they arrived. The work already is a week behind.
Already last Friday, the zadistes had expressed their opposition to this work and on Monday morning, a dozen of them had taken possession of the premises, blocking any movement of the workers. After they left, around 14 hours, two mechanical shovels were found vandalized.

Sud-Ouest / February 8, 2016
Two excavators have suffered the onslaught of opponents of the Technopole project on Monday, during the lunch break. The eight workers employed by the Vinci company in charge of sanitation works for the future Agen-Garonne Technopole, had been forced to stop work on Monday shortly before 8:00.

Italy – Envelopes containing gunpowder sent to companies involved in the management of CIEs [Centres of Identification and Deportation]

23rd February. The first envelope containing gunpowder and a primer was found on Friday afternoon by the secretary of an insurance company in via Bogino, in the city centre. The same day another two envelopes reached their destination in the Puglia region. They were addressed to shipping companies, Asco in Bari and Morfini in Molfetta. Yesterday a similar envelope was blocked in Bologna, at a meccanografic postal centre. This was also addressed to a Puglia company. The link between these companies is that part of their revenue comes from work and collaboration related to the management of Centres for undocumented migrants.

A dozen Zadistes had then taken over the premises, blocking any movement with the firm intention of halting a three week enterprise, which began last Monday. After they left in the morning, two caterpillar excavators were found vandalized 14 hours. The windows had been broken, the tanks siphoned diesel spilled into the adjoining field and the machines had been, been covered with tags.
Some writings were dated from Friday, where the zadistes had expressed for the first time their attention to oppose this phase of the works.
The police came to assess the damage and conducted surveys as part of the investigation. For his part, a mechanic from the Vinci company has moved to determine what can be repaired or if the machines will have to be withdrawn.

For some time simultaneous fires have been forcing fire-fighters from Beziers to disperse to various parts of the city at the same time. Always for small incidents, but each time they cause a significant mobilization of resources. Thursday night, it seems that a peak has been reached. No doubt some people want to test the police response. “They risk being caught in their own trap,” said someone close to the case somewhat exasperated by the events of the night.

Since the beginning of the year, not a weekend passes without the fire fighters of Béziers being called to put out fires to vehicles.
In the night from Saturday to Sunday, a scooter was set on fire ... in place des Casernes. The fire then spread to an electrical transformer requiring the intervention of EDF agents. This intervention mobilized the fire brigade for over an hour. Twenty minutes after the alarm went off, a car was totally destroyed by fire in rue des Lavandes. A fence and a hedge were also damaged. While this last fire was ongoing, another car was set alight, in rue du Béarn.

Reply to the text entitled ‘Under pressure’.
The main push to action is not pressure that makes us explode, but unlimited passion that liberates.
That is what pushed us to arm ourselves that night in Brescia: The passion of trying to free ourselves from exploitation, that of a life that deserves to be lived, the passion for freedom.
Passions are desires transformed into action, the most wonderful gestures of life in the face of the pervasive banality of the spectacle. It is this passion without limits that exploded that night in Brescia.

The questions we put to who wrote that text are:

Do actions not speak for themselves?
Why talk about actions now?
We didn’t like reading ‘this is the pressure that exploded that night in Brescia’, concerning that action, even it was written in ‘good faith’. We didn’t live it like that.
Actions per se don’t always speak for themselves, and this is proof of it.

Lecce, Italy: Arrested three comrades for the struggle against the CIE detention centre in Brindisi

14.01.2016

Following a greeting in front of the CIE of Brindisi – Restinco three comrades of Lecce were arrested on charges of resistance and non-authorized demonstration. They are now under house arrest. Below the leaflet distributed during the march that took place on January 10 in the city centre in solidarity with the arrested:
Since the beginning of October 2015, in the district of Restinco in Brindisi, a CIE(immigration detention centre for identification and expulsion) is open again after several revolts of those locked up inside had rendered it unfit for use. The CIE are true concentration camps where undocumented immigrants are detained. Life in a CIE is made up of harassment by soldiers and police and good earnings for the management bodies: in the case of Restinco, the cooperative Auxilium.
Since the reopening of the centre some comrades often went outside those walls to bring solidarity to those locked up. After repeatedly being held by police, on Saturday, Jan. 9, three of them were arrested on charges of illegal demonstration and resisting a public official. We would reiterate that the main goal of repression is to make sure that this camp remains a place of segregation totally isolated and unknown to most people.
Who is indifferent is complicit in these camps.

Besançon, France: Attack of the premises of the PS and the Red Cross

16.01.16

A small gesture in solidarity with the undocumented and comrades in the dirty paws of the State

... At a time when the State is entrenching the state of emergency in the constitution and multiplying draconian laws, when blue and kaki uniforms are surging in the streets to assure the peace of the rich and dominant, when it is extending prison beyond the walls, when raids and deportations of undocumented are multiplying ... it’s time to attack!

That is why, during the night of December 23 to 24 2015, the PS [Socialist Party] office had its facade covered in black paint. At the same time, the lock on the front door of the Red Cross, whose premises are located at the beginning of Gaulard Avenue, was sabotaged with glue.

The reasons for this last attack are obvious: this humanitarian organization - which has a long history of collaboration with the powers that be (from the Second World War and its collaboration with the Nazis up until today) - organizes raids, manages migrant flows alongside the police forces and murderous guards of the FRONTEx Agency, administers the detention centres ... It is entirely responsible for the miserable plight of the undocumented.

Right now, this humanitarian organization – perfectly in gear with this world of borders and poverty – is currently distinguishing itself at the Franco-Italian border between Menton and Ventimiglia, by chartering its lorries to transfer migrants to detention centres. The structures of the enemy can be found at every street corner.
Let’s not bow down to the state of emergency!
Against the State, its cops, its borders!
Sabotage the deportation machine!

Haute-Durance, France: Damage to machines on the THT [VHV] renovation site

16.01.16

The proliferation of damage to machinery on the Haute-Durance electrical renovation project has led the Hautes-Alpes CCI [Chambers of Commerce and Industry] and the Construction Federation to express their “indignation”. They thus decided to publish several pictures of “sabotage” found in recent days. Denouncing “the sad spectacle that the objectors to the project are giving us,” they call for “calm and the smooth progress of the Haute-Durance site, in the interest of everyone.”

“This degradation has a direct impact on the construction site itself, which is being slowed down, but especially on the high-Alpine construction companies of BTP present on the site which, we recall, are in an extremely difficult economic situation”, indicates in a joint statement Eric Gorde, president of ICC, and Stéphane Scarafagio, president of the federation of BTP 05. Pointing out that “these companies employ 1,000 people in the region.”

The ICC and the federation BTP defend “the merits of the Haute-Durance project. The work aims to sustainably guarantee the security of the power supply but also in this way to develop the local economy. Economic development is reflected in the direct, indirect and induced impacts of the presence of the site on the department but is also defined by the number of local companies involved in the project. These long-term facilities will shortly allow digital inclusion through the installation of 200 kilometers of optic fibre lines, maintaining a quality electrical distribution service for High Alpine residents but also for the many tourists. The Haute-Durance site is therefore

Police officers were aimed at and stoned by several groups of individuals, on the night of Thursday 4 to Friday, February 5, in the district of La Devèze, Beziers. Thursday, February 4, at 21.00, two garbage containers in the parking lot of the nursery staff of La Farandole, were set on fire. The fire engulfed the gas and electricity safety systems. Thick smoke poured through the false ceiling and engulfed the building. Despite the rapid intervention of fire-fighters who immediately ventilated the rooms, the nursery could not open on Friday morning: the heating does not work, the premises need to be cleaned and the shutters of the building entrance have been torn off ... Meanwhile, not far away, another trash container was set alight, in Place de l’Eglise, also in the La Devèze district. But at this site the unexpected happened. Indeed, as is the procedure in such cases, the police accompanied the firefighters so that they could intervene in safety. Thursday evening, police of the urban safety brigade and a crew of the bac accompanied by the sub-prefect of Béziers, Christian Pouget, were the first to arrive on site. They fell into an ambush. In fact, according to those with access to the records about forty people turned up and dispersed into several groups, stones and concrete blocks in their hands. They then copiously stoned the vehicles forcing the

Turkey – Letter from imprisoned vegan anarchist Osman Evcan
2.03.16

Hi,
I wish everyone healthy, pleasant, free lives, I send my love and greetings.
I was exiled from Kocaeli No 1 F Typ prison on 05.02.2016 and taken to Silivri prison by force.
Our VEGAN ALIMENTATION RIGHT, which we have obtained through hunger strike in Kocaeli No:1 F Type Prison is totally usurped and destroyed in Silivri No:6 L Type Prison, which I have been exiled=transferred to. The aim of this exile=transfer was to practice the violation of right in Silivri No:6 L Type Prison. This planned scheme is put into action in this prison.
From the day I have arrived to this prison, I have faced violation of rights. To put an end to these inhumane practices and violation of rights; I have written petitions heaps of times. Till this moment, none of my petitions are answered. The violation of rights neither have ended, they are still going on.
The meetings, dialogues we have been doing for the last 15 days and the petition letters we have written to end the violation of rights have not yielded any results. The violations of rights are still present. I have started the indefinite hunger strike protest today (22nd February 2016) to resist the practiced usurpation of rights, violation of rights and the restitution of our humanitarian rights. I will continue my hunger strike until the violation of rights end and our humanitarian vital rights are restituted.
The demands of my Indefinite Hunger Strike Protest;
1- The right of vegan alimentation which we have obtained through hunger strike in Kocaeli No:1 F Type Prison is completely destroyed.
Yet entitlement of this right is acquired through Indefinite Hunger Strike Protest and through the support and solidarity protests of public opinion. This right is legitimate, legal, judicial and is a fundamental right of human.
The formation of these humane rights is ensured during the period of protest; with the recognition and approval of the Ministry of Justice and with the dialogues carried on mutually. By agreeing upon certain fundamental rights, our problem of Vegan Alimentation was resolved.
Our obtained, fundamental, humane Right of Vegan Alimentation is aimed to be destroyed by exile=transfer. This violation of right is planned by Kocaeli No:1 F Type Prison Administration and Ministry of Justice and therefore the exile=transfer is realized. The area of practice is the Silivri No:6 L Type Prison itself.

We want the violation of our acquired, legitimate, legal, humane VEGAN ALIMENTATION RIGHT; which is planned through the exile=transfer, to come to and end.
Therefore, a -Our right of ordering and shipping the vegan food and products we need from Vegan Dükkan (Vegan Store) should be restituted in this prison as a humanitarian, legal and legitimate right.
b – The prison canteen should provide and sell vegan food and products which vegan and vegetarian prisoners are in need of. Regarding this issue, we have communicated a list of vegan products that vegan and vegetarian prisoners need, to the prison administration. These products we need shall be provided and sold by the canteen.
c- The facility and right to buy raw vegetables (such as cauliflower, savoy cabbage and potatoes etc.) that vegan and vegetarian prisoners need, should be provided.
d- Vegan and vegetarian prisoners shall be weekly provided with seasonal raw vegetable as bulks within subsistence allowance. Seasonal raw fruits; broccoli, cauliflower, savoy cabbage, leek, potatoes, carrot, parsley, lettuce, dill etc.
we do not accept and eat non-seasonal greenhouse product vegetables (tomatoe, green pepper, cucumber etc.) and canned products.
e- Sufficient amount of boiled, salt and fat-free grain and legume products shall be provided to us.
f- An ELECTRIC STOVE shall be provided to vegan, vegetarian prisoners in order to cook.
2- I have been taken to Silivri No:6 L Type Prison via exile-transfer on 05.02.2016. Since then I am withhold in the short stay unit which lacks a exercise yard. This is an inhumane, unlawful, oppressive and authoritarian execution. Such executions aimed at suppressing, oppressing and intimidating prisoners shall be stopped. A new cell with ventilation yard shall be arranged.

3- During entrances and exits through the X-Ray door, our shoes are taken off by the commissioned officer and we are ordered to pass without putting on sandals. This practice shall stop. We shall be allowed to pass from X-Ray door with sandals.
4- CAMERAS are placed in our rooms to pry, control, peep the prisoners. The camera placement is an attempt to attack to the lives of the political prisoners. This practice shall stop.
If this practice is protested and the CAMERA IS DISABLED (by changing the route or by breaking it), arbitrary disciplinary penalty investigation is enforced. Until now, three disciplinary penalty investigation about me is started. These penal sanctions are aimed to destroy our fundamental humanitarian rights. Such penalty investigations directed towards prisoners shall be completely annuled.
5- We cannot purchase our choice of newspapers and magazines from the outer canteen. The demanded newspapers and journals should be ordered and the opportunity and right to purchase them via outer canteen shall be granted.
6- 10 books are allowed per room. All books, magazines and alike documents brought with us shall be given to us without any restrictions.
7- Fixed assets such as wallboard, table, chair, wooden bedstand that are provided without charge by the prison administration in other adminisrations are sold to prisoners in this prison. This arbitrary practice shall be terminated.
8- The clippings that include the barcodes and postal receipts of the faxes, Express Mail Service letters, registered letters, registered letters with return receipt written to our friends and relatives are not handed to us. There is no way we can find out if they are actually sending our letters. This is an arbitrary, unlawful practice. This arbitrary practice shall be terminated.
9- The present central television broadcast does not include IMC TV and YOL TV channels. Our request for inclusion o IMC TV and YOL TV to the prison central Office broadcast shall be accepted.
10- When using our weekly call, we are not allowed to call again the next day if the calls are not answered or if our families are not present at home during that day. Therefore a violation of right is exercised. This practice shall be terminated. We should be able to call our families in the following days of the week and be able to establish telephone contact.
With love and respect,

Prison Society: An account of the 2016 New Year’s Noise Demonstration Mass Arrest at Schiphol-Oost Detention Centre by Xander

Yesterday I was held hostage, formally arrested and then held in a migrant detention center by military police in the Netherlands. I was processed at the military police headquarters and dragged from holding cell to holding cell, eventually arriving to a long-term prison cell that to my surprise was nicer than most university dorm rooms I had ever visited and lived in. Standing in the cell and looking out the window, an airport draped the background of stylistically impressed fortified walls that enclosed an orderly grass square, ATM and a playground surrounded by surveillance cameras and barbwire. This place was just a gated community or a housing estate with more fortification, guards and a life explicitly regimented to totalitarian control. These niceties do not change the fact that it is a prison, but the order and architecture of the prison saturates everything, everywhere in(modern) society—transforming and homogenizing the environments that people inhabit.

Now might be a time to start from the beginning. After just moving to the Netherlands, by chance I ran into someone who I met a year ago. That night they told me about a New Year’s Eve noise demonstration at a migrant detention center outside Schiphol airport—the Schiphol-Oost Detention Centre—that can theoretically hold migrants indefinitely with people talking about sentences of up to a year and a half for not having state approved paper work. After the noise demonstration, there would supposedly be an after party at an industrial plant turned into a squat that has existed for seventeen years. This sounded fun and less boring than the normal New Year’s Eve party routine by bringing a little bit of party to the captive refugees.

Sure enough, as the story goes, I went to the meet up point, here a well-prepared legal support collective handed out information, phone number for a lawyer, and collected contract information in case something happened. This surprised me as there is always the possibility of arrest at a noise demo, but I thought it was overkill and that they were indirectly preaching the gospel of law, but I was wrong because it would prove to come in handy. Eventually three buses and an assortment of cars headed to

For more on this day, to get ideas and to give report backs, you can visit <http://transprisoners.net/> For more on Marius Mason’s case you can visit <http://supportmariusmason.org/> If you’d like to send our guest an email to get ideas on how to proceed, you can write Gary at gcwagaman@gmail.com We also feature a segment from Dissident Island Radio’s mid December show of 2015 about the changed security situation in France since the Paris attacks by Daesh-affiliated militants. The host of Dissident Island speaks with Camille, the name for anyone coming from the ZAD and speaking about experiences there. In this segment, Camille talks about the State of Emergency declared by the government of President Francoise Hollande, the suspensions of rights to publicly gather, the extension of the State of Emergency for 3 months, the challenges to folks with dual citizenship, the nighttime raids of immigrant communities and experiences of the folks at the ZAD as they enter a period of possible eviction. Camille also talks about how the ZAD at times acts as a refuge to immigrants and refugees seeking a break from state repression on a self-defended land project.

eventually joined the demo in the neighbourhood. The new Assillo has been visited by hundreds of people over three months – for talks, dinners, concerts. Many of these people are at today’s solidarity demo, including the workers in struggle at Ovrea. Some residents of the neighbourhood come along curious. Someone brings food. Some other goes on cursing. Two banners hastily written with markers appear on the balconies of the houses neighbouring the Nave: ‘In solidarity with you’ and ‘Empty houses stink of rot and defeat’.

Precious words that fly over a street full of military boots, shields and uniforms. Three hundred officers deployed to evict a dozen comrades, while policechief D’Ambrosio, just as he had done with Villa Assillo, talks rubbishand demands the squatters to repay about 50 thousand euros spent... for their eviction. But the poor police chief is right about two things. The first is that it was wise for the Police to wait the end of Christmas’s little markets in order to avoid marches in the centre... The second is that the Assillo squatters will be squatting again. The ITESA empty flats ready for property speculation are a thousand three hundred. To react to squatting by militarizing the neighbourhoods, demolishing roofs and walling up doors and windows won’t do it. We are those of what’s important is what’s right, not what’s legal. Czech Republic – Prague – Police cars set on fire with solidarity with anarchist Martin Ignaèák

Sun, 28 Feb 2016 We receive and spread: Communique: Police cars set on fire with solidarity with anarchist Martin Ignaèák. A fire of two police cars took place on 14th February 2016 right by the police office at Nad Úpademstreet. The fire itself was initiated by time flammable device. The network of revolutionary cells (SRB) – Solidarity subversion cell, is responsible for this sabotage. The cars were set on fire in solidarity with anarchist Martin Ignaèák. He is being held in Prague – Pankrác prison, where he is being tortured. Martin, as a fighter against capitalism is facing attacks from those, who want to keep the continuity of capitalism exploitation. Prisoning is one of those attacks. The other one then is refusing to give him the food he needs. Martin is vegan and he has good reasons for being so. He doesn’t want to eat bodies of unnecessary killed animals. He also doesn’t want to eat eggs, milk and other products from which the animals suffered. Before he was taken into custody he was eating only plant based food, that means vegan food. And the prison administration doesn’t respect it. They’re refusing to give him vegan food, although vegan food is a part of the prison administration’s rules, not to mention that the other prisoned vegans are being given vegan food with no problem at all. Martin is in no doubt being tortured, and it can lead to a very serious health problems or death. These torturing methods that are used against Martin Ignaèák are unacceptable. We don’t believe that it will help if we just ask the institution of state, because they’re part of the problem. So anarchists are rather choosing direct action. Solidarity expressed in subversive activity against structures, that torture our comrade and makes sure the capitalism continues. Police is a part of these structures. That’s why the sabotage was on their cars, because the cars are technologies that help with oppression. Martin Ignaèák is now waiting in prison for the official court process. On spectacle where the society will be scared away by terrorism and extremism – the words, that the state’s servants like to use when they speak about anarchism so that the emancipation substance would be hidden from people that otherwise have a lot of reasons to rage with us. The official court process will for sure be a big demonstration of power. Theater scene in which the main character will be a big monster that everyone is afraid of. This role will be played by the states and their servants. There are no doubts, that the verdict was already said a long time ago. Martin Ignaèák was sentenced to die. And it’s starting off by not giving him the food he needs to survive. The network of revolutionary cells will not tolerate this. Our subversion will be present until we won’t get what we want. In the short term horizon, we want dignity for Martin Ignaèák. In a long time horizon, we want to destroy the system that makes us and Martin lose our dignity. Solidarity with Martin Ignaèák! Solidarity with everyone who is facing oppression from the state! Solidarity subversion cell / The network of revolutionary cells (SRB) – 14. 2. 2016 revolucnibunky

one digit too many in their Dunbar number: at most you will be a headline and then you will be forgotten. Your identifying with the death of the “citizen” or “child of God” hundreds and thousands of miles away is a way to manipulate you into doing what society wants: it’s a tool of domestication, and that’s it.

The poet Robinson Jeffers once stated that cruelty was the most natural thing, yet civilized man mistakes it out to be contrary to nature. Some tribes in what is now northern California were observed by the Europeans to be the most peaceful and the most violent at the same time: peaceful in that they had no organized warfare, violent because that’s how they settled inter-personal disputes. Those who cower in disgust at individualist acts of violence are really defending the right of the State and civilization to have exclusive power of life and death over civilized human animals. They’re its property, so how dare those eco-terrorists impinge on that right, as well as the right of 10,000 years of civilized law and order to decide who lives or who dies!

I end my rant with two (apocryphal?) quotes from Joseph Stalin. The first is: “You have to break a few eggs to make an omelette.” Of course, that is what the opponents of eco-extremists will always say: we are sacrificing the lives of innocent people to make our own version of Eden. Anyone with half a brain and a little reading comprehension will know that’s bullshit.

Eco-extremism doesn’t seek to break eggs to make an omelette: it seeks to destroy the whole farm, and if eggs get damaged in the process, that’s just the nature of the beast. How many eggs get broken on a factory farm a day?

The second quote from Stalin is: “One death is a tragedy, a million deaths is a statistic.” And is this not the logic of civilization, of the leftist and anarchist? They can shrug off a whole world being butchered by civilization, they can wave off the deaths of savage peoples who did nothing but defend their land, and they can play video games in their heads of strangling capitalists in their beds, but when they see a bus on fire, or a lab blown up, they scream, “Won’t somebody think of the children!?”

You may think these acts are ineffective; you may think them the obsessions of crazy sociopaths, or what have you. We’re not trying to change the world, we would rather see it all go up in flames. And if you don’t see that the destruction of the Earth, of the rivers and mountains, of the forests and oceans, is the real insanity, then we cannot help you, nor would we care to. Just duck when you see us coming.

The number of officers deployed on 19th January for the eviction of Nave Assillo squat, an operation that went on from 6:45am to 9pm at via S. Pio X remained under siege (below the poster distributed in the following days).

Antifona

On Friday 22nd January a considerable group of workers and people in solidarity stormed the offices of Mak construction company in Lavis (Trento) and made it clear to the owner – who turned up about an hour later – that they did not intend to accept the dismissal of a worker and the continuous harassment inflicted on him and three other colleagues for refusing to sign a contract that made their working conditions worse. Outside the offices first police and carabinieri vans and later even an antiriot squad made their appearance.

Here is the text of the poster on the Northern League march:

The League and police the same shit

On Tuesday 12th January a well-participated meeting was held at Nave Assillo squat to discuss the reaction to a possible eviction. The meeting was also an occasion to launch opposition to a march ‘against degradation’ organized by the Northern League and scheduled on Saturday 16th January in Trento.

On the Saturday about sixty comrades descended upon the entrance to via Andrea Pozzo and prepared to not accept the parade of the League’s reactionary clowns passively. As the Northern League members arrived on the scene, the Police ordered two charges against the demonstrators in via Pozzo and via Cavour. A united response limited the number of injured, and the comrades later marched to piazza Fiera.

Since new police chief D’Ambrosio took over in Trento, it was the third time in eight months that antiriot cops and carabinieri used truncheons against those who struggle: it happened in piazza S. Maria after the eviction of the Assillo of via Manzoni, in Novaline di Mattarello to defend a TAV excavator and finally last Saturday.

We draw this conclusion: those who don’t want to bow their heads need to organize self-defence in the streets.

And we point out that the Northern League can’t even set up a gazebo in the city without antiriot cops protecting them, as we saw happening three times in a dozen days in the neighbourhood of S. Pio X.

The police are the armed hand of those who really degrade our lives: the bosses, bankers, property owners and democratic, fascist and reactionary politicians.

Saturday’s charges were coldly ordered with the purpose of striking any form of unmediated and untamed dissent.

They got it wrong with their calculations, Andreatta and his henchmen.

We’re stubborn.

We are relaunching class solidarity in the streets.

Cops and racists out of the neighbourhoods.

Assillo squatters

Here is the text of the poster on the eviction of Nave Assillo squat:

Sail ship, sail

On Tuesday 19th January at around 1pm, via S. Pio X looked like a neighbourhood of a country under military occupation: there were some twenty-five police and carabinieri vehicles over less than two hundred metres of street.

On the roof of a five-storey building – Nave Assillo squat for three months – nine comrades are singing and dancing, their gazes turned to the considerable group of people who’ve gathered in solidarity since early morning at the entrance to the street heavily guarded by the cops.

The eviction of the Nave, which began at 6:45am, concludes after 9pm, as the last squatter comes down from the roof. In the meantime, a small march has gone through the city from the Faculty of Sociology to S. Pio, with speeches and graffiti, and has the detention center. We arrived in a suburban layout designed for spatial legibility and control; socially engineered to be inhospitable to life, with entry and exit choke-points for authorities to easily control the area. Nevertheless people remained undeterred to humbly show their care. Around 150 people arrive with a portable stereo, drinks, fireworks and a general disdain for prisons. From Discharge’s State Violence, State Control to Keny Arkana’s La Rage among others blaring, people began shooting fireworks, chanting and waving to people in the prison, who would yell back flicking their lights on and off. With a military police vehicle arriving and keeping its distance, we marched around the prison screaming— ‘No borders, no nations, no deportations’— we came to the parking lot where dancing, drinking, and speeches to the prisoners ensued. After standing in the parking lot for 30 minutes or so, it was not long before people started writing messages on cars and getting more aggressive towards the enormous concrete gated community style walls, complete with a wavy cut crescent edge. Eventually we go back to the bus slowly around 12:40, concerned about the safety of the undocumented migrants at the demonstration. Then right as one bus pulled out to leave more police cars arrived to block the exiting buses.

The police received reports of graffiti on cars and wanted the culprits. People kept their distance, instead of confronting the police, while a negotiating standoff in the cold took place for an hour in half. The police deployed devise tactics trying to separate the group by ‘only wanting the people who wrote on the cars’—attempting to separate the ‘good’ from the ‘bad’ protesters. This stressed people out because of the presence of undocumented migrants. People debated about the next steps to be taken, soon many would volunteer to turn themselves in as the culprits to help the undocumented people, but then the police declined, saying they will not believe them and that they wanted to ID everyone on all the buses. The police lesion told them that it was pointless and a waste of resources as many people have already left by car, among other points. Eventually, the police headed straight for the bus in the middle of the road that had been leaving when they blocked the road, it was separate from the other buses, which made it more vulnerable. However, more important was that the people without documents requested that the others do not intervene or escalated the situation with the police if they come on the bus. The police did, beginning to chip away at our group— this was extremely uncomfortable to watch. Here they took everyone off the bus identified and took pictures of them. Then several people were arrested for not having identification and questionable legal status. The other mass of angry protesters sat and watched, because did not want them to escalate the situation with the police. Again, this was frustrating and uncomfortable and affects the moral of some people.

This left people irate, some at the people who wrote on cars, but everyone at the police. The standoff continued for some hours more, until people got cold and tired of waiting, eventually trying to walk and/or run home. This turned into a game of cat and mouse with the 20-30 police and their vehicles running around and trying to grab people stuck in this suburban mouse trap. This was great as people got to move around, warm up and watch the military police fumble over trying to chase them. There was a timeless attempt by the police to grab someone where they slipped and fell into the mud, which created some fun, laughter and comic relief. This game continued for another 40 minutes before people really started running for it. People began getting arrested as they tried to dart down long roads. However, rumor has it some people got away. Then numbers began to slowly dwindle as the military police picked people off. Meanwhile the cold was setting in, someone tried to build a fire out of a pallet, and then a cop came over with a fire extinguisher and put it out. They were indirectly using the cold to assault us as food, water and alcohol was running out because people only expected to be at the prison for an hour in a half—then party time!

Unfortunately for us, party time came in the form of three riot police vans, three K9 units and military police with MP-5 sub-machine guns. Feelings hurt from having to run a couple blocks and slipping in the mud, they now had an overwhelming show of force to squash the noise demonstration. By around three in the morning, they had devised their plan and started to get into position. They moved the riot vans to face the side of the buses and shined their flood lights blinding us. They formed a circle around us, while we jumped up and down blinded by flood lights trying to stay warm, German shepherds barked as police prepared to attack. I found myself in a horrible situation, one that resembled a firing squad scene I had only scene in movies, except instead of rifles pointed at us it was riot cops and police dogs. Backs up against the buses, blinded by lights and in this suburban dead, I was shocked by what I was seeing. Europe’s fascism has become more intelligent and politically acceptable over the years, so instead of a firing squad it was riot cops.

They began playing some dispersal recording in Dutch and immediately people in the crowd turned into a dance party because of the rhythm in the order, which made me laugh, but people snapped out of it as they moved in swinging their batons trying to shove and grab people. Then some people ran on the bus, while other got kettled. My new friend and I jump onto the bus to escape being rustled like cattle as a cop tries to hit us into the kettle. On the bus, we sat and watched as the others got pushed in between two riot vans and surrounded by riot cops. We watched this dystopic scene continue, from this firing squad situation to the transportation of human cattle, this scene was one like I had only seen in movies about nightmares of the past and future. Against the backdrop of a prison in a socially engineered Dutch suburbia, the 40 or so people were forced between two riot vans and enclosed by police with flood lights shining on, giving it a death camp feeling, as they were force marched to the prison. People later told me in jail how at every step taken the bumper of the van was millimeters from hitting them. Watching this scene my heart dropped as I felt a deep disgust, living the sci-fi future I feared. The ambiance of the Schiphol industrial area, the prison walls and the flood lights beaming off them as they are surrounded by riot police pushing and jabbing them with shields and batons, combined with the military police in beret uniforms with MP-5 submachines guns and police scattered around the van with dogs confirmed the reality of the world that everyone wants to pretend does not exist. I find myself incapable to convey this haunting scene that was nearly taken straight out of Children of Men.

I was told it worsened as they were pushed into the prison. Stuck in between these vans and escorted through prison gates by riot police, they resisted their confinement and abuse every step of the way. Where they were forced into outdoor cages where they would take their jackets and the police beat and manhandled them out of the cage one-by-one into prison cells, then photographed and finger printed—which some continued to resist. Meanwhile in the bus, we sat and waited, unsure of what will happen, internally I held to a fleeting hope they will realize how fucked up they are and how much resources they waste and will just let us go. It seems I will believe and hold onto anything if placed in a bad enough situations—‘they abused us enough, they made their point, now they will let us go? Right? Why wouldn’t they? This is stupid, they are fascistic assholes.’ Horrible situations makes you grasp to the crumbs they give you, you do not know what will happen, it is new, so naturally you pray start praying for bureaucratic miracles, or magic wand tricks from lawyers. Kind of pathetic, but investigating and unraveling these feelings within you might prove important to understanding ourselves, our weaknesses and could provide paths to building strength— but who knows. So while I know it is helpless, I find myself clinging to the hope that they will let us go. Instead the third and then second riot van returns so they can shine their flood lights on the bus, while military personal surrounded us watching us pee, drinking coffee and reminiscing about their barrack drama or whatever, we sat there trying to sleep and make the best out of being in a hostage situation.

We sat like this watching their coffee breaks and drive around in self-important circles until about noon January 1st. At ten o’clock, they told us some lies about how they will let us go after they see our identification and take a picture of us, but first we had to drive to the military police headquarters across the street—(ahhhh driving ourselves to jail!). Worn down, people were pissed and had many concerns about their lives—kids, dogs, work— since no one knew when this was going to end. Nevertheless, held captive by the military in a pullout, we had little choice to either comply or wait until they come into the bus and beat us out—something that many did not want. Remember, we just went to make some noise and say hello to detained migrants—people were not prepared for a hostage situation. So eventually, we complied. Entering their headquarters around noon, the two buses got processed and they gave us some bag lunches at 12:30. We sat, we sat. I needed to take a shit for eight hours and they still would not let me shit until I went in to get processed—they used everything humanly possible to violate us and place people without proper IDs in cells.

By 3:00 they had taken my stuff, my ID and put me into a small holding cell with someone else from the bus were we sat and waited in a tight little white box, with florescent lights and a camera. My cell mate was released , then sometime later the prosecutor gave me a paper full of lies about how I resisted arrest, and they interrogated me about how they just needed to confirm my identity before they release me at nine that evening. So I sat there until I was moved to another prison, sat in another holding cell and then finally was brought to my prison cell, which to my surprise was like a university dorm room with its own bathroom. Stressed and exhausted from not sleeping all night, I found the mattress to be better than most in budget hostels or expensive universities. I had a nice green IKEA desk with shelves and a green locker. While the bathroom light did not work, it was a nice title bathroom with a toilet and hot water shower. I found myself disorientated and confused. I looked out the window and saw a little complex with grass, designated social spaces, a playground and some type of bank logo, and there was an ATM in the center of the yard. The only way I could describe it is as a gated community with its worse features exaggerated, but features it seems people desire, want, or are taught to want in society. I was surprised to see my prison cell so closely resembling a university dorm room or cheap European apartment. Despite this surprise, I was still in prison, confined and I had no idea what these crazy people were going to do to me. In some ways I cannot believe the environment and culture of this detention center. Whoever creates, operates and accepts the presence of prisons is a hate-filled psycho—spreading an infrastructure coded some seriously unresolved issues. Inevitably anyone who works in these places will become damaged, and anyone they place there they are trying to torture with some plausible deniability. These environments are a hazard to everyone, but I am a broken record.

Eventually I feel asleep finally for an hour in a half. Then I got taken out of the cell to another holding room, so they could take me to another room to take finger prints. Then back to my cell again were I waited to see if they would really release me at nine, which they did not. But they started releasing me and five other people around 10:45. I was so happy, because the institutional culture of the prison is beyond fucked up—capturing people in their maze of rooms, procedures and orders. I eventually got dropped off at the airport and a kind person waited for us and arranged a ride back to our lives. The state expelled tons of resources to abuse us, because messages were written on a couple cars at the prison, and later the media would describe the demonstration as violent—which is laughable. However, more surprising is the deep relationship and affinity I felt and saw between the prison and out-side the prison. The way the prison is just a more intense totalitarian replica of what already happens outside it—the same economic, political and social functions are taking place with the same architecture and relationships. These urban, suburban architectures and the science of population control have become increasingly more intelligent over time and embody the progress demanded by politicians. This progress appears more than ever to perfect the model of the prison to the entirety of society, to perfect a productive order and managed at the expense of the prisoners, who embrace these structures. This show of state force has reminded me the importance of noise demonstrations and graffiti—the backbones of any peaceful demonstrations—the things I take for granted. Caring for others with small symbolic actions, like partying, writing messages, and waving to prisoners are meaningful and can trigger a hostage taking situation where you risk bleeding and shitting on yourself. Uncomfortable, but how does one confront nightmares the state creates? These institutions are justified with notions of safety, order and so on, but they systematically threaten everyone, making anyone a prisoner who exercises even a small attempt at freedom. This is nothing new. People abide and give power to an order that is deranged that seeks to tamper with and consume all life on the planet, but as long as it does not directly harm them in an unexpected way, or if scientists have not confirmed the measurements of these damages, then the train keeps moving unquestioned.

UK – EMERGENCY DEMO IN SOLIDARITY WITH CALAIS JUNGLE. TOMORROW TUESDAY 1 MARCH 7.30PM @ INSTITUT FRANCAIS, LONDON

7.30PM @ INSTITUT FRANCAIS, LONDON
February 29, 2016
Today the French government began its threatened eviction of 3,500 people living in the south half of the Calais Jungle. They came in hard with 50 vans of CRS riot police, water cannon and tear gas, followed by a demolition crew with crowbars and bulldozers. By the end of the day, just a small part of the south zone was cleared, but the police will hope that this display of brute force convinces others to leave “voluntarily”. They are expected to be back tomorrow to continue the eviction, which may last for weeks. Will we just sit by and watch? Today people of the jungle braved the brutal force of the French state. Some occupied the rooftops of shacks, or fought back with stones against tear gas, rubber bullets, and truncheons. The least we can do is make a show of solidarity here in London, to show the people of the Jungle that they are not alone, and the French government that its brutality will not go unnoticed or unanswered. We call for a demonstration tomorrow evening 7.30PM at the Institut Français, 17 Queensberry Place, London SW7 2DT. Near the Science and Natural History museums, South Kensington tube. The Institut Français is the “shop window” of the French government in London, where it showcases French cinema, cuisine, culture and business. It is open in the evenings with a bistro, films and other events held every night. We propose bringing banners, signs and messages to show that our thoughts are with the people of the jungle; and that the French government cannot get away with painting an image of “Liberté, Egalité, Fraternité” whilst sending in the CRS to destroy people’s homes and lives. Please spread far and wide. calaismigrantsolidarity

Collateral damage: An Eco-Extremist Defense of Indiscriminate Violence

Collateral damage: An Eco-Extremist Defense of Indiscriminate Violence
For: Chahta-Ima
Merely being an eco-extremist propagandist, I am forced to pay attention to reactions of anarchist and leftist readers to the actions of ITS and other eco-extremist groups. The first reaction I encounter is usually one of disgust. How can eco-extremists carry out indiscriminate acts against property and people, such as burning buses and sending mail-bombs, where “innocent bystanders” may also get hurt? What if a child was near a bomb, or what if the secretary to the scientist, a mother and a wife, opens the package and gets killed instead? Why this obsession with nihilistic violence, where innocent people get killed? Isn’t this ineffective for helping to destroy civilization? Doesn’t this just show that the eco-extremists are mentally disturbed, probably angry at their parents, off their medications, outcasts, etc.?
Really, the opposition of leftists, anarchists, anarcho-primitivists, and any number of people who react negatively to eco-extremist violence is one of great hypocrisy: hypocrisy of the level that Nietzsche and any good manipulator of words could easily dissect. For civilization, and any ideology really, is based on indiscriminate violence, on hiding dirty laundry and sweeping dirt under the rhetorical rug so no one can see it. Let’s start with the numbers game: Opposition to eco-extremist violence can be approached from the view of the Christian “Golden Rule”: “Do unto others as you would have them do unto you.” You wouldn’t want to be blown up on a bus. You would not want to have your fingers blown off, or have a bullet put in your head when you are just “doing your job”. Everyone has the right to work and support themselves, right? But your chances of being on the business end of an eco-extremist blast are minuscule: you probably have a better chance of winning the lottery. On the other hand, your chances of crashing your car, or being hit by one, are astronomically higher by comparison. Your chances of dying early of cancer or heart disease due to the consumption of processed foods are even higher. Yet those two last causes of death are “perfectly natural”, while being “collateral damage” in a war to defend nature itself is somehow a tragedy. Cry me a river. Of course, what such condemnation means is a tacit approval of state or civilized violence. For the bourgeois liberal, “terrorist violence” is horrible because only the State can designate people who need to be killed

(if you lived in Afghanistan or Yemen, for example, you would have more to fear than just cars; you would also have drones raining down death on you from the skies. But that’s okay, because U.S. democracy approved this.) The leftist and anarchist can criticize eco-extremist action with more integrity, so the reasoning goes, because they too reject the violence of capitalism and the State. Aside from that, however, they create a fantasy world where “the guilty”, rich parasites who they have tried and sentenced to death in their own minds from the comforts of their talk-shops, are killed indiscriminately and even with cruelty, not taking into account that the bourgeoisie too are also husbands, fathers, sons, daughters, etc. And of course, they expect that violence to be minimal, as Revolutions have historically been dainty tea parties where the innocent never, ever get hurt...
What we are confronting here is the Great Hologram of Civilization: one that compels us to care about people we never will meet, to have deep empathy for the abstract citizen, comrade, or child of God. We are supposed to get upset at the sight of the burning bus, or the destroyed office, or the leftovers of an incendiary device left outside of a government building. We are supposed to go over scenarios in our head: “What if my daughter was in front of that building? What if my wife was in that office? What if I was that scientist lying in a pool of my own blood in a parking lot?” Well, what if you were? And to be honest, you weren’t, so why are you playing that film in your head?
Isn’t that the great narrative of civilization: we are all in this together? That’s a lie, because we aren’t. Your life is merely a cog in a great Machine, and should the Machine decide to spit you out, you will be spit out. You have no agency, your morality is an illusion. It just covers up a lot of violence and death that went into making the clothes on your back and the food you eat. It’s alright for massive numbers of animals to die, to burn down forests and pave over meadows. It’s okay to enslave people in factories, to erect monuments to those who buried the worlds of wild savages, to sacrifice the dreams and sanity of those alive today for a better tomorrow. But for the love of God, don’t place a pipe bomb in front of a government ministry! That’s going too far. Here’s the key to your liberation: you owe society nothing, and you don’t have to do what it says. Those people who get killed on the other side of the world don’t care about you, and they never will. You are just

On 24/2/2016 begins the second degree trial for the case of robbery of Alphabank in Naousa of Paros, with anarchist communist Tasos Theofilou as the accused. Despite the collapse of the indictment, Tasos was sentenced to 25 years in prison and now deals with the “appeal to the law” the prosecutor applied for, which means that he will be tried again, this time for the charges which he was acquitted of in the first trial (participation in the CCF and homicide). ANARCHISTS FROM THE ACT FOR FREEDOM NOW! PROJECT

Excerpt from the text of anarchist communist comrade Tasos Theofilou for his upcoming trial on 24/2/16

“Today the conjuncture is different in the sense that the government that took over the management of authority and the enforcement of extreme policies of austerity is strangely addressed to even a progressive audience and therefore does not have the spearhead of the anti-terrorist, anti-crime, anti-migration policy, at least at a symbolic level.

Despite the reluctance of the Justice ministry to clash with the domestic lobby of “Law and Order” and their fear to legislatively control the really uncontrolled and uncontrollable judicial authority which based on the monstrosity of a law 187 of the penal code concerning ethical proof and the extreme inquisition perception, interpretation and abuse does not need to follow the decisions and legal rules but can freely appreciate answering only to their conscience -a conscience so defiled and polluted that even Pontius Pilate would find it easy to answer to. Despite also the two-faced tactic of the Justice ministry to vote seemingly progressive laws, which however include in their wording the possibility of non-enforcement by the judges shows at least at a level of symbolism and not substance, new investments in oppressing white collar criminality. This is the conjuncture and these are the incidents. I consider this judicial struggle i am called to give for my acquittal of all charges in the appellate court one more moment of struggle against the deep police state, against the penal oppression and its extreme dogmas. A singular existential battle where critic and opponent incarnate into the same institution, that of judicial authority.

Here i would like to stress that just like in the first trial, in the appellate trial i will not state my innocence and i will not beg any judge to believe me. I am not innocent. In the class war i chose to side with the wronged and oppressed, the excluded and the hunted, with the guilty and the damned. I organized myself politically in the anarchist milieu with the ambitious aim of hurting social, political and economic structures of capital and its state. However i denied, deny and will again deny the acts the attribute to me. I was never a member of the CCF, never participated in this specific robbery and most importantly i never killed and could never kill an unarmed citizen for any reason or under any circumstances.

(ARGENTINA) FOURTH COMMUNIQUE OF THE INDIVIDUALISTS TENDING TOWARD THE WILD– 2016

Traducción al ingles del cuarto comunicado de ITS-Internacional, desde Argentina. Traducción a cargo de “Chahta-Ima”.

“ITS is in Argentina” That was part of the message that we left along with an envelope full of blasting powder in the bus station of Retiro this past Monday, February 22nd. This act was silenced by the press, as has been the case with many others (1). In fact, for some days we have been warning the press as well as scientists of the presence of eco-extremism in this region. We would like to state that the more you silence our actions, the more focused they will become. You know that we have arms and explosives, as well as the addresses, phone numbers, schedules, and places of work, not just of all of you but also your families...

ITS does not yield before the accepted morality, and knows that you are either with Technology, or you are at war against it. The former will die as well as those on the fence.

We are the wild stars that have yet to be discovered, we are:

‘Communique 1' from the Anti Fascist Revolutionary Front

19.01.16

Migrants assaulted, refugees’ houses burned, attacks on social revolutionaries, anti-semitic attacks, Muslims (And ex-Muslims) having to fear when an attack is coming, racist murders by police and fascists; increased presence of fascists in the mainstream political arena, calls to “gas” and “shoot” migrants and non-white people, Daesh waging their fascist war, Golden Dawn patrolling the streets looking for migrants and social revolutionaries. This heinous cocktail of authority resulting from the ever increasing crisis that is capitalism is growing, this heinous cocktail is a declaration of war.

Liberal and civil responses to this declaration have failed. We are responding to this fascist threat and the liberal and civil failures to combat it with a new assault. The rise of fascism is not some unexplainable phenomenon born out of political and social anomaly for fascism is the hammer of capitalism in a time of crisis. This is history on repeat. In this context we must see our combatant efforts against the fascists as a blow to capitalist efforts to sustain itself. As social revolutionaries we see ourselves in a revolutionary context, a context to overthrow the existing order and all that sustains it.

Never in decades have fascists been as strong as they are now with states and the media handing them a veritable mandate to rampage whilst the state grows stronger.

No longer will they have a free hand to attack social revolutionaries, migrants, LGBT+ people or anyone else the existing social order deems to be a threat to its stability and existence. We will respond to these threats and attacks, like for like and when necessary with absolute ferocity.

We are in this for the long war, we are ready to strike against the fascists and their sponsors. We will hit where it hurts and we will be waiting to strike when the fascist enemies of social revolution least expect it. A gunshot, an explosive device, an incendiary; a knife, a bat. It will come from hidden corners, the dark, the fascists will not know where it is coming from and where and when it will happen next. They want a war and we will give it to them.

On anarchist internationalism

As other comrades put it well: we anarchists are internationalists until we have destroyed nations. Even if the first step is to not recognise nor accept them, their destruction is part of the project of destruction of the State.

Anarchy has always stood on an internationalist position. We are well aware that we should take our local context into account, but internationalism is an inseparable characteristic of the thought which tries to annihilate any sort of State and authority, opposes all form of progress and forges a life attitude in revolt against the whole existent.

The exchange of ideas and thoughts between comrades on different latitudes on the planet has been fundamental for the building of an internationalist anarchist perspective which rejects the limitations of borders and ethnicities, for example through spreading the fights comrades are waging in other contexts. Direct action and sabotage have also allowed, starting from practice itself, to forge international links between anarchists from one place or another. That goes as well for the punctual and personal support between comrades of different places, a support which manifests itself in the struggle and the common projects which are being built day after day. Translations of communiques, dialogues between comrades, solidarity actions, pamphlets to spread the stories of comrades, support to different projects, journals for exchange of ideas, thoughts and critiques, sabotage, support to comrades

We must strike at their core, avoiding harming innocent persons. We must hit them where it hurts in their sponsors, leaders, prominent personalities and spokespeople and infrastructure.

We invite all existing armed cells and individuals together with future insurgents to join this war, to become part of the Anti Fascist Revolutionary Front project. Act who are on the run, weaving fraternal relations between comrades are some examples of the way in which the movement has put into practice the internationalism that characterizes it.

From the movement in solidarity with Sacco and Vanzetti when sabotage were realized, amongst others, by the anarchist circles close to the journal Culmine to the sabotage actions in solidarity with the hunger strikes of the Greek comrades, from the coordination and support between comrades of the United States and Mexico to organize and propagate the insurrectional upheavals of 1910 – including the support to comrades on the run or in prison – to pamphlets in solidarity with the comrades of the 5E-M in Mexico, anarchism has showed clearly that there exist no borders for solidarity and coordination, that is to say, for the struggle itself. From comrades in Norway or Finland, countries where social pacification is strongly spread to comrades in Turkey, Syria or the Arab countries which are since years finding them-selves in a logic of all out war, we anarchists are not going to create social or ethnic categorizations, neither are we going to reproduce those categorizations that the capitalist system has created to divide. We are not going to treat comrades as petit bourgeois due to the fact that by they are born in a place different than ours, just as we are not going to discriminate (“positively” moreover!) others who are born in much more catastrophic and rotten places than where we are living.

It is clear that each place has its own characteristics that in a certain way define the conditions of the struggle and that the insurrectional project has to be adapted to this characteristics, but even as such the anarchist struggle does not only correspond to local outlines of struggle. On the contrary: the struggle tries to be global reality of attack against State and Capital. As such, anarchy is far away from leftist realism, that left realism which incites passivity, waiting, reformism and kills all dreams and desires for a life of quality through the speech of what is possible and what can be done based on “the reality we are living”.

Finally, we think that we should formulate our theses starting from what we are living locally – that’s why we, the group of comrades who are participating in one way or another, from the moment we started publishing this journal, tackled themes starting from what we have in front of our eyes (and this tears down the big lie that says that there is a sort of Europeanization or European exportation existing in Mexico). But at the same time, we refuse to exchange our dreams for political realism and we believe that also contributions from comrades from other latitudes, as well as international solidarity, may never be neglected, because they are before everything else one of the bases of anarchy which is trying to destroy all kinds of limitations. We are individualists as we believe in ourselves and act in consequence, but we also share perspectives and project with many other comrades. We learn from our past and our own experiences, but also from experiences and perspectives from other latitudes which nourish us. We refuse anyway to fall into idealizations.

If comrades in Mexico have taken over on certain moments the acronyms of CCF or FAI to claim their sabotage actions, we do not think now that this has been due to a – total – lack of own analysis neither to photocopy a speech. Although we have a critique on revendication acronyms and what is commonly called “neo-nihilism”, we cannot deny that they and other comrades have put forward, in acts, a manifestation of living anarchist internationalism, to take part in the attack against power according to their own premises and perspectives.

In the same way, nowadays there exist editorial projects in affinity with the insurrectional project that doesn’t rejoice about acronyms. Those projects try to be a link between anarchists from all over the world; but there is also the practice, inseparable from theory, to express clearly that anarchy can never be reduced to an alternative without perspectives of attack against power, and neither to a regionalist speech justified by unfounded arguments that are therefore sterile of any potentiality of real, and not fictitious, confrontation.

If we are individualists, we do not idealise anything of “our own or of abroad” and we represent nothing but ourselves. The social war is latent and our life is the authentic battlefield.

Another cop immigration van sabotaged in south london – uk

22.01.16

An alert went out on Friday morning that immigration officers had been spotted heading in the direction of Camberwell, South London. They were found with cops in a newsagents on Camberwell road. Apparently, the council had gone there to investigate alcohol licensing issues, had become ‘suspicious’ because of one of the workers didn’t speak much English, and called immigration on them. As the state agents had blocked access to the shop, one man inside was arrested for immigration offences. Meanwhile, the tyres were let down on one of their ‘racist vans’ outside. These vans are used to arrest migrants every week across London and have been previously targeted for sabotage (1, 2, 3, 4).

SOME UPDATES : Concerning Anarchists and fighters who are hostages in the hell-holes of Greek democracy.

22/02/16 Revolutionary Struggle case 2nd trial update.

The proposition of the prosecutor for the 2nd trial of the Revolutionary Struggle case was postponed for Wednesday 24/02/16.

The judges refused to appoint a new lawyer for Revolutionary Struggle member Nikos Maziotis, who on his request released his lawyer. Nikos Maziotis left today’s session and the judges decided to postpone it. The judges show their coup-d’état-like behaviour once again, since they are rushing to complete the trial – as they have stated themselves – so that the 18month detention period of Adonis Staboulou does not end. And they are willing to even leave the accused without lawyers.

Giorgos Petrakakos and Antonis Staboulou denounce the arbitrariness and leave the courtroom of the 2nd trial of R.S. 24/02/16

“Because our presence in this trial leaves gained or lost ground at a political and procedural level, which will affect similar trials in the future, we cannot but denounce the refusal to appoint an advocate for our fellow accused as he demanded. Combined with the speed the trial is being carried out because of pressure by the judges so that the 18month detention period does not end, this latest incident confirms the arbitrariness that the special courts and special anti-terrorist laws enforce. For all these reasons we are leaving today’s court session.”

24/02/16 Update on trial appellate court, of Anarchist communist Tassos Theophilou the court decided to continue the trial on Tuesday, March 15th, 2016

On 24/02/16 begins the trial of anarchist Fotis Tziotzis who is accused of armed robbery and attempted homicide of DIAS cops.

Spain – Poster in solidarity with anarchist comrades Monica Caballero and Francisco Solar

1.03.16

A month after the arrests a snitch, also accused of the robbery, gave the comrade’s name and signed everything the cops told him to. The last pieces of the puzzle were filled in by well-wishing citizens and cops, who with their testimonies contributed once more to a vengeful arrest of a comrade. Excerpt from the first letter of anarchist Fotis when he was arrested. ‘In the early hours of Tuesday 12/05/2015, while eating with a friend at a restaurant, I am detained by cops of the ‘crimes against life and property’ force and taken to the Thessaloniki police headquarters. There, after a few hours I am informed that I am accused of armed robbery of a supermarket and attempted homicide against police. I deny all charges and refuse to cooperate with them at any level, a fact that led them to add contempt to the charges since I refused to give them a dna sample or fingerprints. They will not break me this time either. We continue with head held high. Strength and freedom to the real fighters. Fotis Tziotzis, Diavata prisons”

23/02/16

A new search, the second in less than 60 days, took place last night in the special underground section of the female prisons of Koridallou where members of armed organizations are held. (R.S. – C.C.F. – 17N) The search lasted for some time and all the comrades’ cells were searched extensively, as well as the communal spaces and the yard. Just like a few days before, they found nothing this time either. All this took place after 22:00 because of the mobilizations of the special underground section demanding the immediate transfer of Fabio Dousko from GADA (Athens police headquarters) where he was being held illegally, to Koridallou prisons, as well as the removal of the prison director.

Barcelona – Call for insurrectionary solidarity with anarchist comrades Monica Caballero and Francisco Solar.

The next 8, 9 and 10 March 2016 anarchist comrades Monica and Francisco will be facing trial at the national audience of Madrid. From Barcelona we are making a call for solidarity and anarchist action, a call to break with inaction, passivity and waiting. The call is not limited to a specific week but starts today and lasts until the end of the trial.

Neither distance nor imposed borders have been a brake on the various proofs of solidarity with comrades Monica and Francisco.

Whether in various places of the world, be it with bombs, fire and riots, many individuals and insurgent groups have made solidarity with the anarchist prisoners a practice of confrontation towards the State and its henchmen. Let’s give our solidarity to comrades Monica and Francisco, may solidarity be more than a written word.

Trento, Italy – Report and suggestions on the initiative “Voci Oltre le Mura” [voices beyond the walls] with the participation of imprisoned Greek comrades

Report and suggestions following a talk with Greek comrades held in Trento on 13th December

When the struggle horizon has narrowed and collective discussion become stagnant, it can be useful to raise one’s sights a little. This can be done through seeking enthusiasm from revolutionary events of the past for example, or through discussion with comrades who are experiencing a different level of social conflict. The encounter at Nave Assillo with Greek comrades and the phone contact with two anarchists locked up in the prison of Korydallos were a precious opportunity for us to widen our horizon. Before we bring out more detailed material – transcripts of the talk and various reflections – we think it is useful to give a short account of the day and a few considerations. Upturning the way things usually happen, here it was the two imprisoned comrades who introduced the discussion as they talked over the phone about the experience of the hunger strike against the special prisons (and not only) and raised some points to be gone into. What struck us even more than the content was the tone of their interventions, characterized by modesty and a spirit of harmony. The struggle of a handful of prisoners supported by an assembly of comrades led to the abolition of the special prisons, the reshaping of the bill against ‘masking up’ during demonstrations and the regulation on DNA sample taking (which is not compulsory in Greece). No small feat. Yet the two comrades didn’t fail to highlight its limitations, to then move on to wider considerations. Starting from the cycle of struggle that they experienced between 2008 and 2012 in Greece (and which led both of them to prison: one of them, now twenty-two years old, for the Velvontos-Kozani robbery), they talked calmly about the ‘defeat’ of the anarchist movement. Despite years of clashes, uprisings, expropriations, attacks on the people and property of the State and capital, the young Greek anarchist movement was unable to take the necessary revolutionary leap. Hence a lesson to be learnt: to reflect on that experience so as to be better prepared in the future. If the comrades repeatedly stressed the need to weave together all the practices of struggle (from leaflets to occupations to the urban guerrilla) they identified the crucial starting point for the sharpening of our analysis and action in the relation between self-organization and insurrection. Those who lived through recent years in the urgency of revolt (paying in first person) recommended at the same time ‘working like ants’ to permeate the contexts of self-organization (squatting houses, expropriation of goods, self-management of first aid and medical practices and productive spheres) that are being developed, in a relation of implicit reciprocity with the insurrectional process. If it is agreed that precious chances were missed (for example during the period from the referendum to the ‘renegotiation’ of the Troika memorandum, a spectacular example of how it is impossible to stop the aggression of international capital with the politic of whatever government), the comrades also said that the clock of the revolutionary movements and that of society often do not coincide: if the movement is experiencing difficulties, the renewal of social conflict could unite comrades and practices once again. Meantime an entire generation grown up in revolt waits for nothing or nobody to carry on the attack. After a telephone link of one hour and a half with Korydallos (how strange to be talking about expropriation and revolution with comrades in prison!), the discussion continued at length with the two Greek comrades present, who brought up some very useful points to understand the Greek context and to reflect on ways of developing international contacts and on how to organize oneself. Five hours’ discussion. A serious and serene debate. Lots of suggestions, no recipe good for everyone. Comrades of Nave Assillo squat

ACTION OUTSIDE THE EMBASSY OF URUGUAY IN KIFISSIA, ATHENS

29.02.16
On the afternoon of Friday, February 26th 2016, an initiative of individuals from the occupation on Themistokleous street 58 and comrades in solidarity (about 20 in total) went outside the Uruguayan embassy in Kifissia, as an answer to the international call for actions against the eviction of autonomous social centre La Solidaria in Montevideo. With a banner, flyers and chanting in several languages we disrupted, even if just symbolically, the bourgeois normality of Kifissia and we made it clear to the employees of the Uruguayan state that our comrades in Montevideo are not alone. TEXT BY KOSTAS GOURNAS FOR THE APPELLATE TRIAL OF THE REVOLUTIONARY STRUGGLE

23.01.16

FOR THE APPELLATE TRIAL OF THE REVOLUTIONARY STRUGGLE

It is indisputable that the Revolutionary Struggle was and continues to be one of the most important armed struggle organization during the last 15 years. It has listed a solid proposition of struggle against state and capital on its record in today’s era of the rampant attack of the markets, has contributed to the analysis and understanding of the capitalist crisis dominating in geopolitics and has produced top acts of resistance during the period of development illusions as well as during the memorandum recession. On May 22nd 2015 the second degree trial for the first period of action of the R.S. (2003-2010) begins in the 5-member appellate court of the female prisons of Koridallos.

Independently of the political statement of each defendant, their militant history or the sentence in the first trial that weighs over each one, the main political stake in this second trial also is the ideological-oppressive attack of the regime against the organization and the attempt to deconstruct its political characteristics which have a clearly anti-authoritarian, anti-capitalist orientation and aim at the promotion of social revolution through armed struggle. Especially while comrades have chosen the reactivation of the organization and it remains –as stated by some of its members- active today, the timeliness of this attack takes on the characteristics of confrontation more imperatively for the regime, not with a “historical” enemy, but with a deposited threat.

Within this condition, having taken the political responsibility for my participation in the first period of action of the R.S., I come to defend the values and the historical political substance of the organization for the part I am accountable for and correspond to my choices. Just like in the first trial I will do the obvious for the projection of the collective vision of that period, as a non-negotiable part of my political morality and dignity, as a debt against the blood spilled in March 2010.

It is obvious that situations that correspond to different conditions of struggle cannot be repeated. In the first degree trial, an unprecedented political battle was given that outstripped the frame of the indictment and produced some positive procedural results.

Also a strategy was highlighted that insists that the political battles inside the courtroom can be valuable in many levels not only for those who fight these battles, but for tomorrow’s fighters as well. This appellate trial will not have the same political gravity, it will, however, have the same commitment to repulse the political charges of the opponent, especially those who are integrated in the dogma which consistently aims at depoliticizing the struggle by projecting an “illegitimate” image. We are living through historical moments in Greece. Within only six years, the economic crisis has brought the biggest reclassifications of the last decades.

The multileveled crisis has destroyed the lives of hundreds of thousands of youths, proletarians, pensioners and has mortgaged the future of the children.

Those responsible for this collapse, the political and economic elite that governs and plagues the social wealth of this land, have remained untouched by a Justice that has completely identified with their interests. The discrediting of the two-party system for the first time brought to authority a government of the Left, which with many expectations took on the task to overcome this crisis. But it took them less than a month to contradict whatever hopes, continuing to accept the core of the memorandum policies and the state of emergency.

Confirming once more the historical determinism that there cannot be ruptures and reversals without the struggle of those who are at the base of the social pyramid. That only a revolutionary people can hold in their hands a truly liberating plan for their emancipation from the memorandums, dependencies, the state and capitalism.

I call every comrade and collective, the assemblies and solidarity groups in Greece and abroad who perceive the dialectic relation that exists between solidarity to an individual with a historical path and the organization Revolutionary Struggle, to contribute in the upcoming trial in any way they judge or can.

Trikala, Greece RESPONSIBILITY CLAIM 17.1.16

22.01.16

A group of comrades, on late Saturday night, attacked the nazi offices in the center of the city with paint. Without anyone realizing them, not even their snitches in the taxi stand right across the street, the comrades raided and completely changed the front of the hole the stabbers occupy.

Athens – Greece RESPONSIBILITY CLAIM
22.01.16

Let’s eradicate the fascist enclaves in whichever hole we find them. Ioannis Badanis is a founder pf the national patriotic party and simultaneously has a security services company and a shop that sells equipment for soldiers and cops in Abelokipioi area. In 2013 he founded the legion of greek crusaders aiming at training and activating its members in “matters that concern Greeks”. On Tuesday, January 19th 2016 we torched the martial art school –the athletic shooting range club-, he had opened in Zografou area. That is where he finds the space to organize new “greek legionnaires” and even dares to advertise it as such. Whether officially with fascist offices, or underground in martial arts schools, the fascists will always find us against them. Anarchists

Czech Republic - 492 cell / Network of Revolutionary Cells (SRB) RESPONSIBILITY CLAIM

23.01.16

Network of Revolutionary Cells (SRB) has sabotaged cars of the Øízkárna restaurant in Prague four times this year. Space for reaction of the thief Vladimír Krulec was given. He could have reacted in several different ways. For example, he could have made some calculations and realized that paying his people for work would cost him less than covering sabotage losses. He failed at these simple calculations though.

He used various tools against the SRB and other parts of the anarchistic movement. He tried to ridicule, demonize and threaten us. His threats however cause exactly what a reasonable person would expect. More resistance against his restaurant. Thief and bully who likes to make himself look like a victim in the press is giving, through this behaviour, massive amounts of energy to those who don't want to see his crimes against the working class go unpunished. This very same energy started the second wave of the Øízkárna resistance.

This wave started by a small sabotage with the use of butyric acid. On 28th December 2015 was one dosage of this acid spilled directly in the restaurant and the second one was directed at the local kitchen. There is no doubt that the unbearable stench of this liquid caused problems and significant financial losses to Øízkárna.

Krulec did not like this. He even tried to follow the originator of this direct attack. He apparently didn't realize that some anarchists are armed to fend off attack of bastards like him. This time he got lucky. Hy stopped before the weapon was used. He might not get so lucky next time.

There is still enough energy for more attacks against capitalistic assholes like Vladimír Krulec. Event that started the second wave of the Øízkárna resistance is also a call to arms for other cells. Join the common struggle. There is common enemy and many ways of resistance. Sabotages, road blockings, hacker attack or physical confrontation with Krulec. May everybody help by what they do best.

If the common struggle lives, so does the potential for victory.

Hambach Forest, Germany - Security guard hits activists with his jeep

23.01.16

The activist who was hit intentionally by a jeep of RWE and subsequently was arrested yesterday, has been led today (Friday) before the custodial judge, and is now indefinitely on remand. Now more than ever: Show your solidarity, come into the forest! Information such as the address of the prisoner and how you can support him otherwise, will be published as soon as possible at the blog of the Anarchist Black Cross Rhineland.

January 22nd – We just received a message from the Hambach Forest. Early in the morning of today, RWE procured access to the area of the forest that is occupied by us, under the protection of its security service. They started to carry out grubbing operations in the area of a bridge near Morschenich.

Several activists blocked the way and initially made the RWE people leave the forest. Shortly afterwards it came to clashes between security guards and the activists. Objects such as stones, flew in both directions. Then one of the security guards of RWE cried to his colleagues: „Out the way, out the way, I'm gonna run'em over!", climbed into a jeep and drove high speed to the activists. These tried to dodge the car, then he weaved his way from side to side over the entire width of the road. He injured several activists.

Two security guards ran towards the activists and arrested two of them, which could be freed by a quick intervention. One activist who was too injured by the jeep, was unable to escape. He was laying on the earth and was caught by security guards, dragged onto the loading space of their jeep and kidnapped. A short time later an ambulance came into the forest. Currently we do not know more about our deported activist.

Greece: Murderous attack against anarchists in Athens

28.02.16

In the early morning hours of the 27th of February a murderous attack took place at Exarcheia square against three squatters of the Occupied Social Centre "Vox" by members of the drug trade. The attack of the mafia came after the intervention of comrades for a sexist comment made towards a girl.

As a result:

- 1) G.K. became the target of a murderous knife attack which was avoided as another comrade intervened
- 2) The second comrade was attacked with a knife on the head and as a consequence sustained a head injury
- 3) The third comrade was subjected to an extremely violent assault by a group of people and is currently hospitalized in critical condition due to a serious head trauma

As an initial response to the murderous attack initiated by the state paramilitary mafia we call everyone at the Polytechnic University of Athens tonight at 22:00 to stage an intervention at Exarcheia square. Anarchist-communists (via Mpalothia, translated by BlackCat)

Marseille: incendiary attack against luxury cars

On the morning of Friday, February 26 at around 3:30, we made our way into a 'secure' private car park for a bobo building in the 7th, in Marseille, and set fire to two luxury cars. A box of firelighters was placed under a front tyre of each vehicle, which quickly caught fire before it burst into flames as we were leaving, bringing a brief "state of emergency" to the door of a few bourgeois. We dedicate this attack to the four fighters imprisoned by the Belgian state in the "maxi-prison trial" of 19 February, and to others accused in the same case. Brussels: Verdict in the maxi-jail model trial

In addition, the six accused each received a • 600 fine, for a total of • 3,600. The big incriminating factor for the prosecutor to convict them all is the fact that they refused to apologize about it. Montreal: Attacks in Hochelaga

Last night, we destroyed the windows of Antidote, Mâle Bouffe, Electric Children (which was also sprayed with paint), and attacked the businesses of the Place Valois. This morning, flyers were thrown in the metro stations Préfontaine, Joliette and Pie-IX and at the Place Valois explaining the attacks of the night before. Flyer:

During the night of February 25, 2016, some businesses in Hochelaga were attacked. We smashed the windows and threw paint everywhere. Because we're pissed. Sick of these businesses where what they are selling is not only over-priced food and clothing, but a life based on work which isolates us, bores us, and enslaves us. Fuck this world of consumers and thieving landlords! Fuck the police who protect them!

The point isn't to develop an "expertise" in destruction. All that this action required was some hammers, crowbars, rocks, and paint. And before that, a bit of an idea of where to arrive from, where to exit, masks and maybe some clothes that can be gotten rid of.

Chile: Claim for explosive device at Center for Social Reintegration in Santiago

On February 11, we headed for the intersection of Pedro Lagos and Arturo Prat, where the Chilean gendarmerie have their Center for Social Reintegration, and there we proceeded to place a powerful time-delayed bomb. This was a conscious and libertarian act which, far from wishing to harm passersby, sought to directly attack not only the premises’ facilities but also to in a single blow possibly take away the life of some guards, without regard to their rank or status. For us, putting an end to any of these miserables will always be a pleasure. It is worth mentioning that the device failed, and that this clearly happened because of our mistake in its placement, and not the effective work of the police, as they are saying in the press.

Along with this, we take this opportunity to warn all those uniformed subhumans, especially Lieutenant Lagos and the gang of thugs in the privatized Santiago 1 Prison, that today we pulled together an explosive device, and tomorrow it could be 9 millimeters in your heads. Know this and know it well: the political prisoners are not to be touched. With this explosion we greet our sisters and brothers imprisoned in various confinement centers all across the world. Vigneux-sur-Seine (Essonne): When the State watches us ... without poles, no cameras

Wednesday, February 3, 2016
They are not welcome in the neighbourhood. In the Oly estate in Vigneux-sur-Seine two new CCTV cameras in rue des Edelweiss were damaged on Tuesday evening. To overcome these prying eyes, the criminals did not hesitate to bring down the pole on which they hung. Both objects were found nearby in a local bin. ‘This is the third time in a month in this area and the second time here, says Serge Poinot, mayor (LR) of Vigneux-sur-Seine. Each time it costs us 5000 to • 6 000. As well as the financial loss that this represents for the town, it is the message sent to the authorities that calls out.’ Wednesday afternoon, in rue Edelweiss, just opposite the area where the two cameras were installed, two young people hang around. The area is known as a place for drug trafficking. ‘There are no more posts, no more cameras,’ says a youth on his scooter, his face completely hidden by a hood. He turns up as soon as someone unknown arrives in the street, like a lookout. He continues defiantly: ‘Here is the ground as it was before. There won’t be any more, we don’t want that here.’ The municipality has launched a vast programme to install CCTV cameras all across the town. ‘About fifty in total over 2015-2016, said the mayor. These events are worrying. We will try to think about where and how to place the cameras in order to protect them. For now, we are going to put cameras in other areas. For Oly, we’ll see. We need to find the best possible place.’

Calais, France : - ‘container camp’ construction machinery torched

25.01.16

Two vehicles used to carry out evictions and construct the new ‘container camp’ – an authorised concentration camp mostly for families within a much larger, semi-autonomous ‘jungle’ – were set fire to on Friday night in Calais near the new camp. There have been no declarations of responsibility, but according to the local press, graffiti with the words “no border” and “this is a prison” was also left on some of the shipping containers used to hold people on the new site.

The “container camp” is a sterile, tightly controlled site for 1500 people on former ‘jungle’ land, run by filthy state collaborators from La Vie Active charity. According to the charity “The security guards saw the culprits and you can see their signature left on one of the containers. It seems they also manage to convince migrants to participate in their actions.”
The new camp is the first concrete step in efforts to completely destroy the self-managed village of 4000-6000 people. A third of the population of the jungle is expected to be evicted from Monday in order to make way for a hundred metre buffer zone around the edge of the motorway.

Montreal - Enbridge Valve Site Sabotaged Again

poster text:
line 9 shut off & line 7 valve tampered with in hamilton on january 25 our hearts were bursting with love and cheer after hearing of the many times our friends have courageously shut down pipelines in recent months.
so in the early hours of january 25,2016 we found our own courage and took action against enbridge and their line 9. slipping in to a valve station located on traditional Haudenosaunee Territory (in hamilton, ontario) we successfully operated an electronic valve to shut off the flow of tarsands crude in line 9. a line 7 valve, also an enbridge tarsands pipeline, was also tampered with and closed part way. we then disappeared back into the night.
we took this action to stand in unity with all those who have defended the land before us, and for those who decide to take action after us. we take it to fight against an industry that puts us at risk every day and subjects frontline communities to violence upon their bodies, communities and cultures – for profit.

we believe that’s worth fighting against; that those people and communities are worth fighting for.
so call us what you will, but we only do what is both necessary and right. our actions hurt none, but a lack of action hurts everyone.
may we all find the courage to actively resist & destroy exploitative capitalist industrial projects.

fuck enbridge
fuck the tarsands
and fuck all pipelines.

Letter from Nahuel (SXE Madrid prisoner) to Wolf Down

25.01.16

A few days ago, we received this letter from our imprisoned comrade Nahuel from Madrid, take 5 minutes of your time and read it. Free Nahuel! Solidarity is a weapon! Wolf Down

Maybe I’m alone in here but thanks to all my brothers and sisters around the world I feel the warm and peace that you send; I really love all the letters you send me.

I feel your friendship. You are near me.
I thank you all, and I specially wanted to thank Valentino from xCenerex, the guys from To Ashes, to Wolf Down, Joel and his girlfriend, xIronx, the guys from Berlin SXE and all the Animals Rights collectives that support me around the world.
In jail, being vegan and drug free is really fucking hard. Drugs are very present in the day to day, not only illegal ones. Doctors

administer prisoners pills that make you act like a zombie, and if you give them troubles they make you take Lexatin (by force); that shit leaves you totally wasted, like a walking dead.

I’ve been writing lately about the problems of being vegan in jail, but here drug dealings are a serious problem. Interns are almost every day high or wasted, drugs are smuggled here without problems and are consumed and sold easily. I’m in a block (module 3) that is supposed to be designed specially to hold people with addiction problems, but it doesn’t work. Sometimes when I enter the bathrooms I can smell heroine burning, and really have to be wary of pipes and needles over the floor.

Sometimes you see prisoners talking and laughing alone, or screaming at something, or maybe they get completely paralyzed for minutes. Vomit on the floor and people with breathing problems are seen commonly on Wednesdays, the day we receive money from our families.

I can’t blame them. I think it’s their own way to escape from this shitty reality. Every day is just like the day before. We wake up at the same hour, eat, walk around, read and sleep. And everything starts over again. Some of them have lost their families, their wives, or people outside don’t give a fuck about them. Day-to-day suffering and living in a crowded place with more than 100 people is fucking hard. And this is a block that “helps” people with addiction problems. I can’t imagine how the situation is in other blocks.

On the other hand are the legal drugs. The drugs of the state, of the good ones, the fucking pills that leave you like a zombie, walking and walking. And the special pills for rebel ones. Now we have a pill for every problem, a special drug that can cure illnesses, real or not. And being rebel or stubborn is a serious illness here; If you are rebellious, you are sick, and the good jail doctors have special drugs for you. Being poor must be an illness too, as doctors here also have pills for those who steal. Fighting for what you believe in? Well there is a cure for that called freedom, but I guess it’s easier just to lock you up in maximum security (FIES).

Prisoners know about the drug problem. I mean, not all of them have drug addiction, some of them don’t even drink alcohol. For me, the smoke is also a big problem. Damn, every room I go there’s someone smoking. But in this block that treats drug abuse, smoking is not considered a problem. Just like a worker said to me, “to ban smoking would be radical”. But then there are all these prisoners with lung cancer, and nobody seems to think of the connection.

Here, when I say that I’m drug free some people look me like a weirdo. But when I say that I’m vegan (or “radical vegetarian”, like they call me), they look me like an alien. Some other prisoner said to me: “If you don’t drink, smoke, do drugs or eat meat… why are you even here?”

They don’t understand veganism, only two of them tried vegetarianism. But sometimes they do admire my drug free lifestyle. Some of them even thought that I was from some weird religion when I told them I don’t drink coffee.

I’m happy that, after talking about me not doing drugs with some of the prisoners, three of them have stopped smoking in front of me. For me that’s something great that shows they are good guys.

90% of inmates are here for two reasons; being poor and of course drugs. For selling, smuggling or hiding drugs, or for some crime committed under drug effects. Yeah, it is fucked up, but jail it’s not the solution. It will never be. Some of them even became junkies after they entered here.

This place is like a monster that devours people. A monster that was created by and for this system. One day jail will be something of the past. That day will come. But for now the resistance is the only way to make this day come.

No one believed the Roman Empire would fall.

Gomorra’s Season Ends! – Earth Crisis.
“From the core of my being come this promise to myself that I won’t break my honor before all. A one way mission through life. I won’t change my course.

There’s far too much to experience and accomplish to waste a precious second drunk or hazed. An effective revolutionary thought the clarity of mind that I’ve attained. I see it all for WHAT IT IS as Gomorra’s season ends in the grave…

In this self is all I need with this oath that keeps me FREE. To this I am forever true. I am Straight Edge. I AM STRAIGHT EDGE!”

It has been more than two months since I’m in prison. I was arrested with other friends for being part of Straight Edge Madrid. The government considers us a terrorist group. The reason? Being a part of the demonstration against the government here in Spain. For being part of the people that never left alone the ones who lost their homes. Me, like my friends, were part of the anti-eviction movement, and also the animal liberation movement.

They call us terrorists. They call me terrorist. But we were a group of friends that wanted to create a drug free space in the anarchist and antifascist hardcore punk scene in Madrid. We wanted to show that being Straight Edge is much more than expensive shoes, mosh dancing or stage dancing. It means to make a change. I use my sobriety for helping others who want to fight their addictions. I used it to fight injustice and oppression, to claim animal and human liberation. This is my crime, being a dissident.

I’m a FIES-3 prisoner. A maximum security prisoner, considered terrorist. I only can send two letters per week, all my communications are being listened and I’m always watched. I don’t want to talk about my sadness or my pain, if you want to know what is FIES you can read the book “Huye, hombre, huye” from Xosé Tarrio, another FIES prisoner. I guess in Deutch could be “hav ab, mensch”. I feel broken, but I have the support of my friends, my beloved ones, my mother. She said to me: “If you fall, it’s OK. I’m here to get you up.” So resisting is the only thing in my head right now.

Being vegan in here is really fucking hard, but not impossible. However, animal life in farms, zoos and labs is so much harder than this. Even if I must eat only bread and pasta I won’t support animal cruelty. Also I’m glad to be straight edge and not being part of this world of drugs. I won’t break the edge.

Greece: Attempted escape by helicopter at Korydallos Prisons

Secours rouge, February 23, 2016

This Sunday, a woman armed with a gun tried to divert to Athens a tourist helicopter that had taken off from the island of Kythnos and was to pick up 5 other passengers in Theologos. She aimed at the pilot and told him to land in the courtyard of Korydallos prison, where many political prisoners are currently imprisoned. After a struggle and three shots where no one was injured, the helicopter landed in a rural area and the woman was able to escape. According to the Greek police ballistics, the shots were fired with a weapon that had been attributed to Nikos Maziotis, a member of Revolutionary Struggle locked up in Korydallos. The police therefore suspect Pola Roupa, his companion and comrade still in hiding, of trying to help him escape.

There have already been two escapes by helicopter from Korydallos prison in the past, which were for bank robbers.

Authorities find cell bars cut at Korydallos Prison

Just a few days after a botched attempt to break Nikos Maziotis out of Athens’s Korydallos Prison via helicopter, a prosecutor on Wednesday ordered an investigation into allegations that several inmates were orchestrating their escape from the same maximum-security jail. Following an on-site inspection, investigators found that several cell bars had been cut and then disguised to appear normal. The cut bars were found in the same wing where Maziotis is being held. It was not known if the two cases are connected. Meanwhile, authorities said on Wednesday that jails across the country were on high alert following Sunday’s incident, adding that additional measures would be introduced to secure facilities against similar attempts. scummedia

Appeal trial for the double bank robbery Velvendo case. – Greece

24.02.16

Our appeal trial for the Velvedo case was set for April 20th 2016 in the female wing of Koriddalos prisons. The first instance decision was made in October 2014, when we were convicted for the double expropriation (at the ATE bank and the Post office) that took place in February 2013 in the village of Velvedo. The procedure of the first instance trial was for us a period during which we were once more able to become one with the world of struggle.

We were able to get away, even if just for the few hours each session lasted, from the asphyxiating world of prison and feel the objective force of solidarity. The constant presence of comrades in solidarity at the trial was for us a confirmation that even in a hostile environment, with the particular weight of the symbolism of authority being bluntly enforced, no comrade is alone. Therefore, after a procedure that lasted a year, the judges acquitted us of the charge of integration and participation in the organization C.C.F. and imposed sentences of 16 years for 5 of us and 11 years to D. Politis for direct complicity. However, although we are not accused with law 187A of being a “terrorist” organization, the appellate prosecutor Georgios Gerakis decided to refer us to the same judges that will try the appellate courts of the C.C.F. The cases of Volos in 2011, the armed clash in Pefki as well as the ruling for the arrests of comrades A.Mitrousias, G.Karagiannidis, K.Sakkas and S.Antoniou.

In a nutshell, G. Gerakis has referred five different rulings to a common appellate trial on April 20th.

For us, the approach behind this choice by the appellate prosecutor is clear, it is one more attempt from the side of authority to keep all anarchist fighters in prison for as long as possible, independently of their sentence. Practically therefore, what is attempted is an appellate trial, which because of the

THERE IS NO COMPROMISE WITH THE STATE! OSMAN EVCAN IS ON HUNGER STRIKE!

24.02.16

Despite the oppressions like exile, naked body search, cameras in cells, banning of letters and visitors, blocking vegan food Osman Evcan, didn’t took a step back and he has started his indefinite hunger strike starting from the 22 February, 2016. Because fear, submission and consenting, crushes the bodies under the heaviness of power of the state. State’s efforts to depersonalize political individuals with systematic pressures, should be smashed under Osman’s resistance. There is no middle way with the state who is establishing the policy of eliminating the prisoners on price-punishment order. Osman Evcan’s struggle is towards the authority. Only way to prove that he does not obey the authority, he does not accept the authority, is to setting forth his body. They can only destroy and divide political identities with murder, not with prison practices.

We summon everyone to share Osman Evcan’s struggle, who is fighting against state, surveillance and control, whether outside or inside.

Ýnsurrection is essential for freedom to come into leaf. Fire to the cells!

Hands off the Calais Jungle! solidarity action in london UK against Creative France event

23.02.16

Yesterday evening (23 February), in response to the call for international solidarity with the Calais Jungle facing eviction, 30 to 40 people stormed into an elite party hosted by the French ambassador. The party was being held in private members club “Shoreditch House” in the east London hipster heartland, to launch a “Creative France” business campaign promoting hi-tech surveillance cameras, robots and other gadgets. The event was scheduled to start at 6.30PM. About 6.45, most of the mob easily pushed their way through the main entrance, while some others came in through a side door. Security guards reacted late and a scrum ensued in one bar area, while some made it up to the event area on the 5th floor. Rubbish was strewn in the lobby area. Smoke bombs were set off, which led to fire alarms going off and parts of the building being evacuated.

After the initial scuffles, most of the mob were outside blocking the doors with banners and leafleting the crowds that gathered, including the kitchen workers who had been evacuated. Police cordoned off the streets around and called for TSG riot squad back-up to clear the demonstration. Just as the TSG arrived, everyone left together with no arrests or injuries.

In all, the event was shut down for about 45 minutes. One mainstream media article stated that the ambassador was inside the building but got out early. Meanwhile in Calais, so far people in the jungle have refused to move from the south zone facing clearance. Today (24 February) a judge will issue a ruling on an appeal against the mass eviction. Depending on the outcome of that ruling, and on the state’s response, the attack could start within hours, or the waiting game could drag on for weeks or more. In any case, may last night’s demo be just a small beginning in a cross-border campaign of solidarity: to put pressure on the French state and its collaborators from many directions, and make sure attacks on migrants do not go unnoticed or unanswered.

Below is the text of the leaflet distributed last night.

Solidarity with Calais migrants! No Borders – No Concentration Camps.

In Calais, the French state is clearing the “Jungle”, a refugee slum built on muddy wasteland. 8PM tonight is the deadline given to 3,500 people living in the “South Zone” to get out or face the teargas and bulldozers.

The jungle is a place of squalor and hardship – but also of life, self-organisation and solidarity. Refugees and volunteers together have built houses, shops, cafes, schools, libraries, churches and mosques, a women’s centre, meeting places.

All of this will be destroyed. Instead, France offers 1500 places in a camp of metal containers, fenced and guarded, with access controlled by palm print scanners. For the other thousands, nothing is said.

The people of the jungle refuse to move into a prison camp.

But this is not just their battle. Across Europe, the walls are going up again. Some of the technologies of control and surveillance are new, developed by the high-tech “creative” industries the French government is celebrating at tonight’s event. But the scenes are all too familiar. “First they came for the migrants ...”

This is the battle of all of us who don’t want to go back to a time of razorwire fences and concentration camps, of murderous nationalism and authoritarian “states of emergency”. Borders are weapons of fear and division, used by the elites to carve up the world’s wealth and turn us against each other. Against their vicious world of borders, let’s create networks of solidarity and cultures of openness ... and cut down their fences everywhere.

I’m in prison. This is something I must be able to confront. I’m not free, that’s a fact, but there is still many animals that you can liberate that claim for help, which are calling us to free them. There are many people that don’t have where to sleep or what to eat, and we can help them. There are many people that has lost everything and right now risk their own lives for a chance to start anew. My situation is nothing compared to those who live their lives in suffering.

I write this not to support me, but because I want my voice to be heard (or read) beyond these walls. I don’t want you to support me. I want you to support the animal liberation movement, the Earth liberation movement. Every action is a step forward in building a better world. To all of you vegan, straight edge, punk, hardcore kids. I’m here because in this world I only had two options, to obey or to fight, and I choose the last one. The hardest one. I’m far from my family and beloved ones, but I hope this letter can bring me near to all of you.

I know that what I’m telling you might sound crazy, but it is not impossible. If we stand united we can make it all possible. For all the people that fought against injustice to bring us the dream of a better world. For all the ones who are still fighting around the world to make all this happen. Only by creating safe spaces for everyone, creating webs of solidarity with other comrades we will make this come true.

I’m poor, immigrant (Peruvian), a “spic” (despective name for latins in the USA) for the cops. I’m Vegan Straight Edge. This world is so fucked up, but I still believe that we have the power to change it. Do me a favor, make this new world come true.

Lecce, Italy – Xylella: experts on provocation?

Translator’s note: early in 2015, in the face of repeated episodes of olive trees withering in the provinces of Brindisi and Lecce, the Italian government set up yet another ‘emergency’: xylella fastidiosa, the bacterium allegedly responsible for the withering of trees. This was the official conclusion, never confirmed or proved by any laboratory tests; and a special commissioner, Giuseppe Stiletti of the State Forestry Corps was appointed by the EU to tackle the ‘xylella emergency’. Stiletti decided that the only way out of the problem was the uprooting of all affected trees (so called ‘Stiletti plan’), a measure that began to be implemented in April amidst farmers’ heated protests. It must be pointed out that olive trees, many of which centuries old and stunningly beautiful, are the most crucial feature of the Salento landscape, and olive oil production is fundamental to the local farmers’ livelihood. Contrary to the official explanation, many locals believe that the withering is due to other factors such as the use of certain pesticides, and could be tackled without destroying the trees. The reason why the government invented a ‘xylella emergency’ requiring the uprooting of olive orchards, responds to huge economic interests linked to the ‘development’ of the territory.

In other words, the land where olive trees have been thriving for centuries is to be converted into construction sites for new tourist resorts, shopping malls and so on. However, the local population seems determined not to let it pass.

Journalists and police

A hundred people occupied the railway tracks at the station of San Pietro Vernotico (Brindisi) on 10th November 2015, following a protest against the uprooting of olive trees on the pretext of the so-called ‘xylella emergency’. The emergency was set up on the alleged withering of olive trees in the provinces of Lecce and Brindisi, an emergency which according to commissioner Stiletti is to be tackled with the uprooting of a great number of trees.

In the weeks before there had been two road blocks on the Brindisi-Lecce highway and attempts at stopping forced tree uprooting in several olive orchards in the province of Brindisi.

The block at the railway station, which went on from 3:30pm till late in the night, caused chaos on the Lecce-Bari track for over 24 hours, also affecting services to northern Italy, with thirty trains blocked on 10th November and at least ten more the following day.

Among the demonstrators, police believe they have identified a dozen people from Lecce, who had been stopped the previous week after a demo outside the migrants’ removal centre in Brindisi-Restinco. Over and over again, in the days that followed, the local press labelled them ‘infiltrators’ who had nothing to do with the ‘peaceful and just protest of Brindisi’s farmers, students and environmentalists’, but who were only interested in ‘exploiting’ both the protests against tree uprooting and solidarity with prisoners in migrants’ removal centres. The obvious intent is to divide them and isolate them from the rest of the demonstrators and mystify the reasons for their choices in the struggle. Among the press agencies, the daily Repubblica-Bari stands out by referring to them as nothing less than ‘terrorist suspects’. In response, the following poster was put up in some of the towns hit by the ‘Stiletti plan’:

No one knows where it comes from Or what its responsibility is in the problem of the withering of olive trees.

Xylella is the name given to a new threat looming over the territory, which on this pretext risks total devastation to make space for who knows what. But one thing is certain: where this xylella issue is heading to. Quite different to the bucolic and folkloristic view being sold to tourists, agriculture at the time of the global market dictatorship is an increasingly rapacious economic activity submitted to the rules of laissez-faire. Also in beautiful Salento, of course.

Globalization, super productivity and concentration of agricultural products in the hands of the multinationals are being shown off as indispensable necessities for development. Anyone who opposes this is primitive, anyone who persists is crazy, anyone who acts to sabotage the machinery is a terrorist.

But what is the development really for and to the detriment of whom?
In order to attain certain standards of production all over the world (preferably far from their homes) the big capitalists don't hesitate to uproot entire forests, chase out populations and devastate the ecosystem irreversibly. An example? The Niger Delta – a place originally very rich in biodiversity – has been devastated by drilling from ENI and Shell, which obtain petrol to be sold on European and American markets. The same happens in Azerbaijan, from where TAP [an international project for the implementation of gas pipelines between Azerbaijan and the Puglia region] is intentioned to extract and transport natural gas.

Also behind big agricultural productions there is environmental devastation and massive exploitation of human labour, until entire populations are reduced to total misery and forced to leave in search of better conditions of life. The grotesque language of power has named them 'economic migrants': these are the people who are made slaves as rural labourers or locked up in detention centres.

There is a dramatic link between impoverishment of the territory, emigration and the system of detention against those whose status in this part of the world is that of 'clandestine'. It is therefore perfectly logical that anyone who opposes the uprooting of olive trees can also consciously and resolutely oppose imprisonment in detention and deportation centres, as well as conditions of slavery in tomato and watermelon fields.
That's why you'll find us again on railway tracks and olive groves, outside the barbed wire of detention centres and in the streets, where we'll be reaffirming that the only real terrorists are those who starve people and deport them in the name of profit.
In a word, States.

Mexico: Day of Solidarity with Fernando Barcenás on January 30th 2016

27.01.16

We invite you to join, from wherever you are, a day of solidarity with our fellow anarchist prisoner Fernando Barcenás Castillo, who has spent more than two years in detention in a prison in Mexico City.

Fernando was a high school student and worker at the College of Sciences and Humanities Vallejo campus. He was arrested on the 13th of December, 2013, during the first mobilization against the rising of the metro fare. Fernando was accused of burning, at the intersection of Insurgentes and Reforma, the Christmas tree which belonged to Coca-Cola. Prosecuted for attacks on public peace, and belonging to gang and criminal associations. Since their arrest, they have been sentenced to six years in prison.

From prison, Fernando has done several projects, such as study circles and the publication of a newspaper ("The Canero") written by prisoners of Mexico City prison system. He has also participated in several self-organized prisoner initiatives, for example, collective hunger strikes. Throughout his two years of imprisonment, Fernando has strengthened their position and willingness to continue the struggle inside prison.

Show solidarity and support for Fernando on Saturday, January 30th and all prisoners in whatever way you are able.

Call-out for international support against Calais evictions and against the borders.

One more time, the French government – in collusion with the UK – has announced plans to evict the homes and shelters of many undocumented people living in Calais. People have until 20:00 on Tuesday 23rd February to leave the Southern half of the Jungle. According to the government, those resident in the eviction zone should move, disappear, be put behind walls, be locked up or deported. The only reason for this, their lack of regularized status. Eviction notices were served on Friday. Many inhabitants of the Jungle, supported by associations, served a complaint against the eviction and destruction of the camp. This appeal will be heard in court in Lille on Tuesday, 23rd February at 2pm. The judge presiding over the case will visit the Jungle on Tuesday morning. These are the facts so far.

The announcement to destroy the Jungle is not surprising to us. For years the government and the prefecture of Calais have systematically destroyed the homes of people without papers. For years undocumented people have been beaten by police and fascists. For years the sans papiers of Calais have had their possessions stolen or destroyed. For years people have been forced to live in fear and insecurity.

The jungle, as it is today, is a ghetto created by the French government after a series of evictions of squats and other jungles last year. It is not possible to say that this Jungle is either good or bad. There are people living together autonomously, in diversity, and in community but there is also squalor, infighting, racism, and violence. It is far from a utopia. In this case it is too simple to use the rhetoric of pity and victimisation but on the other hand it is also too easy to condemn the Jungle for its problems. For better or for worse the Jungle is a space where people are allowed to live. It is a space worth fighting for. This is a practical fight, to defend a place to live (though transitory, precarious, and segregated) but it is also a symbolic fight, carving out a space for undocumented people to live publicly and to not be hidden and concentrated within a container camp.

Right now in the Calais camp there are still more than 5,000 undocumented people. Many more are on their way. It is the political strength and spirit of the people in transit that shakes the foundations of the ordered state and challenges the plans of government, in a way that no 'legal' resistance ever could.

No "better" jungle is needed, no humanitarian solution can be found. What we need is to go beyond the European rhetoric of humanitarianism because with every purely humanitarian gesture we become apologists for Europe's colonial, racist, and never ending war against the outsider. What is needed is anti-capitalist and anarchist solidarity, the overthrow of governments and the destruction of Europe's borders. What is needed is the regularization of status and freedom of movement for all.

We have seen seven years of camp destructions in a relentless war of attrition. We must not be fooled by or perpetuate the state's false promises. In January, some of the camp's inhabitants issued a statement announcing their plans to peacefully resist the eviction, and now we must show them the maximum solidarity in their struggle. CMS calls for international actions of solidarity with the people of the Jungle.

We call on people to organise urgent action now and in the coming weeks against any companies, corporations or governments, French or British which are involved in the eviction of the Jungle and facilitate the repressive operations in Calais.

9 cars burnt in Mulheim, Germany, by Wildfire Cell – ALF/ELF/FAI

24.02.16

In the early hours of February 14th, we set fire to the urban-cemetery of Mulheim An Der Ruhr, burning nine cars by placing home made incendiary devices on the tires. To us all cars are equally disgusting and toxic machines of the techno-industrial system, so we burn them indiscriminately, choosing not to limit ourselves to targeting some abstract definition of "luxury" cars.

This attack was an act of vengeance for all the nonhuman comrades crushed on the roads of human "progress", and whose lives and homes are destroyed every day to produce cars for the smooth functioning of society and theaccumulation of power to the hands of the corporations destroying our home, the natural environment.

We chose to act one day before the original date of the court case for the attempted escape of Conspiracy of Cells of Fire – Imprisoned Members Cell, to stand with them until all prisons are ashes and ruins, and all human and nonhuman comrades are free.

We also send our greetings, love and rage to Monica Caballero and Francisco Solar, whose court trial has been set for the 8th, 9th and 10th of March for the bombing of two churches in Spain.

This is a gesture of complicity in the war for total liberation.

Italy – News from the court of Turin
Several trials were held against comrades today Febbraio 9, 2016 in Turin. Let’s start with the trial against Lucio Alberti, Francesco Sala and Graziano Mazzarelli, which we have had occasion to talk about many times in recent months.

As a solidarity demo was taking place outside the court, the hearing began with the judges’ refusal to meet the three comrades’ demand to have the doors opened to the public, as they were concerned about wasting precious time given many appeal trials scheduled for the morning. In fact proceedings were really fast: after the prosecutors demanded that the first grade sentences be reconfirmed and the defence lawyers that sentences be reduced for Lucio and Francesco and annulled for Graziano, the judges withdrew for half an hour then returned to the courtroom to read the sentences. Lucio and Francesco were sentenced to 2 years and 2 months, whereas the first grade sentence of 2 years and 10 months against Graziano was reconfirmed. We’ll have to wait the canonical 90 days judges have at their disposal to produce the official reasons for the different treatment. Given that the sentences were reduced by a third owing to the abbreviated procedure trial chosen by the defendants, Lucio and Francesco were formally sentenced to 3 years and 3 months, Graziano to more than 4 years.

In a nearby courtroom there was also one of the final hearings of the trial against Erika, Paolo, Toshi, Luigi and Marco for having opposed a police raid against migrants in February last year. We’ve also talked about this investigation, when the five comrades were jailed and later put under house arrest. After the witnesses’ statements the judges set a hearing for 17th February for prosecutors’ and defence lawyers’ speeches and probably the sentence.

Spain – Feb 29-March 6: Week in solidarity with Mónica Caballero and Francisco Solar

26.02.16

We call for solidarity with our comrades Monica and Francisco, the week of February 29 to March 6, to inform and make visible their situation! THEY CAN’T STOP US

On 8, 9 and 10 March 2016 the trial against the anarchists Monica Caballero and Francisco Solar will be held at the National Court in Madrid. The two comrades are more than two years in pre-trial detention. The charges against them are three of [property] damage, conspiracy and membership of a criminal organization with terrorist aims, which is why the prosecution calls for a sentence of 44 years in prison for each. Their arrests were the first in a series of anti-terrorist operations in Catalonia, Madrid and Palencia, operating under the name of Operation Pandora and Piñata totaling more than 40 people charged to be part of this alleged “terrorist” organization.

But what is this organization? The acronym of the Coordination of Anarchist Groups (GAC) are those that the police operations have used to build this imaginary organization. But what precisely is GAC? It is a project coordinating statewide anarchist groups whose intention is to help create a strong and cohesive anarchist movement. Coordination based on the principles of solidarity, mutual support and direct action. They have held public campaigns in support of persecuted anarchists, and in 2013 published a book called “Against Democracy” where an analysis of different political structures is performed accompanied by proposals, made under the prism of individual freedom and anti-authoritarianism, etc.

Anyway, the obvious fact is that in no case is it a terrorist organization, since none of the actions they are accusing Monica and Francisco of, or the other defendants in other operations, have been claimed with these acronyms. The alleged terrorist organization “GAC” is an absolute police construction to which judges and prosecutors have given credit, a good opportunity to discredit, criminalize and wipe out an ideology and practices that historically have contributed and contribute to the fight against power in its multiple mechanisms. Since long before the arrest of Monica and Francisco, November 2013, in a period of rising tension and social resistance in the streets, it has been seen how repression has increased against those who fight against oppression, including against anarchists. In this context they have also implemented significant legal changes to increase the repression, like the law of public security, reform of the penal code and the signing of a new anti-terrorism pact.

We have also witnessed how these changes translated into constant arrests, prosecutions and convictions of people struggling, we remember many processes opened like those indicted for the Strike of 29M, the Can routes, the case of the blockade of the Parliament, the 3 of Lleida, etc. but also those who dared to show their displeasure; Other lawsuits are for such ridiculous things as merely commenting on social networks or writing lyrics, even – so far confirming the joke about puppeteers that ended in prison for “glorifying terrorism” when they criticized the repression against anarchists.

The trial against Monica and Francisco, is not the final judgment, but a beginning that can grow a precedent that may affect current and future struggles. They are creating a fictitious organization where everyone has a place. What looks like a mockery of common sense ceases to be more and more as people fill the prisons of the Spanish state. The accusation of terrorism, or failing that of “glorification” serves as a kind of magic wand with which the state seeks to do away with the various forms of opposition to its omnipresence and repression. We call for solidarity with comrades Monica and Francisco the week of February 29 to March 6, to inform and make visible their situation! And of course, so to let Monica and Francisco feel that they are not alone facing this trial that wants to devour their freedom and their lives!

Freedom for Monica and Francisco!

and repression of the SHAC campaign. It will look at the importance of SHAC and what can be learned from the successes and failures of the campaign. There will be discussion of the use and effects of repression on the animal liberation movement and how this is affecting our activism today. We will learn about the importance of solidarity and understanding the role of the state when fighting dominant industries and how we can work differently to make our activism more sustainable and resilient to repression in future. The presentation will include the personal stories of one of the SOCPA7 defendants and an ex-prisoner from one of the earlier Conspiracy to Blackmail cases.

There will also be information on the ongoing SHAC case against Sven and Natasha, who are currently waiting to be extradited to the UK for their trial and face up to 14 years in prison.

Genoa – Solidarity with Carlo, a comrade accused of instigation to commit acts of terrorism

20.02.16

We receive the text of a poster put up in Genoa in solidarity with Carlo, an anarchist comrade charged with writing a piece published on informa-azione.info and accused of ‘instigation to commit acts of terrorism’ following his criticism of those who took a distance from the attack on Finmeccanica managing director Adinolfi:

NO PEACE FOR THOSE WHO WAGE WAR
COMPLICITY WITH THOSE WHO STRUGGLE WITH THE DECLARATION OF A SUPPOSED WAR OF CIVILISATIONS, THE POWERFUL OF THE WORLD ARE CALLING ON THEIR SUBJECTS IN THE NAME OF EITHER THE NATION OR RELIGION.
THROUGH THE CREATION OF PERMANENT STATES OF EMERGENCY THE STATE IS REVISING ITS LAWS IN ORDER TO FURTHER ENCASE THE REMAINING SPACES OF FREEDOM

In a climate of security paranoia increased by the massacre in Paris, an anarchist comrade from Genoa has been charged for publicly challenging the authors of a clothing, went up in smoke in the activity area of Albasud, in Montauban, leaving behind about thirty employees in fear of being laid off and a huge sense of waste. One month and six days later, the Montauban police arrested the alleged perpetrators of the arson. A girl of 20 years and her 19-year-old brother living in Nègrepelisse were arrested. Another young man of 19 years, resident of Montbartier and friend of the first boy was also held in custody at Montauban police station. The trio confessed to the deed.

During their hearings, three suspected arsonists explained that that evening they had gone to a restaurant in the Albasud piece that takes distance from the attack on engineer Roberto Adinolfi, kneecapped by Nicola and Alfredo, two anarchists currently locked up in the prison of Ferrara, on 7th May 2012.

At the time Adinolfi was managing director of Ansaldo Nucleare, one of the tentacles of octopus Finmeccanica, a company always involved in the market of war and repression, to such an extent that it plays a prominent role in developing international war scenarios.

The comrade from Genoa is under investigation with the charge of instigation to commit acts of terrorism, an offence for which the possibility of being sentenced is constantly extended by every post-emergency bill. In recent years other comrades have been struck by the same kind of investigation, and some have even been sentenced for publicly spreading texts, articles and communiqués that were evidently unacceptable for the State and its spies... the Forces of Order, intelligence services and the judiciary are using the new antiterrorism bills to extirpate any desire for attack for freedom.

Incendiary attack on a bus by ITS – Chile
We are the poisonous arrows that the ancients used against their prey and their enemies. We are the flame of the bonfire that warms in the cold. We are the pagan dances and cries in the name of the Unknown. We are the snow on the mountain tops. We are the virgin soil, free of civilization. We are the lava flowing from the volcano. We are the warning calls of the birds.
We are the quiet of the wolf stalking its prey. We are the strength of the ants. We are the wave that wipes cities from face of the Earth. We are the killer earthquake that brings down buildings. We are the wind

WILD NATURE!
We came out of our hiding place, like the rabbit comes out of its hole in the came out in plain

We frolic in the mountains, rivers, and meadows. But we wander in the city in search of its defects and imperfections, seeking all that is of civilization and human progress. We know its times, its hours and moments, the daily grind of civilization hides us.
This is a Declaration of War.
War against the Technological system, science, and the modern hyper-civilized man. We detest and spit on all of that. We cling to our most primitive and wild instincts; instincts which all the civilization and technology in the world could never erase from our being.
Guile, patience, determination, and daring are the ingredients of this war. It was in this manner that on Tuesday, February 16th, we abandoned a homemade explosive charge on the 210 Bus of the Trans-Santiago Route. We achieved the successful result of completely burning that machine of civilization. And it would not have mattered to us in the least if some bystander was hurt in the process. Our acts are beyond that foolish classism. We look down on masses, the people, or whatever you want to call them. We only care about ourselves, our people, and

wild nature.
Our fire / attack was in the name of all that is wild and natural. We contaminate their cities with smoke and disturb the civilized air. We do this in the name of all of the rivers, oceans, the poles, the fields, and forests poisoned by human progress. In the name of every animal species made extinct by techno-civilized progress. The moonlight of the night before filled us with the wild force of the universe. In its name, the name of the stars, planets, and galaxies, IT WAS AS WELL.

We are a sect of pagans, southerners and uncivilized. With our fire we will seek to attack the infrastructure of civilization, accepting the final consequences of our actions. With every attack we defend our instincts since we refuse to form part of the robotic mass that only cares about money or sex.

The Eco-Extremist tendency spreads from north to south, from east to west. We are accomplices to its ideas and acts, forming part of it. We are giving life to an international project against civilization.

The conflict against RWE Hambach forest – Germany

31.01.16

The conflict against RWE at hambacher forst has intensified with every day since the beginning of this new year.

Many individuals embracing a diverse variety of tactics have been hard at work bringing anarchic mischief to the mine.

Some elements of practical refusal from the occupiers of the forest include:

* The continuous barricading of the roads used by security and construction vehicles, as well as structural damage to the bridges they use with fire and pick axes.

*Tree-spiking and the placement of “potential improvised explosive devices” in threatened areas of the forst, as well as more and more barricades, platforms and tree-defenses deeper in the woods.

*The technological apparatus of RWE such as pumping stations, radio-masts and electrical transformers being set aflame almost daily.

*Sabotage of coal-transporation infrastructure, such as short circuiting the power lines running above the train tracks and burning of electrical components alongside the railway.

*Numerous attacks with stones, slingshots, fireworks and molotov cocktails against the mines security forces, either ambushed on their patrols, or directly confronted at checkpoints. Many of these acts have now been carried out in revenge for the attempted murder, hospitalization and subsequent imprisonment of one comrade on the 21st of January.

Of course this has not gone unnoticed by the cops, who have openly acknowledged the area surrounding the mine as “outlaw territory”. For over a week now, surveillance of the forst occupation has increased, with helicopters hovering above for some time almost every day, and sending groups of cops in riot armor into the forst. They also make many attempts to ID-control people who are coming to the forst from the train station.

It should go without saying that we will not be intimidated by the presence of some vans of cops, skirting fearfully around the woods.
Every time, the helicopter has been greeted routinely with fireworks, and one cop car which ventured a little too deep into the autonomous zone was smashed up, as was the vehicle sent to retrieve it.

Day and night, we lay in the woods, watching, waiting, ready to strike at any moment, and should you imprison or strike down any one of us, as you now well know, there will be consequences, here in Germany, or anywhere else in the world where RWE spreads its sickening tentacles.

It is now of importance to address that of course RWE is not just responsible for opencast lignite mining and deforestation in the Rheinland in Germany, RWE, its subsidiaries and accomplices are to be found everywhere. Their projects, their offices, their cars, their machinery, our targets, are to be found everywhere.

They are responsible for the running of coal mining operations worldwide, such as the collaboration with Hrvatska Elektroprivreda to run the Plomin coal-fired power station in Croatia, the lignite and gas-fired Mátra Power Plant in Hungary, where RWE is the 2nd largest competitor in the national electricity market, with shares in the ELMŌ/ÉMÁSZGroup, FÝGÁZ and TIGÁZ. They also seek to expand the development of the coal industry in the Asia-Pacific region with offices opened in Singapore, and operations based out of their offices on the 22nd floor of The Plaza Office Tower in Jakarta, Indonesia.

RWE also makes a killing (literally) from its part played in the increased development of the atomic menace, running and servicing nuclear power stations across the world, with the collaboration of the Technical Association of Large Power Plant Operators and VGB Power Tech.

And what would RWE be, without its contributions to the industry of hydraulic fracturing and the construction of gas-fired powerplants such as the CCGT power plant in Denizli, Turkey, with the aid of Turcas Petrol and Metka, or increased oil and gas exploration in Poland, under the banner of RWE east, whose central offices are located at Limuzská 12/3135, 100 98 Prague 10, Strasnice, Czech Republic.

RWE Innogy, the subsidiary complicit in the farce of greenwashing industrialism, which boasts of “renewable” or “sustainable” energy operations. With this approach,

RWE feeds the insatiable hunger of the industrial leviathan and at the same time satisfies the manufactured needs of those “benevolent” and “conscious” consumers, so that they too may spend all their lives in the glow of artificial light, staring blankly into screens, as they attempt to distance themselves from the harsh realities of the mechanised and systemic dominion that they depend on and contribute to, whilst at the same time sacrificing themselves upon the altar of the “green economy”.

With biomass power plants, solar, wind and hydro farms – all highly dependent on the same ecocidal methods used in their production, operation and maintenance, such as the extraction of rare minerals for circuitry and other sophisticated technologies and the burning of immense amounts of fossil fuels just to keep them in working order and fully integrated into the electrical grid – in Belgium, the Netherlands, France, the UK, Italy, Spain, Portugal,
Poland the USA, and many other countries (which are listed conveniently on their website, along with the locations of their offices and so on).

RWE are also working together with Siemens to build virtual power plants...
“What the fuck is a virtual power plant”
you ask?

According to RWEs web page “A virtual power plant is a link-up of small, distributed power stations, like wind farms, CHP units, photovoltaic systems, small hydropower plants and biogas units, but also of loads that can be switched off, in order to form an integrated network. The plants are controlled from one central control room.”

With this, Siemens and RWE seek to create an interconnected, easily controllable and digitalized electrical grid, so that the functioning of capitalism, and the smooth flow of profit and products can be managed with ease, by some cabal of technocrats, plugged in, locked away, working towards the total control and destruction and of the natural environment which all life is dependant on.

In the words of Siemens-puppet Thomas Zimmermann: “With this technologically leading system, RWE will be well equipped to meet the challenges of an increasingly digitalised energy world.”

RWE is also making major contributions towards the approaching technological singularity, which seeks to encompass all aspects of life under one suffocating, automated, artificial reality. With the aid of its research project “E-DeMa”, they are

From the depths of January 2016 comes a new torrent of all 8 languages (including Swedish and German libraries for the first time) currently on The Anarchist Library. This torrent includes all of the various formats including plain PDF, A4 imposed PDF, letter imposed PDF, ePUB, HTML, XeLaTeX, plain text source, and source files with attachments that make reading texts from the library easily digestible on various mediums.

You can find the torrent file here:

And the magnet link here.

This is a snapshot of the anarchist libraries as seen on January 18, 2016. If you are unfamiliar with torrents or don't have a favourite client, two options are qBittorrent and Transmission among the many.
Each archive is packaged as an ISO image. If you don't know exactly what to do with an ISO image, please visit:
The library torrent for our how-to guide. You can mount the files on your computer to keep a copy of the library permanently (forever!), extract the files to another location, put them on your e-reader, or burn the ISO image to a set of discs that one could use to start a distro for example.

If you encounter any problem with this distribution or have other questions and comments about the library, please feel free to join the IRC channel #anarchistlibrary on Freenode servers or via web browser here.

In other library news, the book builder feature has seen a huge update and is now more powerful than ever. These include:

- running headers
- cropmarks (this allows those of you who want to trim booklet the ability to do so with precision. It's also another step along the way for giving users the ability to start their own distro of wonderful anarchist literature.)
- custom paper size (and B series)
- new imposition schemas

And finally, thanks to Let's encrypt, all eight of the libraries now have valid SSL certificates, which means warning free https among other things.

working on projects such as “smart homes” and “smart meters”, so that each individual/familial consumer-unit is completely integrated into the automated capitalist-industrial machine.
Plugged in permanently one can use their “smart” phone to manage their levels of electricity consumed, turn heating and lights on and off whilst slaving away at some mindless job, simultaneously booking in appointments and sending “emoicons” to their so-called “friends” on disgracebook, ordering the latest automated vacuum cleaner to keep the prison-home sterilized, all from the comfort of your place of employment-imprisonment, working for digital money, to spend on mind numbing drugs and healthcare, and the latest distraction, all kept safe and secure under the surveillance of countless corporations, working hand-in-glove to spy on, collect and database every aspect of your life... all this for your security, all this in the name of convenience.

Of course this dystopian vision of the future offered by RWE and the nerds of the techno-industrial system is only available for those those eager to comply and bend themselves to the will of another, and those privileged enough that the increased development of this technologically driven society has not already landed them in prison or some distant mass grave.

We conclude this text with a call out to all cells and chaotic individualities tending towards the international anarchist offensive against power, for the direct attack against RWE, its subsidiaries, its partners such as Siemens and VGB Power Tech and their projects.

Our targets are everywhere. Opportunities present themselves everywhere.
From expensive, isolated and indefensible pieces of infrastructure on the edges of the prison-cities, such as power lines, substations, transformers, wind/solar/hydro farms and so on, which if destroyed will all have a wide knock-on effect, to the densely packed clusters of targets in cities, such as offices and groups of vehicles parked outside, CCTV surveillance cameras, telekomm masts and electrical boxes full of fibreoptic cables line the streets, begging to be sabotaged, shattering the hold of civil normality for a time, perhaps long enough that some will look away from their glowing screens and see the fire of chaotic anarchy on the streets. With a little research, the homes of the technocrats are uncovered, and their daily lives can be ruptured at any moment, their ostentatious cars burning on their driveway, windows shattering in the night.

With easily reproducible and simple methods elaborated in the numerous communiques of anarchist action cells, such as the placement of a single firelighter cube, or the indiscriminate application of bolt cutters, crowbars, rocks, hammers and molotov cocktails, our targets are all too easily destroyed.

Our targets are everywhere. Our tools are many, and the automatons of order cannot be everywhere at once.
In solidarity with imprisoned warrior Fledermaus.

About twenty new cars parked in a closed parking of a Renault dealer located in Thorez Boulevard in Avion were completely burnt out during the night, at around 2 am.
According to Dominique Ducarin, owner of the concessionary, it was a question of arson, “as footprints were found on the safety barriers.” “They went over 2.50 metre barbed wire fences. They weren't able to take what they wanted so they started a fire so as not to leave any traces. They pushed one car”, notes Mr Ducari who visited the site at around 2.30, while fire fighters were working with three hoses to put out the flames.
As well as the 20 burnt out vehicles, others were partially affected by the flames or the heat. According to Dominique Ducarin, waiting to take stock with his insurer, the damage could amount to at least 500 000 euros.

Santiago, Chile: Comrades violently beaten in prison

19.02.16

On Saturday, February 6, as the comrades held in Santiago 1 prison who work with Defensoria Popular [an NGO, ndt] are returning to their respective wings after meeting with their lawyers, a bastard officer shouts to one of the comrades to put his hands behind his back and pushes him, causing him to lose his balance.
Immediately the other comrades throw themselves to defend him and try to stop the official's aggression. At that point at least 10 screws materialize striking them brutally and kicking them for several minutes until Lieutenant Lagos orders five of them to be taken and transferred to the sector called “the freezer”, where they are forced to get down on their knees with legs crossed, hands behind their heads facing the wall, and yelling “this is the stick!” orders his henchmen to strike them, kick them and spray them with a stinging foam. All are brutally beaten, one is left unconscious, another with a possible fractured skull, one dislocated and all are covered in bruises all over their bodies.
Defensoria Popular presented a recourse to the court, denouncing the torture of the comrades by the prison guards. But we know that the field of the court is just one part, and that solidarity and support are always necessary.

Bloomington, Indiana, USA: Banner drop in solidarity with Fernando Bárcenas

20.02.16

From Insurrection News

Responding to the call for solidarity with Fernando Bárcenas, we hung a banner with words of support for our comrade. Fernando is an anarchist imprisoned by the Mexican state for burning a Coca-Cola tree during a demonstration against the rise of Metro ticket prices.

We hope that small gestures like these will accumulate and spread, contributing to an anarchist internationalism that seeks to destroy the walls of borders and prisons alike.

Against all states, against all prisons!
Solidarity with Fernando and all rebellious prisoners!

have not submitted to the orders of the bastard officials of the gendarmerie who just want to show their power, trying to impose a servile, passive and submissive attitude on prisoners, something that did not happen this time, arousing the fury of the screws.
We greet all the other prisoners who resist the hostility of the jail and jailers in a dignified way, heads held high. Strength comrades !!
In addition to this, we are making a call to solidarity, to show that our prisoners are not alone. Now more than ever is the time to act.
May no aggression remain unanswered !!
Let's return every blow to the enemies.

A man dead in Colnbrook migration prison. How they killed him in 3 weeks. – london -uk

19.02.16

Yesterday (Wednesday 17 February) in the early morning a man named Amir died in his cell in Colnbrook detention centre, one of the UK’s migration prisons near Heathrow Airport, managed by outsourcing corporation Mitie.

It took him three weeks to get like this while he was here, and he died.

That guy he came about three weeks ago. He came and they put him straight in the health care centre. Room three. Since when he came the officers watch him for 24 hours a day, maybe because he said he was going to kill himself. When someone says they are going to kill himself they are watched the whole day, everywhere they go. For the first week, week and a half he was fine. Then he was sleeping and snoring too much. He slept long hours. I believe the medication they gave him was not the right medication. Yesterday about 6:30 in the afternoon he came in from the yard, for the fresh air, with three officers and he was vomiting. The officer said he was an idiot. He was not an idiot, he was sick. Either from the medication or food poisoning. The officer said the nurse knows better. But the nurse didn’t know better. The officer she denied him everything, all night. He died in her name and on her neck. I promise in the name of Allah he died in the hands of that woman. Mr  died because she refused to call the nurse again. The nurse only came twice. When she came out she said ‘don’t call me again’. The officers complied with that. In the medical centre there is a room for each person. He was in number three. The nurse and doctor here are denying everything. There was an officer watching him 24 hours. The doctor came for five minutes. ‘Hello, hello, hello’ to everyone and then he leave. At 6 o’clock Mr  had some medication. Went out into the yard and then he was vomiting. I believe that medication make him sick. He came back in and his snoring wasn’t right after that. I said to them to check him because he wasn’t sounding right and I thought he might have a heart attack or something. I was told to look after myself and not worry about anyone else. About 1 o’clock in the night I heard him screaming because he couldn’t breath. She said to him – the officer told him to stop panicking and go to sleep. How can he sleep when he is coughing and vomiting and he can’t breath? They say he killed himself. That is not right. I’ll tell you how. He had nothing in his room. He wasn’t allowed to move from his bed, get some water or go to the toilet without someone watching him. He had no razor. If he wanted to shave they give him an electric razor and anyway he didn’t shave the whole time he was here because he had a big beard. He was vomiting because of food or medication. When he came to this centre he was fit. It took him three weeks to get like this while he was here, and he died. I saw his face it was all red and he couldn’t breath. Everyone is denying everything in here. 6:30 in the afternoon exactly till 4 o’clock in the morning till he died. 6 o’clock the police come here in the morning. They open our door at 8 o’clock in the morning. In the morning they don’t want me to talk to the police and they take me out of the centre to outside and when they let me back at 12 noon they lock me in my room immediately so I can’t talk to the police. The doctor and the nurse was not allowed to come in to the centre. The police were taking photos of his room. They came at 6 in the morning and left at 2 in the afternoon. Thats when they opened the doors again and I saw them leave. The officers watching him, they changed every one hour. They moved between watching him and behind the desk. The officer, she said to someone in another room ‘I’m not going to give you anything. Im going to give you punishment.’ He is going to die soon, he will try kill himself, he gets a lot of punishment from her. I don’t hear his voice in the day, he is very quiet usually, only when she is here he screams and shouts all the time. She wants to give him hassle and he has cut himself too many times, all over his face. You wouldn’t recognise him from the person that came in. He is unwell and she makes him more unwell. Always screaming and shouting – he smashed the door on his hands and legs. She makes him crazy, more crazy. Officers get paid to look after us. They lock us behind the door like the devil and treat us so bad. I’ve never seen this in my life. Me, I never ask her for anything because I know the result.

Trento, January 14, 2016, corporate media report concerning the arson of two mobile phone masts

from the corporate media

Two fires: the first at 18.30 in via Monaco in Spini, the second at 19.00 at Tavernaro. Two deliberately started fires that struck mobile telephone repeaters. No writings or claims have been found, but the men of the Digos [political police] have also intervened given that it is suspected that the act was carried out by anarchists. The first fire, at 18.30 yesterday, involved a power unit in Gardolo. The intervention of fire fighters and volunteers succeeded in extinguishing the flames within a short time. But half an hour after the first alarm, another arrived. This time it was the Wind pylon at Tavernaro, in the ‘Moià’ area. The volunteer fire department of Cognola and the permanent fire brigade of Trento went to the scene. However the efforts of the fire fighters could not save the antenna, which was completely destroyed by the flames. Following these attacks Forza Italia has requested the intervention of the Minister of the Interior against the anarchists in Trentino, that the newspapers are attributing the fire of the two-repeaters to. See informa-azione

I asked the officer how Mr  died and he said he killed himself. I asked how he killed himself when he is watched the whole time? He said he kept his pills and took them all at once. That’s not possible. We are given our pills by the nurse with a glass of water and they wait till we have swallowed them all. These nurses are really experienced, they know when you have pills still in your mouth. I have five pills and I was swallowing them with the water and one didn’t go down. The nurse, they waited there till the last one went down. It is like they are in your mouth – they know what is going on in there. Mr  couldn’t have kept all the pills. It was the pills that was making him sleep so much and snore like that. I am very sorry what happened to Mr . He was a very gentle man, really.

Israel: Tania Golan’s statement refusing military service

02.02.16

Tania Golan is an anarchist, a vegan, an activist in ecological struggles and a member of Ahdut-Wihdeh-Unity. She refuses to take part in the Zionist army. We publish her Declaration of refusal, which includes her reasoning and her social criticism.

Deciding to join or not to join the army is a political decision which everyone should be able to make on their own. I protest the law that threatens young teenagers into joining the army. I have no trust in authoritarian hierarchy. The army is a hand of the bourgeoisie, the government and weapon manufactures. There are those who profit from Israeli-Palestinian conflict and will never let go of economic control over the West Bank. These powers have created racism and division. Government spending on the IDF (which also comes from the USA) tends to grow from year to year at the expense of education, healthcare and welfare; yet there is no security – there are many threats in Israel. I presume, our fear is exploited as a distraction and prevention of profound thought. One can not build a just society based on injustice. I refuse to take part in a racist, fascist, discriminatory and oppressive organization. I refuse to take part in an organization which, for decades, holds millions without civilian rights.

On the other hand, there are people like us, with the same needs as us, who only want to live their lives. Arrests, administrative detentions, harassment by the army and Jewish settlers, wage slavery, no welfare — we cannot be safe if we give good reasons to fight us. The army, just like school, is an institute that performs socialization. As the main objective of public school is to stitch together the society into a monolithic entity, so the main objective of the IDF is not to protect the people, but to be a melting pot (Israeli slang for the army as the institution which makes people the same) that keeps the ethos alive and makes people adore itself, while it actually protects only the hierarchy. It is an institution with a clumsy bureaucracy, sectors that deal only with each other and have no bearing on the real world, and other sectors dealing with civilian affairs. This kind of structure is educating fresh youth into a dogmatic way of thinking that perpetuates the hierarchic relationship between the oppressor and the oppressed. This part of life is the final stage in entering adulthood in this part of the earth, between the river and the sea. I think that joining an organization should be motivated by personal desire and thought. It works, we can take as an example the Democratic Federation of Rojava, not so far away; perhaps we can learn a thing or two from them. They have no conscription laws, but, nonetheless, they have similar percentage of recruitment to the YPG and YPJ as Israel have to the IDF. If there is no desire to protect something, it probably should not be protected. I reject the reasoning in favor of joining the army: companionship, direction in life, experience, helping the community. I choose not to sacrifice myself to two whole years of rattles, humiliation, and oppression for nothing. I will not wear

Delayed Claim of Responsibility for Attacks in Brighton in 2014 – UK

01.02.16

Anonymous submission. Note: we have made one edit to the content, the author can contact us if they want to discuss this.

Words without actions are nothing but corpses rotting in the mouths of those “charming and sophisticated” ones, ever ready to smear and drown out the insurrectional project of anarchists of praxis with speech.

Actions without words will never be enough to address and confront our daily struggles for individual liberation and autonomy, for it is with both the pen and the sword, theory and practise, that one is properly armed to give context and coordination to our struggles, to share solidarity and proposals in the most unmediated form, the direct attack against civilisation.

When attacks against the world of power are not claimed or publicised, the potential for spreading radical discussion, tactics and solidarity between whoever is interested is negated. Thus the aims to build a reciprocal, polymorphous and dynamic anarchist offensive is hindered, and the knowledge of so many attacks are lost to the void of clandestinity.

This claim of responsibility has been delayed so long for two reasons:

Firstly, the initial communique was foolishly sent only to one website, and for whatever reason was not published.

military uniform, so I will not contribute to the public pressure to join the army. Refusing conscription is not a simple thing, but neither is joining the army. Last but not least, there is the social issue of justice. The army endangers the environment by spilling oil and sewage, getting rid of equipment by throwing it into the sea and ongoing activity which endangers the balance of flora and fauna. All of the above happens without the least amount of accountability, exactly as the army does with government spending. Using your voice, in any situation, is great help, and I invite everyone who has a voice to use it. Plainly, bad things happen when good people do nothing. Tanya Golan From: anarkismo.net

Secondly, due to some events around the time of these attacks, it made sense to postpone further debates on publicising our actions, for strategic reasons and to further develop our ideas and practises as individuals, outside of the temporary alliances forged in the context of struggle.

However, after almost 2 years of silence, I choose to lay my cards out on the table and do what i can to share these memories with whoever is interested, so that they may continue to inspire further action, as the communiques and actions of comrades worldwide continue to inspire and empower me in this war against society.

If my mind worked like a machine, i could offer more precise dates, but due to the time that has passed since the original claim of responsibility i instead share with you a combination of facts and my personal feelings and emotions which make up these vivid memories, in a rough chronological order.

CHILE – POSTER IN MEMORY OF ANARCHO-NIHILIST COMRADE SEBASTIAN OVERSLUIJ (PELAO ANGRY)

I do not offer “reasons” for our attacks, for anyone who truly lives anarchy needs no reason or justification for their conflict against all of the existent.

Around midnight on the 28th of January, 2014, I came across a CCTV and security installment vehicle belonging to the company Securesite, who i was well aware make a killing off of boarding up and securing abandoned buildings, studding the streets with CCTV cameras and make use of enslaved dogs to enforce civil normality and protect the wealthy majority of the city from those dastardly squatters, burglars, outlaws and other “undesirables”. Knowing which streets to take so that i may avoid CCTV on my day-to-day business, the attack was simple, i took a quick glance around to ensure that i was alone, picked up a big rock from a nearby garden and used it to smash the windscreen and wing mirrors of the vehicle.

Over the next weeks, either as individuals acting alone or small affinity groups, spray paint was carried nearly everywhere, the city was covered in provocative slogans, countless billboards were defaced and night time visits were paid to two churches in different neighbourhoods, covering the exteriors in messages of queer and nihilistic fury, and put in the stained glass windows of one of them with some stones from the wall surrounding the building.

Over 100 state and privately owned CCTV cameras were also destroyed in this timeframe, using a wide range of simple and easily reproduced methods, from improvised lassos, smashing with hammers, dropping bricks from above or simply using our bodies to tear down and destroy them. Determined gangs of thieves and individuals carried out well coordinated and extensive expropriations from high street shops on a daily basis, and thousands of pounds worth of products were taken to share amongst friends and keep our bellies full.

Then on the 28th of march, with the memory of our comrade and friend Darko Mathers burning in our minds, we concluded this phase of action with the spontaneous trashing of 4 luxury cars. We equipped ourselves with some nice “tools” found in a nearby bin, then quickly got to work smashing in the windows of a BMW, Merc, Audi and Jaguar – breaking the peace and quiet of some posh neighbourhood with the

Perugia, January 7, 2016: unexploded explosive device outside Banca Etruria subsidiary

17.02.16

We learn from the media of the regime that a parcel bomb was found in front of the Banca Etruria subsidiary on the morning of January 7, 2016 in the village of Ponte S. Giovanni, in the province of Perugia.

The bomb was blown up by the carabinieri bomb squad of Perugia after a client of the bank reported it at around 09:30. Inside the package – placed on the pavement outside the entrance – were a few cans containing nails connected to a battery with electrical cables and some fertilizer.

Obviously the “Victims of Savings Banks” association and Tuscan consumers association dissociate themselves and condemn the bomb.

Afiach Release Two Benefit Compilations, to coincide with Cardiff Anarchist Bookfair

February 18, 2016

In January we sent out a call-out for songs for two benefit compilations, we welcomed all genres of music and the response was so great, with artists happy to donate their music to help social justice groups. A total of 80 songs were submitted for the compilations.

The two compilations ‘If It Was Easy They Wouldn’t Call It A Struggle’ and ‘Prosecute The Arms Dealers’, are both officially released on the 20th of February 2016, to coincide with this years’ Cardiff Anarchist Bookfair.

Having previously supported the groups Stop The G8 in 2013 and Stop NATO in 2014, Afiach continue to see music as a means to help political movements – with these kinds of compilations we can raise some funds, as well as use music to start a conversation and raise awareness of campaigns. It’s always so exciting to get submissions of truly radical music from different genres, and put them all together in one place – I feel really inspired having put these recent compilations together. Hopefully these creative expressions of frustration with the system we are living in, will also inspire you to take an interest, get active and take action.

One of the compilations will be raising money for Stop The Cardiff Arms Fair, and the other for Cardiff Defendant Solidarity. Both these causes are very worthy and currently relevant. In the Cardiff Motorpoint Arena, DPRTE will be hosting their arms fair – they moved to Cardiff after leaving Bristol following massive protests. We hope the same will happen in Cardiff, so get involved in resisting the arms fair on March 16th 2016. Cardiff Defendant Solidarity helps and supports people going through the legal system, who need funds. Often for those facing charges, their expenses and fines add up quickly and adds more pressure and worry.

With 80 songs submitted, it wasn’t possible to fit them all on the 2 CD releases; therefore the full albums are available digitally on our bandcamp page. If you buy a CD there, you automatically get a download of 37 songs for ‘If It Was Easy They Wouldn’t Call It A Struggle’, and 43 for ‘Prosecute The Arms Dealers’. As we know most people buy/listen to music digitally these days, we hope everyone interested in the compilation will check out all the songs, as all the artists are worth checking out.

The ‘Prosecute The Arms Dealers’ CD features 21 songs around the subject of war, arms trade and unjust governments. ‘If It Was Easy, They Wouldn’t Call It A Struggle’ features 22 songs about prison, laws and (in)justice system. It was a shame we had to cut down the playlist for the CD’s, but generally songs were chosen for their relevance to the theme of the albums, and previous contributions to Afiach in terms of gigs and other compilations. Thanks to all the artists who submitted their music – super awesome stuff!

Donate or purchase online, share on your social media sites and come to the Cardiff Anarchist Bookfair or any other ‘Afiach’ stalls to pick up a CD. 100% of proceeds go straight to these groups.

About the “maximun respect modules” in force in Spanish prisons

The means of control inside and outside the prisons are becoming ever more subtle and effective. Why install video surveillance cameras, why hire more prison screws and cops, if so many do the job for free? Enjoying a strong sense of citizenship, they are there to maintain the existing order, they are everywhere: the possible informer might be your neighbour or someone in the next cell. One of the means of control in jails, respect modules (m-R), were launched as an experiment in León prison, then spread to the vast majority of Spanish prisons. The basic idea of these modules is that the prisoners participate in the management and maintenance of the place, activities, etc. themselves, to create a feeling of independence and of belonging to the space. Ideally, it aims to ensure that all detainees generate dynamics and forms of coercion against themselves and others. Apart from rewarding good behaviour prison screws are not supposed to intervene in this arrangement except in extreme or exceptional cases.

The former director of the Prison Administration, Mercedes Gallizo, alluded to such modules as follows: “The mere fact of reaching a life in common, standardised with basic rules accepted by all, is a fundamental change for many people. This helps them lose their fear of prison and their fellow prisoners. This is a first step to reducing their hostility towards fear [and by the way towards the Institution], transforming this fear, this lack of confidence and aggressiveness, into normality and cooperation.” The exercise of authority is therefore supported in the first place by the prisoners themselves, in “mutual agreement” concerning the bases to standardize and cooperate on. It is the prison institution itself that fixes and stimulates the creation of roles and behaviours with subtle methods and / or on the basis of blackmail.

That many are afraid on entering prison cannot be denied, but the m-R benefit from this and feed off it. For example it is implicit that if you don't respect the standards of m-R we'll put you in a normal module, and that can sometimes be a very effective threat.

These modules have different types of stimuli and / or rewards, ranging from favourable reports up to extra visiting hours (intimate or family), with on the other end of the scales more ways to punish non-compliance with norms. Entering this type of module is supposed to be done on a voluntary basis. When you arrive, you pledge by signing a kind of contract stipulating in particular that you will adopt good behaviour, that you will respect the rules and that you will solve problems through the pre-established channels. So any day in an m-R starts with a meeting headed by a member of the technical team (educator, social worker and psychologist). All prisoners must attend, and sometimes a prison screw participates. The meeting serves to solve everyday problems, this is the perfect time for assessment and the technical team delivers a pathetic discourse on social rehabilitation. Some of the unit's tasks are programmed activities or cleaning. The first are managed by prisoners who oblige you to attend, for the second (cleaning) prisoners are divided into small groups led by an accredited-prisoner, and it is this referent that directs the work done and in some cases acts as spokesperson.

Another important cog in the operation of such modules, is the prisoner mediators who must intervene in conflicts or fights between inmates to resolve them or, if they don't succeed, alert the prison screws.

As you would expect, these practices result in loss of the ability to solve problems yourself. In jail, you have a mediator or a screw, just as in the streets there are cops and judges.

sounds of screaming car alarms til the street was littered with broken glass and the shattered icons of wealth and prosperity.

Is it not clear enough already, that anyone with the will to attack does not need to wait for the correct moment? The new anarchist urban guerilla is no vanguardist structure or party requiring specialist tactics or knowledge, but a free-association of individuals who are ready to engage and experiment with anarchy here and now and create the ruptures in society that we wish to see.

It is with this claim that i raise my fist across the imaginary lines of borders and prison walls, to salute those uncontrollables, anarchists and nihilists, who without mediation or regret take it upon themselves to attack this vile technological society and its puppets with all the might they possess.

TRIAL OF BILLY,
SILVIA AND COSTA
UPDATE – ITALY

02.02.16

On January 13, the first hearing of the proceedings against Billy, Silvia and Costa accused of possessing, transporting and receiving stolen explosives and for attempting to sabotage the IBM international nanotechnology research centre in Zurich was held in Turin. Comrades from various parts of Italy were present in court in solidarity.

To support their thesis the prosecution presented two witnesses: Digos inspectors from Turin who had followed the investigations that began immediately after their arrest in Switzerland. Only one of the two witnesses was cross examined by the prosecution and the defence. Apparently it seems that the trial will be quicker than was said at the beginning, the next hearing was set for March 2 where the prosecutor and lawyers will speak.

For a complete hearing report refer to www.tgmaddalena.it

From the solidarity meetings in view of the trial there was a strong desire to continue a radical critical path and struggle against the technosciences. From 22 to 28 February there will be a WEEK OF AGITATION throughout Italy against the technosciences and the world that produces them. On February 26, a PROTEST AGAINST EFSA (European Food Safety Authority) in front of the EFSA headquarters in Parma, and many initiatives are being planned in various cities of Italy.

Parisian anarchist library threatened...by “anarchists”

Words of introduction by the translators (Dialectical Delinquents) : The following is a translation of a communique sent out from the anarchist bookshop “La Discordia” in Paris, which has been tagged and been the subject of calumnies calling them fascists because of their critique of Islam.

Various comments have been circulating the Parisian “anti-authoritarian” milieu describing both La Discordia and non-fides (which are not the same thing, despite some people being involved in both, some are involved in just the bookshop/library) as racists and – at least in the case of non-fides – as anarcho-nationalists. Anyone looking at either of them for longer than 2 seconds would realise that there’s not only not the slightest bit of truth in these slanders, but also that they have consistently maintained an internationalist position contrary to some of the implicitly nationalist stances of some of the “anti-authoritarians” (e.g. a failure to critique Palestinian or Kurdish nationalism). Whilst this graffiti might seem a fairly trivial incident, such things, unless vigorously contested, can have a miserable result far worse than a tag. A lie goes half way round the world before the truth has time to get its boots on. And in a world of lies, most people are ready to believe anything as long as it conforms to their prejudices – lies are taken on faith, and most avoid checking things out themselves (one only has to look at the history of Stalinism to understand how vicious calumnies and amalgam techniques can become). So, in the spirit of solidarity with these anarchists, I have translated this text, despite it being of interest to fairly few people.

As planned long before, on Tuesday, January 26th, a debate entitled “Islamophobia: the conceptual political extortion racket” was held in La Discordia. We wanted to confront ourselves and others with a topic that is at the crossroads of the current widespread confusion over the condemnation of racism and the defense of religion. The joint discussions were interesting, and the sixty or so comrades and companions who came (we promise, next time we will rent a larger place, and with more chairs!) demonstrated that a lot of people find the need for a revolutionary critique of religions, every religion, even Islam, which others would like to palm off as the “religion of the oppressed.” However, on arriving on Tuesday afternoon, we saw that the front of Discordia had been tagged, probably during the night. Some circled A.s (thank you!) and particularly poorly written and thought-out invectives (“fascists” and “racists”) in black spray paint. All accompanied by a leaflet of “demands”, asserting that we were acting as a vehicle for “Islamophobic and racist theories” and that we were “the drive belt for ideologies of power”, etc. Anyway, we’re not going to copy all their nonsense for you, which has given everyone a good laugh. If you want to read this, have a laugh with us (or attack us ourselves rather than the walls) at the library during our opening hours and discussions. The answer to these insults was the success of the discussion of Tuesday 26th but also all the others.

Long story short, the insulting (and difficult to read) tags were cleaned off in five minutes (in terms of practice, much has to be improved, kids !), the circled A.s will stay! Our neighbours also had a good laugh about your bullshit, since your exploits have absolutely no bearing on anything or anyone except yourselves and your smelly boutique. Incidentally, one more small comment for the brave taggers/comedians: If you have not been filmed by the DGSI (General Directorate for Internal Security) it’s because we took and destroyed the camera that watched us (well before the promulgation of the state of emergency). Everyone will appreciate the difference between those who prey (pathetically) on an anarchist library already threatened by repression and those who are prey to more serious problems.

No other tag has been identified in the area, neither on banks, nor on the police station, nor on the schools working with DGSI, nor on churches, synagogues or mosques. What a great revolutionary attack then, and against anarchists. If we expected “attention” of this type (we thought of something a little more “consequential”), this won’t restrain us from any attempt to develop, share and disseminate clear revolutionary forms of discourse, without compromising with any kind of power, including religion, and without remorse in our criticism of the compromises of politicians

“Individualists Tending Toward the Wild” (ITS) claims responsibility – Mexico

13.02.16

SECOND COMMUNIQUE OF ITS (2016)
Chikomoztok
Crescent Moon of February

“Individualists Tending Toward the Wild” (ITS) claims responsibility for the following:

January 28th, 2016
-A timer-activated explosive device against the “National Water Commission” (Conagua) located on Avenida Insurgentes Sur, Delegación Tlalpan, Mexico City.
This device led to police mobilization.
-Homemade explosive detonated at the “Secretariat of Agriculture, Livestock, Rural Development, Fishing, and Nutrition” (Sagarpa) on Avenida Presidente Juárez de Tlalnepantla de Baz, Mexico State.
The explosive was left in front of the Secretariat in the city center of Tlalnepantla, around 9 o’clock in the evening. The device exploded successfully leaving two people wounded. The blast and shrapnel damaged several nearby cars and generated substantial police and military mobilization.

February 3rd, 2016
-We detonated an explosive package in front of the conglomerate of the apartments known as “Tec Siuts” where students of the Tec of Monterrey inhabit, located on the highway Lago de Guadalupe in Atizapán, Mexico State.
– A homemade explosive device was detonated at one of the entrances of the Tec of Monterrey in similar manner on the Lago de Guadalupe highway in the same municipality.
With these two acts we remind those associated with that academic institution that we continue the War against all who promote and develop Scientific and Technological Progress, and who hide behind the walls of that abhorrent university (as well as others).

February 8th, 2016
-A fuze-activated package-bomb composed of dynamite was abandoned at the central offices of the Sagarpa in the Tabachines neighborhood in the municipality of Zapopan, Jalisco. The package was destined for the head of that federal institution.
-Another fuze-activated package bomb composed this time of a hard cardboard tube filled with gunpowder was abandoned at the “National Science and Technology Council” (Conacyt), destined for the head of that institution, in the Vallarta San Jorge neighborhood in Guadalajara, Jalisco.

Even though both explosives did not reach their respective targets (according to the press), and failed to wound or kill them, they caused great police and military mobilization in both municipalities. The press stated the following concerning this matter: “a police explosives specialist commented that even if the devices did not contain a large amount of explosives, they could have caused fatal harm to those who were within a close radius of their explosion.”
Let it be known that ITS is also in Jalisco. This was only a test, and we continue to be committed to terrorizing, wounding, mutilating, and even killing those cynical people who, while hiding behind an institution that claims to be “concerned” about nature, are nevertheless directly responsible for its devastation and domestication.
This isn’t over. The War continues!
Axkan Kema, Tehuatl, Nehuatl!!

Individualists Tending Toward the Wild:
-Feral-Criminal Band (Jalisco)
-Clandestine Group “Fury of the Lynx” (Mexico City)
-Ouroboros Silvestre (Mexico State)

Postscript for federal security forces:
Are you nervous because the groups that attack and commit terrorism against civilization are multiplying?
Are you nervous that the abhorrent and sickening visit of the Pope is just around the corner, because we are still out on the street, and you haven’t caught us yet?
You have lots of reasons to be nervous.

Pont-Saint-Esprit (Gard):
Fire in the EMI

17.02.16

A fire occurred yesterday at around 13 hours, in an annex building of the medical-educational Institute Barandonne in Pont-Saint-Esprit. About twenty firefighters led by Lt. Martin were on hand to contain the fire. The intervention required the mobilisation of two pump tonne vans, a vehicle with a nacelle and an ambulance dispatched from Barjac (07). The fire started in a room on the first floor, in the southern part of the building. Arson or accident? For the moment there are no particular leads. The military from the gendarmerie one of whom a technician in criminal identification, were also on hand to make the initial findings. A team of GRDF [gas company] was also the scene of the fire prevention.

The building is a former mansion acquired by the General Council of Gard. Since 1973, it has been a medical-educational institute for Wards of public education. Premises used for accommodation were then created in the park attached to the residence. The building affected by the fire serves as an annex and the floor where the fire broke out as a storage place for residents’ material. Catherine Charavel, director of the centre, explained yesterday that the fire broke out during the lunch break. The building was unoccupied. There was therefore no evacuation, nor injuries.

reactions. This is their use, which however is deteriorating very fast. Through delegation and within the system there is no future. The solution for the problems caused by capitalism can only come from revolutionary subversion and horizontal social organization. The destruction of the state mechanism, the expropriation of the wealth of the state, church and bosses and its self-management. Only in this way will there be an end of the looting of nature, our lives and the lives of our children. The incident of torture of our imprisoned comrade is one more attack against those who do not bow the head and as such it deserves similar responses in the frames of the multiform struggle against the state and bosses.

22 – 28 February 2016 / International week of action against the eviction of the autonomous social center La Solidaria.

La Solidaria is an autonomous social center that opened it’s doors in 2012. The building was occupied in order to serve as a tool to help practice our own autonomy and the development of the social struggle. Near the end of October last year we received a letter of eviction urging us to abandon the building. Just as it had happened in 2013 it’ll be difficult for them to beat us. We have defended and we shall defend this place, not just as a physical building, but as headquarters to codes and principles oposed to the relationships set by the State and Capital. It’s used to power another type of relationships based on solidarity, self-management, horizontality and direct action. We consider ourselves to be part of the social conflict, part of a bigger proyect to transform our current reality. To end this world run by money and create one based on freedom and solidarity. The press is already running errands to the State and the speculators who bought the house, they’re preparing the terrain for the eviction. We find the proyect in crucial moments, throughout the last week of February the final decisions will be made about the eviction. It is for this reason that we call for a week of actions in cooperation with this space, a week of solidarity against the eviction of La Solidaria. Every hit reaffirms our way and make us stronger! To the threats of eviction: More resistance! More action! Solidarity knows no boundaries. Keep their hands out of our social centers! amongst some sections of the “milieu” – on the contrary!
A thought for the atheist “fascists”, the unbelievers, who, from Tehran to Saint-Denis, are now treated as “Islamophobic” as much by fearsome powers as by this arriviste of the French academic petit bourgeoisie who knows only the racism of his own class, and has shown that his only practise over 10 years is the ability to write an illegible tag on the front of an anarchist library and to organize...conferences with religious authorities. A practice on the same level as their discourse.
Obviously, if one coldly assesses the treatment that the State reserves for revolutionary atheists on the one hand, and the racist / theological-compatible Left on the other, one quickly understands what can truly be described as a “drive belt for ideologies of power “: those it usually represses? Or rather those to whom it offers its chairs in universities and its management/cadre positions in its institutions (indeed, this galaxy is composed primarily of academics and executives from the middle and upper class, immigrant or not). No wonder then, that their political subject gives neither respect nor an ear to this post-modern brothel, as all recent uprisings have proven, which cared one iota about the convoluted reasoning of our pious academics, from Bahrain to Baltimore, via Durban.
Finally, thank you to all those who showed up and who will show up again. Also thank you to anyone with information about our committed artists who are somewhat cowardly because they are unable to express their ideas in the open.
We call those who have revolutionary ideas and practice, whether anarchist or not, to intensify the offensive against this new reaction, and express solidarity with those who find themselves in the viewfinder of these born-again reactionaries, taking up their share of criticism, which doesn’t require much courage. And cutting short the attempts to isolate anti-religion revolutionaries (so, is this no longer a tautology?).
Against all forms of power, against all religion and all racism, long live the revolution! Long live anarchy!

Belgium: No retreat: forward with the struggles for freedom

About the acts of sabotage against the high speed trains and an army base

06.02.16

About the acts of sabotage aganist the high speed trains and an army base

When darkness surrounds the neighbourhoods, immersing the city into a territory under siege – supreme affirmation of state power and its ideology –, it is easy to succumb to total resignation. When the trumpets of war and massacre are braying, crushing the struggles for freedom to leave only space for the fight between two powers that want to impose themselves, it is easy to think that everything is lost. When the media bombings are hammering the message of order, pushing all shouts of refusal and rejection towards the margins, it is easy to stop thinking by yourself and letting yourself be swept away by the bloody current.

And yet... This last week, the state has been aiming for a complete adherence to its values, threatening with brutal repression all those that don’t bend. Faced with the jihadist gangrene which has devoured, first and foremost, the revolutionaries of so many countries (Egypt, Syria, Libya) – revolutionaries which have courageously risen up against the regimes and for freedom, and which all the states in the world have preferred to see massacred with statist bombs or slaughtered by jihadist executions –, the state has been striving to affirm the triumph of its vision on the world: a horrifying world of capitalist exploitation and statist oppression. The state is now trying to decree that the only war everyone is called to participate in is the war between him and an islamist competitor, thereby attempting to bury the only war which we, revolutionaries against all power – be it statist or religious – are ready to wage: the social war against oppressors and exploiters. And the state takes the occasion to reinforce its repressive arsenal.

House raids around the clock. Tightening of the laws. Adaptation of the constitution to impose electronic bracelets to the ones threatening its order (and don’t think that the revolted, the revolutionaries will be excluded from their black list). More means for the cops and the secret services. Arrests in abundance of people without papers and rebels. And beyond doubt as well an acceleration of the militarisation at the borders and the construction of new prisons, such as the maxi-prison in Brussels. And yet... not all has been lost, the resignation continues to be as sick as it was a week ago, the necessity to think for yourself, outside of any canon, is the only possible way to demolish the ideology of the state and its competitors.

Two acts of sabotage took place in Belgium, two acts of sabotage during one single night. Two acts which announce that the fight for freedom can and must continue, here and now, even if the conditions are getting more and more difficult and the fields of confrontation will be less favourable. Two acts which show the abyss separating the state as well as those who think like a state (as is the case of the supporters of the new caliphate), both of them always ready to commit massacres, to sow terror to preserve or conquer power; an abyss thus which separates them from the ones fighting to break the hold that power has on all of us, those who go to the attack to liberate, not to subdue.

Two acts of sabotage, in the night of the 29th of November towards the 30th of November. The first one was a sabotage, on four different spots, of an international high speed train network (TGV, Thalys, Eurostar). By putting fire to the optic fibre cables along the rail tracks close to Ath in the province of Hainaut, the complete train circulation has been paralysed for more that a day long. A day on which the international delegates and the ministers needing to speed to Paris for a summit were blocked, a day on which the executives of companies, the eurocrats, the directors have been cornered in the station watching the screens announcing the cancelling of their trains. This act of sabotage shows us that by using simple means it is always possible to cut into the veins of power and its men, of its networks of transportation and data. And in the disorder thereby created, spaces are opened up which are not saturated by the speech of power, spaces where freedom can take a jump.

The second act of sabotage was aimed at no less than a military base, one of the most important ones of Belgium, where the Special Forces of the Belgian army and the military secret service are stationed, in Heverlee in the province of Flemish Brabant. Covered by the night, the saboteur(s) penetrated the base, avoiding systems of control and patrols, to trap five army vehicles with home-made fire bombs. The ignition system seems to have defected but the message cannot be more clear: you are occupying the streets of Brussels, massacring people in different countries over the world because the state orders you to do so, you are sowing terror with your uniforms, your armoured vehicles and your weapons of war, but you will never be out of reach for an act of sabotage. A single act has managed to ridicule the aura of the army and its grand master, the state, and this in the middle of a state of emergency. An act which somehow proposes to all who are sick of their wars to attack directly on the spot where they are produced: in the military bases, in the arms and security companies, in the technological research centres. An act which can only belong to the deserter of all wars, but who doesn't renounce the one of the social war against the war of power.

It is easy to abandon, but it is always at reach to continue. Faced with the war for power, lets blow strongly on the hot beds of the social war against all power. There are struggles going on which will face difficult times in the future, the struggle against the borders, the struggle against the maxi-prison, the fights against austerity measures and the capitalist reorganisation. Lets strengthen them so that they become points of reunion for the deserters, the indomitable, the rebels. And may acts of sabotage continue to illuminate the darkness.

Civitavecchia – FAI / FRI communique for attack on the court

06.02.16

My heart abhors and defies the powerful of the earth, my arm makes war on the cowardly oppressor (Rebel Love – Pietro Gori)

We are living in a state of permanent global war, the perpetual war between oppressors, we know it and we know the main and secondary characters of dominion. Above all the oppressed know it, those who suffer arbitrary power over their lives.

Right now we are witnessing the passage of tanks and military in the streets of the rich and opulent West, the increase in controls and garrisons in defence of the order of commerce and consumption, the militarization of the territory.

Changes that strike even the most dormant minds, but which the strategy of global control will try to make us digest. Among the exploited, gentlemen, there are two classes of individuals. Those of one class, not realizing what they are and what they might be, take life as it comes, believe that they are born to be slaves, and content themselves with the little that is given them in exchange for their labour. But there are others, on the contrary, who think, who study, and who, looking about them, discover social iniquities. (Auguste Vaillant)

We are not so short-sighted as to believe that this global war has such clear and sharp sides. Just as we recognize the enemies of freedom, we cannot bear the resignation and tolerance of those who are willing to give a piece of their lives every day. That is why we don't delude ourselves that we are working for any revolution, we see clearly that the only anarchy realisable is what we experience when we finally free ourselves of every burden and decide to attack power. An experience that we feel we share with comrades around the world participating in the project of spreading the F.A.I / F.R.I. anarchist seed.

Tonight we planted this seed in the form of an explosive device placed in one of the key locations of State repression dispersed throughout the territory: the court of Civitavecchia. We decided to take our freedom ourselves. We have sharpened tools, analysed tactics, because we thirst for anarchy, and we are impatient.

Courts and prisons are simply outposts of dominion; places that are not just symbolic, but physical, where the State and the authorities stamp those who do not conform to the dictates of global control with the brand of condemnation, guilt, imprisonment and exclusion.

While holy doors are opening wide to spread miserable feelings such as mercy and compassion, we are breaking down ideological and real walls to allow the real hatred that motivates us to be reconciled with the love of a free life. Today we acted convinced that don't want to carry the experiences of the comrades we have lost, like those who are locked up or on the run, in some antrum of our heart, but free them, leaving them to arm our hands, warm our flesh.

That is why our greeting goes to the comrades and prisoners who with their non-submission contribute to the spreading of joyful conscious subversion.

FREEDOM TO THE ANARCHIST PRISONERS ALL OVER THE WORLD! FIRE TO THE PRISONS !! BLACK POWDER TO THE COURTS !!!

LONG LIVE THE F.A.I / F.R.I.

Strength to comrade Panagiotis Aspiotis from Network of Combative Prisoners (DAK) – Greece

12.02.16

On February 6th, anarchist comrade Panagiotis Aspiotis is transferred from Navplio prisons allegedly to Koridallós prisons. In reality they transferred him to the isolation section of the metagogon (transfer detention cells building). A bit later it became known that the comrade, while having his arms tied up behind his back, got attacked by the cowardly hooded thugs of the anti-terrorist force who seriously injured him during but also after the reason for their visit which was no more than to extract a DNA sample. Later the comrade was transferred to the hospital for exams.

The whole story of the comrades' transfer was a well-staged trap by the mechanisms of the police and the ministry of justice, who for a while now were looking for a way to extract a dna sample from him. We would like to remind that the comrade did not give a dna sample when he was first arrested since there was a pause in police brutality and violent extraction, with the clarification in the law that the sample must be extracted "without violating the dignity of the accused" and "with the presence of an expert who the accused designates". This clarification was made after the hunger strike of the political prisoners (2/3/15-18/4/15) as a middle ground solution to the demand to forbid the violent extraction of dna samples, one of the many demands that were won, each on a different level. This legal glitch was violated during later arrests through the intervention of the special prosecutors and interrogators and the special authority the exclusion legislations (187A) give them. It is also important to remind that the prosecutor in Grevena had demanded the extraction of dna samples by the hospital of that city while the comrade was held in prison there. Then comrades were informed in time in order for them to intervene to a possible torturing that would take place in the hospital. Solidarians but also medical staff were on standby but the transfer did not take place after the comrade refused. Thus after a few months the state, with secretary general of the ministry of justice Eftihis Fittrakis and special interrogator Eftihis Nikopoulos as the frontmen, delegates the job to the anti-terrorist force by setting up the suitable trap for the torturing to extract a dna sample from the comrade.

The state once more violates its own laws with unprecedented ease.

None of us has the illusion that laws can function as guarantees of freedom no matter how progressive they are, since they are still laws of the state, rules for the functioning of a structure that is naturally oppressive therefore hostile. Especially when their function limits the oppressive ease, they are placed in the "to-be-modified list" or are bypassed from the windows or are systemically violated. In this case there is a small obstacle that limits one of the main weapons of oppression that is the arbitrary use of dna as incriminating evidence, which was violated blatantly and with excess violence.

In the hunger strike we had also defined the limitation of use of dna as a target, exactly because we know what an important piece of false-evidence it consists in the way its used. Its only use is to hold comrades in prison as long as possible. From the first moment of that struggle it became evident that no conquest will be a given and the only way to maintain our ground is continuous revolutionary anti-state and anti-capitalist battle. This is confirmed once more today. Someone accused irrelevantly if they are an anarchist or not has every reason to refuse the extraction of dna. The labs of EL.AS (greek police) are kitchens for cooking up cases and false-scientific proof of evidence. We have seen this in all trials, where without evidence only with a dna type that resembles that of the accused, the indictment is evidenced. Cops, whether they wear a white apron or a hood are the same protection dogs of the industrialists, shipowners, channel owners and politicians. They are all accomplices in every torturing of a person.

The scumbags of the antiterrorist force and the police are worthy descendants of Mallios and Babalis* in the times of a left coalition government. We wish them that their career ends in the same glory.

Those of us who fight have acknowledged that the state continues regardless if it's managed by the right or the left. Those who are in positions of authority must in turn acknowledge that the war from those below also continues and is consistent.

The neoliberal leadership of Syriza completes the social looting the previous governments left half completed. They pass in the social insurance law which will finish off, among other things, the small producers and redistribute the pie for the benefit of thefarming-industrial capital. They reinforce the banks with cash from the support packages and tie the economy even tighter on them with most recent indicative adjustment the mandatory use of plastic money inaugurating a society of absolute control. They decrease the labour costs in any way possible trying as they say to create an environment friendly towards investments, that is to say slave workers, landless farmers, favela neighbourhoods. In the field of foreign policy the state remains a member of NATO, the relations with the apartheid state of Israel and the junta of Egypt are strengthened and they take on the role of the mercenary border-guard of the E.U. New immigrant concentration camps are opened to manage the flow the E.U. itself created to a great degree. In the frames of domestic oppression let's not forget the invasion of the riot cops in the occupied deanery building in Athens and the arrest of the fighters who stood in the way of the extermination of the imprisoned hunger strikers. With a left government for the first time an ambush and torturing by the police is set-up against a comrade who is already a prisoner. The EKAM (greek special forces) enter and exit the prisons again and the prisoners are transferred and held in the metagogon in disgusting conditions.

The left management can allegedly do all that could not be carried out by the governments of classic social-democracy and the right wing because of social

Announcement

On Friday 21st of January an anti-fascist patrol took place in the center of Athens with 200 antifascist participants.

Our main purpose was to get the planned pogrom organized by the gang of cowards, Golden Dawn, cancelled, which is what happened.

On Saturday 22nd of January on the day a demo was planned for Imia, the anti-fascist patrol was repeated. A group of 200 comrades arrived at hotel Hermes located at Syntagma square, where squads of riot police guarded the "imported" Nazis Golden Dawn had invited for the anniversary, who remained inside and did not dare to come out.

ZAD (Zone a Defendre) Partout! Part of the series: Respect Existence or Expect Resistance February 11- Hamilton,Ontario

12.02.16

Near Nantes, the north of France, the massive corporation vinci has wanted to rase, flatten and pave to make another useless airport. The resistance increasing over the past decades, the 2000 hectares humid zone of agricultural land, forest, lakes and streams was squatted almost ten years ago. Protection of the land has moved hand in hand with living a rural life, autonomously and with anarchist principles. Today there are over 200 zadists living autonomously on the zone, together with cows, goats, chickens, medicinal plants, gardens, workshops and more.

The movement has caused ripples across France, with new ZADs springing up all over the hexagon. Three ZADs will be spoken of: the ZAD Notre Dame des Landes (against the airport and its world), the ZAD Testet (against the dam of Sivens), and the ZAD Roybon (against the Centre Parcs).

(vegan food starts at 7pm, talk+discussion at 8:15pm, documentaries can be shown if we decide!)

Part of the series: Respect Existence or Expect Resistance: A series of February discussions around occupation, autonomy and returning to the land (Western Europe)

The centuries of industrial civilization, where it began, lead Europe to fight over the last pieces of free land. More and more, the suits push to stifle the earth with concrete, lay to waste our rooted friends, disperse the wild ones, sterilize the water and poison the air with promise of jobs, development and a stable society. But as this frantic race leaves few areas untouched and old, the ones from the land organize to fight back. A way of resisting, anti-hierarchical, anarchist and full of heart, that retouches us to the earth, water, air and living beings, emerges from the clear-cut zones. A way to take back what is ours, to combine resistance with living the way we want. To take back the land that they want to control and sterilize, and in the process take back our lives that they try to control and sterilize. To organize our own interactions, grow our own food, heal each other, build what we need, to do so without power and with respect. Return to the land! We make our own lives!

26 February PROTEST AGAINST EFSA, European institute for food safety

From 12.00 to 17.00 in front of the EFSA headquarters Viale Piacenza – Parma

It does not suffice to change the world. We do that anyway. And to a large extent that happens even without our involvement. In addition we have to interpret this change. Precisely because to change it. That therefore the world does not change without us. And ultimately into a world without us.

Günther Anders

Dealing with techno-scientific power and its principal manifestations: biotechnology, nanotechnology, computer science, neuroscience is not just focusing on some aspect of this particularly harmful society. As Ellul wrote over fifty years ago, technology has made itself the system and mediates our lives beyond any will whatsoever. In this also the other animals and the whole planet are crushed and manipulated according to the needs of the moment under the technical imperative.

The techno-sciences are recombining and converging towards what has always been their ultimate goal: total control over living beings. Many wonder why we are paying so much attention to technology when the problems around us are so many. In a technical system like that of the present where everything is marked by the machine, technology represents the time, place, space that covers every form of exploitation. Sometime call it green economy, others scientific progress and yet others catastrophe management, covering the areas that once redesigned will widen the network where all the relations of power are developed in every link, such as the launching of a GMO or the manipulation of the germ line, from where there is no return. A struggle against toxicity cannot disregard the social context that produces it, is desired by it and rendered necessary for all.

This means that our criticism will fall into superficial common sense or pseudo environmentalism unless it reaches the actual problem. Power is fully deployed in every technological apparatus around us, a technological democracy that appears at every corner, oversees every intersection, controls every aspect of our survival to the point of entering our bodies, while its totalitarian essence remains fundamentally unperceived. A techno-power which, thanks to more and more nanoscale devices, is becoming more than it seems and starting to not appear at all. This week of mobilization is not to circumscribe a route or define boundaries, on the contrary we hope that these days will inaugurate new or reinforce past determination and the will to act. We think that each situation could use these days in its own territory to organise initiatives related to theme of noxiousness, especially that related to the converging sciences that are taking over the earth and bodies more and more. February 26 there will instead be a collective initiative at a national level: a protest against the EFSA (European authority for food safety) based in Parma .

EFSA is the internationally recognized body to which the European Commission refers to concerning toxicities such as GMOs, pesticides, chemicals and nanotechnology. It can authorize the commerce of GMO products and sows them in the open field for commercial and experimental purposes. Like the American FDA (Food Drugs Aministration), it is no more than a government arm of the multinationals especially biotechnology, where very narrow close relations allow a continuous exchange of administrators, scientists, managers and the inevitable technical staff: what better way to permit a capillary distribution of GMOs also in Europe. Thanks to contamination thresholds tolerated in food and seeds, GM feed, transgenic crops in the open field ... the work of spreading has been underway for too long. Europe has given itself a body called upon to guarantee the safety of every toxicity along the lines of the American FDA. To protect, as well as the interests of the biotech-chemical-pharmaceutical multinationals, an economic, political and social system that clings to the new bio nano-technological revolution, producing more and more environmental and social disasters that underlie techno-industrial development, of which the manipulations of the living are deadly.

We are not for the creation of a safer, transparent and democratic EFSA, which could never be realized even if one wanted to create it. A security organ like EFSA assumes that regularly harmful substances can be created and spread over the planet putting at risk its very survival. Just as a plant for the disposal of radioactive waste always requires the atomic plants of a war economy.

We totally reject this techno-system along with all its manifestations of death with the same determination and conviction whether they are used to create peacekeeping missions or to create war: their peace is already a perpetual war on the planet and all its life forms: already bad enough to put up a relentless resistance.

On March 2, at the court of Turin the new hearing will be held against Silvia, Billy and Costa, accused of attempted sabotage with explosives signed Earth Liberation Front against an international centre of research on nanotechnology in Switzerland of the multinational IBM.

For us continuing this solidarity means that we continue to hear the scream of a dying planet, which an ELF group in the US once wrote had motivated them in their path of resistance, not to be confused with passivity but with burning anger throughout the struggle.

Athens – Statement on the assault on anarchist prisoner Panagiotis Aspiotis for refusing to give DNA sample

07.02.16

Today on the 6th of February, our anarchist comrade Panayotis Aspiotis was meant to be transferred from Nauplio Prison to Korydallos for his interrogation on Monday by Eftychis Nicolopoulos. However, he was unexpectedly taken to the removal center on Petrou Ralli street where he was isolated and led to an area with no CCTV. He was viciously attacked by cops in balaclavas of the counter-terrorism unit who attempted to violently take a sample of his DNA. The uniformed pigs hit him on the head and hit him on the ribcage and the rest of his body. Eventually they managed to get a DNA sample during their second attempt since the first time the comrade swallowed the cotton bud they had used. After taking his DNA they continued to hit him in the ribcage for a long time in order to set an example.

Interrogator Eftychis Nicolopoulos, the counter-terrorism unit and the left-wing Ministry of Justice are exclusively responsible for this attack and we will stand against them. Let them know nothing remains unanswered from the people of struggle.

Saronno (Va) – Rotodyne headquarters attacked: action against the arms industry

We receive by anonymous email and spread:
“In the night between 28 and 29 January the headquarters of Rotodyne offices in Saronno was hit by a Molotov cocktail. Rotodyne develops equipment for the maintenance and construction of helicopters and warplanes (EH 101, NH-90, EuroFighter Typhoon), including the Lockheed F35 Lightning, designed and used by the Marines, the aeronautic and the US navy, as well as by many other NATO countries, including Italy. The distributors of its products, and the companies with which it collaborates, are Alenia-Airmacchi, Augusta Westland (Finmeccanica group), Aereotech, Patria Helicopters. Its products have been adopted by the Danish, Irish, Greek, Oman and Italian armed forces; by the Dutch, Swedish and Italian police; by the army, coast guards and the Italian navy. It’s impossible to remain passive in the face of those for whom war is a business. It is right to attack them before their products can contribute to causing death and devastation. To stand by without acting would have made us accomplices. “
